Young Woman Disappointed in Literary Hopes Said to be a Niece of Clyde Fitch.

JOKES THOUGH LIKELY TO DIE

Left Pathetic Notes to Family Saying That Her Life Had Been a Failure.

The young woman who shot herself Monday night in the Hotel Astor was identified last night at the Flower Hospital as Vera Fitch, daughter of the late Henry Fitch of Oakland, Cal. Two additional letters written by the young woman to her sister and an unidentified woman friend named Blanche were made public yesterday afternoon. They revealed the same despondency as the letter to her mother, made public yesterday morning.

Early yesterday evening, Dr. Bernard Hughes, house surgeon of Flower Hospital, announced that he would reveal the girl's identity to newspaper reporters at 10 o'clock. Soon after 10 o'clock a taxicab which had been hired at Curchill's drove up to the hospital. The persons in the taxicab included a tall man with a goatee, an elderly woman in black, and a young woman in a sky-blue tailored suit. They denied they had come to see the young woman who attempted suicide at the Astor. The man joked with reporters and hospital attendants, and said he had come to see a man patient.

Family Identify Her.

At 11:30 o'clock Dr. Hughes came down stairs with a written statement on plain note paper, partly in pencil and partly in ink. Here is the statement:

The young woman in the case is Miss Vera Fitch, daughter of the late Henry Fitch of Oakland, Cal. She has been spending the Summer at Atlantic City and came to New York a few days ago to visit friends. Her father died two years ago. She has talked in a manner which has caused her friends to remark, but which did not give them any alarm as to her mental condition. She was a member of a theatrical company, but has never been on the stage. She was dejected over her literary failures, as her greatest interest was in that field. But she had no other reason which her family can trace for her act. Now that her name is to be published, her mother who is prostrated gives out these facts, there being no reason for withholding information any longer. It was hoped that if she lived her identity might remain unknown. Positive identification was made last night by a member of the family.

"What was the name of the member of the family who gave you this statement?" Dr. Hughes was asked.

"I do not know his name," he replied.

Miss Grace Fitch of 1,570 Broadway, who is a vaudeville actress, had denied earlier in the day that any relative of hers had shot herself. Dr. Hughes said after he gave out the statement that he did not believe the young woman was a relative of Miss Grace Fitch. After the statement was given out Miss Grace Fitch was asked about it. She said:

"You can't blame me for deceiving you. My sister is a young girl. I wanted to protect her."

According to the information given out by the press agent of the vaudeville production with Miss Grace Fitch, sister of the attempted suicide is connected, the Fitch sisters are nieces of the late Clyde Fitch, the playwright. Their father was a Captain in the United States Army, and they are related through the marriage of a relative of their mother, to Minister Conger, who represented the United States in Peking at the time of the Boxer insurrection in China.

An operation was performed on the young woman late yesterday afternoon. The operating surgeons were Dr. Ralph A. Stewart, visiting surgeon of the hospital; Dr. George W. Robinson, and Dr. Bernard Hughes. They found that the bullet had perforated the lobe of the right lung and had taken a downward course through the diaphragm and into the abdominal cavity, penetrating the large intestine twice and lodging in the back.

It will take thirty-six hours to determine whether or not peritonitis will set in, but the doctors last night regarded the young woman's chances of recovery as very slight. Her physical condition, they said, was good. They denied the afternoon reports that she had been two days without food, and said she was well nourished. She told them, Dr. Hughes said, that she had not eaten since the noon before she shot herself.

The young woman was in good spirits throughout the day before the operation. She laughed and joked with the attendants. She was in pain part of the time, but this did not diminish her good humor. She consented to the performance of the operation, the doctors said, and her pluck and courage are factors in favor of her recovery, they declared.

Chose Quiet Hour at the Astor.

Late in the afternoon she said that her name was Alice Cole. She declined to give her address, however. Her levity in giving the name led the physicians to doubt its genuineness. Dr. Hughes said the young woman was refined, and evidently well educated.

"I went to the Astor to kill myself because I knew that it was quiet at 10:15 o'clock before the theatre crowds came in," she said.

"Why didn't you send the letters you had prepared? Why was it that they were discovered without any addresses on them?" she was asked.

"I wasn't sure what I was going to do. I made up my mind in a hurry, and I didn't have time to send the letters," she replied. The letters were found in the waist of her dress. There were three of these letters. One of them was dated Aug. 18, which led the doctors to believe that she had contemplated suicide for some time. One of the letters was apparently signed "Nora." Here is one of them:

Dearest Sister: Of course we disagree on this as we do on every other topic. We have both been headstrong. Unfortunately my disposition has been such that I could not always see things as some of my friends have. You never did understand me, nor my way of doing things. Now that our wills are about to clash, you may think more kindly of me. Waiting the last two years, I have several times been tempted to do this, and now I will be successful for the first time in my life in something which I would not undo if I could. It is hard to do this, but still harder not to do it.

Do not grieve for me. Though I have never intentionally said or done an unkind thing in my life, I recognize that my life has been a mistake—a hopeless mistake. Oblivion is what I want. You know how earnestly I tried to help myself and to be independent. And with what success? You, of all others, know that my life has been a failure. I hope and pray that blessings may fall on you like autumn leaves, and wish you every success. Say good-bye for me to all the other dear ones. I thank

CARTER SCORNS PINCHOT.

Senator Says Former Forester Is Absurdly Seeking the Presidency.

HELENA, Mon., Aug. 30.—United States Senator Thomas R. Carter, replying to a recent interview of Gifford Pinchot, tonight made this statement:

"Gifford Pinchot has rushed into print to shift responsibility for the distressing forest fires that have devastated so much of the Western country.

"He says that Heyburn, Mondell, and Carter are responsible because they opposed appropriations for forest protection. The fact is that the gentlemen named opposed the misapplication of the funds appropriated for forest protection. Reductions in appropriations were never urged except to moneys being applied by Mr. Pinchot to purposes apart from forest protection.

"The records of the office over which Mr. Pinchot presided will show that of the Congressional appropriations since 1896 only $1,795,000 was used for improvement of the National forests, whereas the extraordinary sum of $19,923,060 was used for general expenses.

"It will be perceived that about 90 per cent. of all the money appropriated was used for general expenses, including the payment for lectures, the payment of editorial writers and reporters, the maintenance of a Bureau of Publicity, and the general exploitation of Mr. Pinchot and his absurd campaign for the Presidency of the United States."

MIND A BLANK THREE YEARS.

Car Conductor, Stunned in an Accident, Completely Forgot the Past.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 30.—Edward Joshua Lee, at one time assistant janitor at the Stony Road school house, disappeared from this city three years ago. It was believed he was dead, but he has been found in New York City, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee of 161 Perry Street, have given up their home here and gone to live with him.

Lee was a conductor on the Hoboken line of the Public Service Corporation. Three years ago the car of which he was the conductor jumped the bridge over the Hackensack River and tumbled into the water. Several passengers were injured, but none was drowned. No one remembered seeing Lee afterward. It was generally believed he had been carried down by his heavy clothing. Instead he was stunned in the fall and his mind was a blank as to his past.

Lee reached New York and got a place as janitor. That work seemed to be the most familiar to him. He felt that he was fitted to look after buildings—that in some way the work of his past life was that. He soon grew proficient, and in tinkering with odd jobs soon learned the trade of a tinsmith. He finally gave up his janitorship and became a tinsmith.

Harry Moran of this city identified Lee, who had not altered much in appearance, although he had changed his name. He gradually brought the past back to the man, and by talking to him aroused his interest in this city and brought various things back to his memory.

USED X-SCIENCE ON HORSE.

Failed to Cure Colic, and Owner Is Arrested for Cruelty.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 30.—Martin Bekins, candidate for State Senator, was arrested to-day on a charge of cruelty to animals. He tried Christian Science treatment on a horse. The horse died.

Neighbors telephoned to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that a horse belonging to Bekins, who is the head of a big corporation here, was very sick. Special Officer Fullerton was sent to the Bekins corral and found a bay horse suffering from colic.

"I am doing all I can for this horse," Bekins told the officer. "I am treating it with mental science."

The sick horse was removed to a veterinary hospital, where it died.

"The reason I entered a plea of not guilty," said Bekins, "was that I did not employ a Christian Scientist to neglect the horse, as has been charged, but because I wanted to give the animal as good treatment as I want for myself or my children.

"A horse is as amenable to Christian Science as a child that cannot understand what it is told. We treat children through Christian Science. Why not a horse?"

THEIR THIRD RECENT FIRE.

Euclid Hall Sees Another Blaze in the Mendelsohn Rooms.

For the third time in a few months there was a fire last night in the apartments of Henry Mendelsohn on the fifth floor of Euclid Hall, Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street. The police estimate the damage at $2,000, but William Mendelsohn, 20 years old, a son, declares that it will be more than that, and perhaps as much as $20,000. The police stuck to their original figures.

Mendelsohn, who is a silk importer at 23 Greene Street, and his wife were at a theatre last night, and only the son and a maid were at home. Neither was aware of the fire, which started in a bedroom. Mrs. J. Strong, who lives above the Mendelsohns, smelled smoke and telephoned to the manager of the house. He turned in an alarm.

Many of the tenants of the big apartment house are away for the Summer, others were at theatres, and there was very little excitement when the firemen arrived. Chemical extinguishers were used so effectively that the flames were squelched in a short time.

On April 27 last there was a small fire in the Mendelsohn apartment. That was confined to a closet. Then again on July 3 there was a fire in a bedroom, which was extinguished soon after it started with slight loss.

CENTENARIAN A PEDESTRIAN.

Covers Ten Miles in 2:51, Followed by an Admiring Crowd.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 30.—Although two years past the century mark, Patrick Burns, the oldest man in this county, walked from his home, near Brookfield, to his son's home, on the North Brookfield Road, more than ten miles, in two hours and fifty-one minutes. He attracted much attention and was followed by a small army of admirers.

Burns has been in the habit of taking a walk each day, but never attempted so long a walk before. Burns has voted for most of the Presidents of the United States.

TEN OVERCOME IN SEARCH FOR CHILD

Who Was Asleep in Bed, Not Drowned in a Sewer, as Searchers Feared.

BOYS' TALE GAVE ALARM

And Firemen, Police, and Citizens Tied Together with Ropes Braved Mud and Gases to Find the Body.

Five-year-old Reuben Gelman and his brother Simon, aged 4, of 408 New Jersey Avenue, Brownsville, wandered away yesterday to pick wild flowers about a mile from their home in a sparsely settled part of Brownsville with their cousin, Eva Liebman, 4 years old, of 316 Bristol Street. The boys returned home at 4 P. M., calmly telling their father, Samuel Gelman, that the little girl had fallen into the main sewer that runs through New Jersey Avenue for nearly a mile to the Disposal Works, and thence empties through a flume into Jamaica Bay.

In a few minutes their father, together with the little girl's mother and half a dozen neighbors, was hurrying to the sewer, the two boys guiding them through the swampy district and finally pointing out an open manhole of the sewer at New Jersey and Louisiana Avenues into which they said their cousin had fallen. The searchers, by this time augmented to nearly a hundred persons by men and women who had gathered as the search progressed, brought ladders from buildings in course of construction not far away and tried to descend into the manhole. But noxious gases arose from the sewer in such volume that they were driven back to the upper air.

Some one ran to the Liberty Avenue Police Station and presently the reserves, together with the men of Truck Company 57, of New Jersey Avenue, were at the scene, busily climbing down the ladders. Each man, as he stepped into the sewer, slipped one arm into a running noose of a long rope, thus forming a chain through the labyrinth of the sewer. At intervals of several men apart some of the searchers carried lanterns to illumine the dark interior of the passage.

Around them arose a poisonous veil of gases that choked and stifled even the most smoke-hardened fire lungs among them. The water rose at times to a depth of five feet and more, sometimes compelling the shorter members of the dredging chain to swim until they could regain their footing.

Several times the whole chain was brought to a sudden halt by the staggering of one or more of its constituents who had been overcome by the gases. At such times single members of the party would slip their arms from the rope noose, and, in parties of two and three, help the unconscious ones back through the tortuous pasage to the manhole and then up the ladders to the air.

There ambulances were called from St. Mary's and the Bradford Street Hospitals, and two surgeons helped revive the men. Altogether six members of the truck company, three policemen and one citizen living nearby were overcome and revived. They were:

CARMICHAEL, JOHN, of Truck Company 57.
JORDAN, WILLIAM, of Truck Company 57.
LANG, HENRY, of New Jersey Avenue.
McINTYRE, JAMES, mounted policeman.
MILLER, CHARLES, Sergeant of Liberty Avenue Station.
NEUMOUTH, OTTO, Truck Company 57.
SMITH, LLOYD, Truck Company 57.
VOSS, CHARLES, policeman, Liberty Avenue Station.
WALL, DANIEL B., Lieutenant Truck Company 57.

All these, after they had been revived, insisted on returning to the sewer again and resuming the search. To facilitate the work, however, it was decided to divide the party into groups, each tied together as before, but each group attacking the search from a different manhole at intervals of several blocks. In this way, the dredging of the sewer was resumed, the searchers traveling over a distance of nearly half a mile. But no trace of the child's body could be found. It was finally decided that she must have been swept along by the sluggish current and carried out into Jamaica Bay.

It was now 8:30 o'clock, more than four hours after the Gelman children had reported the accident to their parents. It was dark and Capt. Rooney of the Liberty Avenue Station decided to order a night search of the bay at the mouth of the sewer. Before doing so, however, he himself went to the little girl's home to inquire for further particulars about her disappearance.

To his amazement he was told by the girl's father that little Eva was asleep, having been put to bed an hour before. Some children had found her wandering about the swamps near the sewer and took her to the Brownsville Police Station, whence she was taken home.

What Capt. Rooney said is not contained in the police report. He called the muddied dredgers off at 9 o'clock.

BODY SOUGHT BY ARC LIGHT.

Creek Lighted Up While Bronx Police Dredged for Boy—Found Late at Night

By the light of arc lamps hastily stretched from the plant of the Bronx Electric Light and Gas Company to the Westechester Creek near Zerega Avenue and Sixth Street, Westchester, last night, a dozen policemen of the Westchester Station, together with four from Harbor Squad B, and nearly a score of citizens, dragged the creek for the body of twelve-year-old Bailey Egerton of 1,869 Bathgate Avenue.

The boy with a companion of his own age had gone to watch his father, Augustus Jean Egerton, a civil engineer, who was building a pier there. Suddenly at 5 o'clock the father failed to hear the children's voices and a search revealed no trace of them.

At midnight the police abandoned the search after dragging the creek for five hours. Several citizens, prevailed upon by the frantic prayers of the father, continued. Fifteen minutes later, two of them, William McGuern of 2,051 Olmstead Avenue, and Henry Karlsteif of 2,348 Newbold Avenue, found the boy's body wedged between some timbers in the creek near Zerega Avenue.

No trace was found of the other boy, whose name was unknown to Egerton. It is believed he may have tired of play and returned home.

MITCHEL BRINGS NEWS FROM GAYNOR

Acting Mayor Finds Him Out Strolling at St. James and Nearly Recovered.

WON'T DISCUSS CITY PLANS

Says He Doesn't Want to be Worried About Its Affairs or the Shooting.

Acting Mayor Mitchel returned last night from the visit he paid to St. James, L. I., amazed and pleased with the progress that Mayor Gaynor is making. When he arrived he was greeted by Mrs. Gaynor and asked for the Mayor.

"I really don't know where he is," she replied. "He is around the grounds somewhere."

After Mr. Mitchel had been chatting for some time the Mayor appeared from the rear of the house, entirely unattended. The bandages were gone, and only a small piece of cotton wool covered the wound on his neck. He looked a little pale and appeared to have lost a few pounds in weight, but otherwise seemed normal.

He had no idea that Mr. Mitchel was coming and asked the reason for the visit. Mr. Mitchel replied that he had just come over in an automobile to see how the Mayor was, and the Mayor was quite satisfied with the explanation.

Mr. Mitchel explained that everything was running smoothly at City Hall, but he thought that the Mayor might be anxious to know if there was anything of special interest.

"I don't want to think of official business at present," replied the Mayor. "I have not read the newspapers and I don't want to think of public questions. I don't even know anything about the shooting or who did it, and why. I don't want to know at present. I don't want to think about it."

Mr. Mitchel respected the Mayor's wishes. He did not refer to the Coney Island situation, the Subway question, or any other municipal problem. He stayed chatting with the Mayor for an hour, and his Honor discussed the weather, the crops, automobile tires, and his farm. The nearest approach he made to public affairs was as his eye ran over his lawn and he noted its parched appearance.

"I wonder how the parks look," he said. "If they are anything like that in this dry Summer I suppose people will be blaming it all on Stover."

As Mr. Mitchel was talking Miss Gertrude Gaynor was seen from the window preparing to go for a drive in a runabout. The Mayor sent to her and asked her to wait awhile, as he would be glad to go with her.

Mr. Mitchel noticed a certain hoarseness about the Mayor's voice and at times a little difficulty in articulation. He was confident, however, that this would pass away, and in spite of the hour's talk he had with the Mayor there was no sign of weariness. He seemed to have picked up more in the two days he has been at home than in all the time at the hospital. He undressed on Monday night and got up again yesterday morning entirely without help. Luke Clark, the orderly, has returned to St. Mary's Hospital. Mr. Mitchel expressed himself as quite confident last night that the return of the Mayor to the City Hall is only a matter of a few weeks.

Another caller on the Mayor yesterday was Mr. Norton, President Taft's secretary, a neighbor, who simply came to pay his respects. After Mr. Mitchel had gone, the Mayor walked down to the village Post Office and then went for an automobile spin with Mrs. Gaynor as far as Lake Ronkonkoma.

James J. Gallagher, Mayor Gaynor's assailant, is getting nervous. He fears "Jersey justice."

Prosecutor Pierre Garven regards the crime as an unusual one, which should be punished to the full extent of the law, and does not believe that the prisoner is insane. He is certain that any "brainstorm" theories will get short shrift from a Hudson County jury.

The Capt. William O. O'Neill Post, No. 33, of the American Veterans of Foreign Service, Department of New York, have elected Mayor Gaynor to honorary membership. In doing so they have passed a resolution pointing out his services to the State, and declaring that they recognize that there are soldiers of peace as well as of war, and that the Mayor's courage and service have qualified him for membership in any such organization as theirs.

BIPLANE, SAID THE BENCHERS

Something That Flies, Probably a Kite, Visits Madison Square.

What the bench warmers all agreed was a biplane visited Madison Square last night. It came from somewhere in the east, and when its little social diversion was over, disappeared in the same direction whence it came. Several policemen and the janitor of the Metropolitan Life Building agreed with the bench warmers in the square that it was a real aero, because they saw it and heard it.

It was seen before it was heard. A whirring sound in the air caused many necks to be craned toward the Metropolitan tower at 8:45 o'clock. A long black object was seen flying through the air toward the tower. It swung past the tower, then described a circle around the structure and then went around several times more in curves a la Hamilton.

Then, as suddenly as it had swooped into sight, it rose and, swinging past the Metropolitan tower, was lost in the east.

The only coherent description of the visitor that could be obtained was that it was a "box-like" affair. No voice was heard responding to the greetings shouted at it, and no human form could be discerned in it. There were skeptics who said it was only a kite and the motor-whirring and the curves were imagination.

At the aviation field, Garden City, and at the Aero Club it was said at midnight that no aeroplane had been up after dark. There was, in fact, no machine nor any driver at present at either place capable of flying to New York and back, especially in the dark.

KANSAS COLD TO TAFT AND WITH ROOSEVELT

Insurgent Platform Almost Ignores President, but Enlists Party Under the Colonel.

FEW REGULARS IN COUNCIL

Senator Curtis Demands a Full Indorsement of Taft, but Fails to Impress Insurgents.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 30.—"We send our greeting to Theodore Roosevelt," says the State platform of the Kansas Republicans adopted here to-night, "and, as Republicans, we stand ready to enlist under him in the fight for human rights."

For President Taft there was only a cool congratulation on the passage of the railroad, postal savings, and campaign publicity laws. Kansas was the first State which insisted on Roosevelt's nomination for Vice President in 1900, and it showed to-day where it stood for the future.

The council, which takes the place of the State Convention under the primary system, is composed of candidates and committeemen chosen at the primaries. There had been much talk that the regulars, though defeated at the polls, had elected sufficient committeemen to rule the council and write the platform. The absurdity of such stories was shown today. The insurgents were overwhelmingly in control and it was a rampant insurgent gathering.

The insurgent platform, which was adopted with few dissenting votes, was prepared by William Allen White and others and contained these paragraphs:

We must congratulate President Taft as Republicans on the successful outcome of a progressive party measures in Congress; the postal savings bank law, the railroad law, and the law providing for the publicity of campaign expenses. And in this connection we wish to commend Representatives Murdock and Madison for their work in Congress pursuant to the instructions of the Kansas Republican platform of 1908 in modifying the rules of Congress so that the enactment of these long-delayed measures was made possible. We wish to commend Senator Bristow for his hard and efficient work to carry out successfully his platform pledge to secure the enactment of the well-known long and short haul clause in the inter-State commerce law.

We pledge anew our loyalty to the Republican National platform of 1908, and bind ourselves to carry out its declarations, accepting the policy of protection as outlined in our party platform as the established policy of the Nation and binding our members of Congress in both houses to vote steadfastly and without reference to any other instructions for a revision of the tariff law of 1909, using as a basis for fixing duties the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, with a reasonable profit for American manufacturers.

We do not recognize the revision of the tariff of 1909 as a satisfactory fulfillment of the tariff pledge of the Republican platform. We therefore pledge the people of Kansas and our Republican Senators and Congressmen to work and vote for legislation that will create an independent non-partisan tariff commission to ascertain accurately the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad and immediately to fix the duties on the basis of this information.

We pledge our Senators and Representatives to vote for a joint resolution that will promote the revision of the tariff, one schedule at a time.

We demand the strictest enforcement of the anti-trust laws and enactment of a law providing a jail sentence for willful violation of the anti-trust laws.

We send our greeting to Theodore Roosevelt, the new world's champion of the rights of man in the world—old contest between rising humanity and the encroachments of special privilege. And as Republicans we stand ready to enlist under his banner in the fight for human rights.

The expected fight over the indorsement of the Administration of President Taft this afternoon did not come. Senator Curtis indicated this morning that some thunderbolts would be hurled unless his resolution calling for an unqualified indorsement of the National Administration was embodied in the platform. The Committee on Resolutions, however, rejected the Curtis resolution, and when the platform came before the council there was not even a skirmish. All the senior Senator did was to ask that all planks referring to National matters be voted upon as one plank, while the State planks be considered separately. Upon this he asked a roll call, but was unable to get the requisite one-fifth of the members to join him in his request.

Every pledge in the platform was received with boisterous applause, but the greeting to Col. Roosevelt brought the council to its feet. When the Colonel's name was heard the reading had to stop while the throng cheered and cheered again.

DOLLIVER BOOMS ROOSEVELT

Says He Will Again Write Messages to Congress After 1912.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Aug. 30.—That former President Roosevelt would be the insurgent candidate for President in 1912 was intimated by United States Senator J. P. Dolliver of Iowa in the course of an address here when he spoke in behalf of the renomination of Senator La Follette at the primaries on Tuesday next.

The reference to the former President was very brief. With a smile, Senator Dolliver said that Col. Roosevelt would again be writing messages to Congress after the 1912 election.

BEAR ALARMS RICH FOLK.

Hunt On for One Near Percy Rockefeller's Connecticut Home.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 30.—Diligent search was made to-day, and is being continued to-night by parties with lanterns and guns through the woods which surround the New York Summer colony of Rock Ridge, the Summer home of Percy Rockefeller, William H. Rockefeller, J. W. Masury, Max Wallerstein, George Lader, Jr., and many other prominent persons for a bear that is terrorizing that part of the country. The animal's tracks have been found at several places, but have always been lost by men and dogs. The dwellers in that vicinity have kept a sharp eye on their children, and at nightfall they carefully bolt their doors, many foregoing the pleasure of sitting on their verandas for fear of bruin.

The animal was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. George Cronk at the Bowlders, the estate of C. W. Post, the cereal manufacturer. Mr. Cronk is Superintendent of the place which is being occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Close, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. Post. Mr. and Mrs. Cronk were returning from a buggy ride and as they neared the house they saw something curled up in the road which they at first mistook for a man. When they reached the creature it sprang up with a snarl and ambled off through the shrubbery.

Later in the day a band of gypsies came around and inquired for a bear which, they said, had escaped from them.

STILL MORE TUNNEL DELAY.

McDonald Thinks It Will Be Some Time Before Digging New One Begins.

John B. McDonald, the Subway contractor, who has been in Europe for several weeks, most of the time at Carlsbad, arrived home yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. He said he had not kept closely in touch with the transit situation in New York, but from what information he had he thought that it would be some time before the question of more subways for New York is finally settled and work of digging the tunnels begun.

Mr. McDonald referred to the early opening of the Pennsylvania Terminal in New York and said that this would add about 200,000 people a day for the transit lines to handle. The facilities now available, he thinks, are greatly insufficient. In addition to recuperating at Carlsbad, he said more Americans made visits to Berlin and Paris than ever before.

PERUGIA, Aug. 30.—The historic seminary here has been closed by order of Pope Pius. It has been described as the last refuge of Liberal Catholicism in Italy.

Earth Shock Lasting Three Seconds Alarms Newport, N. H.—No Damage.

NEWPORT, N. H., Aug. 30.—An earthshock caused considerable excitement in this section of New Hampshire this morning, but did no damage. Residents here felt a distinct trembling of the earth, and dishes rattled on the shelves of houses.

The shock came at about 9:30 A. M. and lasted for three seconds. It was accompanied by a loud noise resembling thunder. The whole region about Lake Sunapee was shaken, and the Summer cottagers were somewhat alarmed.

TWO KILLED BY A TORNADO.

North Dakota Town Almost Wrecked —Kansas Also Suffers.

HEATON, N. D., Aug. 30.—H. O. Thorbinson and the infant child of Albert Alsson, are dead as the result of the tornado which nearly wrecked this town yesterday. A. R. Hubert was seriously hurt and scores of others painfully injured. The property loss will exceed $100,000.

SMITH CENTRE, Kan., Aug. 30.—A small tornado, accompanied by a terrific hailstorm, laid waste an area a mile wide and about ten miles north of here last night. Houses and barns were lifted from their foundations. No one was injured.

GULF STORM INCREASES.

Government Launch May Be Lost—Coast Points Are Cut Off.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 30.—The Gulf storm, which has been sweeping in shore along the western coast of Texas since yesterday increased in severity this afternoon, and shows little indications of abating. Point Isabel and Brazos de Santiago Pass, where the brunt of the wind was felt, are cut off from communication with Brownsville, but before the wires failed this afternoon several substantial buildings were reported unroofed, a number of Mexican huts had been wrecked, and other minor damage done.

Fears are entertained for the safety of the Government gasoline launch Florence, with Engineer E. M. Hartick, Junior Engineers N. J. Blackburn and P. H. Smith, both of Galveston, and a crew of five aboard. The last heard of the boat it was heading for Brazos Island.

Near Point Isabel several large fishing smacks are reported beached.

FAILS TO BRING BACK GIRL.

Police Alarm Out for Supposed Charity Agent and Child She Took on a Picnic.

Mrs. Dora Greenstein of 1,651 Bathgate Avenue, the Bronx, complained to the police yesterday that a well-dressed woman, claiming to represent a charity organization, had taken her little girl away to a picnic last Friday and had failed to bring her back.

Mrs. Greenstein said she had never seen the woman before, but consented that her daughter go with her for the day provided she would bring her home early and take good care of her. The missing child, whose name is Mary, is 10 years old, weighs 60 pounds, has dark hair and eyes, and was dressed entirely in white. Mrs. Greenstein furnished the police a description of the woman and a general alarm has been sent out for both her and the little girl.

CALLS BANKRUPT LAW FARCE.

Court and Referees' Charges Eat Up All Assets, Shoe Dealers Are Told.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—At the convention of the State Retail Shoe Dealers' Association here to-day Secretary George Beusinger of Buffalo said that the treatment of bankrupts under the present law is a farce, robbery, and disgrace.

"The law is made by lawyers for lawyers, courts, and attachés, and," he added, "the referee's and court charges eat up nearly all the assets of a bankrupt."

A proposition to form a National association was discussed, and steps may be taken to carry this out.

CANNOT PAY FIRE FIGHTERS.

Congress Must Provide for Men Made Idle by Injuries.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—As a result of a conference between Acting Secretary Hays of the Department of Agriculture and Acting Forester Potter it was decided to-day that the fire fighters injured while employed to subdue the forest fires in the Rocky Mountain region could not be paid for the periods during which they were confined in hospitals. This is in line with previous rulings of Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture concerning the fighting of forest fires.

Acting Secretary Hays advised President Taft to-day that no relief was in sight for the injured men until Congress convenes and makes an appropriation.

ROOSEVELT FORCES PLAN THEIR FIGHT

WILL PRESENT THE COLONEL

And Will Demand a Direct Nominations Plan—Result of a Council of War in Griscom's Office.

After a conference held yesterday between Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the New York County Republican Committee and leader of the Roosevelt forces in the fight on the Old Guard, and some leaders from up-State and from Brooklyn, it was decided that the name of Col. Roosevelt should go before the Republican State Convention for the Temporary Chairmanship.

Postmaster Fred Greiner of Buffalo, the Republican leader of Erie County; ex-Mayor Cutler of Rochester, Senator Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida, Naval Officer Frederick R. H. Kracke, and Darwin R. James, President of the Young Republican Club of Brooklyn, Senator George B. Agnew, and Collector William Loeb, Jr., took part in the conference, which was held at Mr. Griscom's office downtown. This formal announcement was made after it adjourned:

"Mr. Greiner, Mr. Kracke, and Mr. Griscom are agreed that Mr. Roosevelt's name shall be presented to the coming State Convention as a candidate for temporary Chairman, and also that they will use their best endeavors to have included in the party platform a direct nominations plank."

After the meeting one of the conferrees made the positive assertion that in the fight before the convention on the question whether Col. Roosevelt or Vice President James S. Sherman, whom the Republican State Committee has already selected, shall deliver the "keynote speech," the delegation from Mr. Sherman's Congressional district will be divided. It was even intimated that a majority of the delegation from the Oneida-Herkimer District, where Mr. Sherman is the leader of the Republican regulars, may not support the Vice President for the post of temporary Chairman.

Won't Call State Committee.

The presentation of Mr. Roosevelt's name to the convention itself was decided upon after a plan suggested by some of the leaders had been dropped. This was that a special meeting of the State Committee should be called to reverse the action taken at the memorable meeting at which Col. Roosevelt was turned down and Vice President Sherman was elected just two weeks ago. Mr. Greiner and some of the leaders in Western New York, who had been prevailed upon to hand in proxies in blank to State Chairman Woodruff after it had been represented to them that the committee would not undertake to do anything except to issue the formal call for the State Convention, have expressed themselves in favor of such a meeting.

Whether the plan was dropped because the Roosevelt leaders fear that they cannot muster up the necessary majority of the committee to compel the calling of an extra meeting, or whether they prefer to have the matter settled in the open on the floor of the convention so as to render the victory they expect to win more impressive, none of the conferrees would say.

The presentation of the Colonel's name before the body of delegates and the presence of Col. Roosevelt himself as one of the delegates from his Congressional district on Long Island are certain to render the coming convention one of the most interesting in the history of the Republican Party in this State. William Barnes, Jr., of Albany has already declared that he will be on hand to take issue with the Colonel personally, both on the temporary Chairmanship and on the question of direct primaries, and that he will hold the convention for a week if he is able to, and go down fighting if he cannot carry his point.

Estimating the Vote.

The leaders who conferred yesterday were taking careful inventory of their assets. As they disbanded Mr. Griscom expressed himself more than confident that the progressives fighting under the Roosevelt banner would control the Convention by an ample majority. Mr. Griscom said that every report from up-State made the outlook better. Mr. Greiner brought very good news from his bailiwick in Western New York, and ex-Mayor Cutler from Rochetser declared that in the County of Monroe hundreds of the Republicans of prominence who have stuck to George W. Aldridge, the local Republican boss, through thick and thin, took strong exceptions to his action in voting against Col. Roosevelt at the meeting of the State Committee, and had told Mr. Aldridge so. The Roosevelt leaders, however, do not figure on getting any of the delegates from the political bailiwick of Boss Aldridge.

If the action of the State Committee in turning down Col. Roosevelt is any indication that the committee is controlled by the Old Guard in the Republican organization the progressives may find a tough job on their hands when they seek to have Col. Roosevelt seated as Temporary Chairman. The State Committee makes up the temporary roll of the convention, which selects the Temporary Chairman, and from which are made up also the Committees on Platform and on Contested Seats. It would be easy for the opponents of the Roosevelt programme to have contesting delegations sent from districts where the leaders are suspected of having leanings toward the progressives and to seat these contesting delegates through their control of the State Committee.

While Mr. Griscom was not prepared to divulge any details with reference to the conference yesterday, it was pretty well understood that the situation through the entire State had been canvassed. Mr. Greiner will take charge of the work in Western New York. In the central part of the State Senator Davenport will be the leader. The southern tier was not represented at the conference, but Mr. Griscom said he had received word from that section of the State, and the situation there was satisfactory. Senator Harvey D. Hinman, who led the fight for the Governor's primary legislation at the legislative session this Spring, is expected to assume the leadership of the Roosevelt forces there. Mr. Griscom will be on guard in the eastern part of the State, and exercise general supervision in the State campaign.

How Will Kings Go?

Darwin R. James, Jr., who has been the leader of a pretty strong independent element among the Republicans in Brooklyn, and Mr. Kracke, who went on record against Chairman Woodruff at the meeting of the Republican State Committee, were consulted by the conferrees with regard to the possibilities in Mr. Woodruff's bailiwick of Kings.

"In a straight fight against Mr. Woodruff and the Old Guard we will get from twenty-eight to thirty-five delegates from Kings," said Mr. James. "As things are going now, I think a great number of the district leaders will see the light, and I would not be surprised to see most of the Kings delegates vote with us.

"This fight is the best thing that could happen for the Republican Party. It will clear the atmosphere. We progressives will win on the temporary Chairmanship, we will win on direct nominations, and we will nominate and elect a progressive candidate for Governor."

Postmaster Fred Greiner of Buffalo said he felt equally hopeful.

"In Western New York," said Mr. Greiner, "the sentiment is for some form of direct nominations; it is strongly pro-Roosevelt and strongly pro-Taft, and that includes even what is known as Wadsworth territory."

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The attention of Timothy L. Woodruff, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, was called to-day to the report from Buffalo that Fred Greiner, Republican leader of Erie County, favored the calling of a special meeting of the State Committee to have another vote on the question of who shall be chosen temporary Chairman of the Saratoga Convention.

"So far as I am personally concerned," said Mr. Woodruff, "I have no objection to calling such a meeting, but the State Committee has no rules, and I am of the opinion that such action would not be warranted unless demanded by a majority of the committee."

No Real Fight Against Ward's Control.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 30.—William L. Ward retains control of the Westchester County Republican Committee and the organization, as a result of to-night's primaries. There was really no fight except here and there locally between aspirants to membership of the County Committee.

ORLEANS NOT FOR ROOSEVELT

Republican County Convention Did Not Indorse Him, as Printed Story Said.

Special to The New York Times.

MEDINA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—It now develops that the story sent throughout the country last week that the Orleans County Republican Convention had passed a resolution favoring Roosevelt over Sherman for Temporary Chairman had no basis in fact. No such resolution was even offered to the delegates, and had one such been offered those who say they know declare that the Old Guard, who were in control of the convention, would have smothered it to death with a rush.

The Orleans County primaries were controlled from beginning to end by the Wadsworth influence. Four Wadsworth men were named for the four county offices. The State delegates elected were ex-Senator L'Hommedieu, Varnum D. Puddington, George W. Bennett, William Fuller, R. Titus Coann, and Irving Weet. Four of these delegates were Wadsworth Old Guard men of long standing. L'Hommedieu and Weet were the consolation given to the former opponents of the Genesco man.

When the convention met at Albion last week Chairman Earnest Breed of the convention pleaded for an anti-Sherman-Temporary Chairman resolution. No such resolution was offered. The convention refused to pass a resolution favoring Roosevelt over Sherman, and a delegation of anti-Roosevelt men was selected—at least for Sherman for Temporary Chairman.

The convention adjourned and the newspapers next morning carried a dispatch from Albion that Roosevelt had been indorsed for Temporary Chairman, as against Sherman. Speaker Wadsworth demanded by phone of his local followers what they meant by such an action. The latter were speechless. Meanwhile the Wadsworth-Barnes-Woodruff combine can absolutely count on the votes from Orleans County in the State Convention. They are Wadsworth's.

DENEEN OPENS CAMPAIGN.

Says Fight Is Against Bi-partisan Coalition and the Jackpot.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Aug. 30.—Gov. Deneen to-night opened the campaign against return to legislative power of the bi-partisan "combination" which dominated the last Illinois General Assembly. In an address in this city he said:

"The men who opposed the right to a recall, the right to honest elections, the right to primary elections, the expressed wish of their party on the United States Senatorship, the election of a Republican candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the organization of the House by a majority of their party are now asking the people whose will they have defied and whose confidence they have betrayed to intrust them once more with the direction of public affairs."

The speaker defined the term "jackpot," which had figured in the Browne trial in Chicago, saying that to make a jackpot effective required "the participation of a considerable number of such as can be held together by the cohesive power of public plunder, and an organization which must be able to control to some degree the course of legislation in the General Assembly. Manifestly, behind the jackpot stands the organization of the General Assembly and the control of its business, which the present rules of the House place in the hand of the Speaker. The next step forward, therefore, is to restore representative government in our House of Representatives."

CLAPP HAS A FREE FIELD.

Democrats Cannot Control the Minnesota Legislature Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 30.—Senator Moses E. Clapp is not in the slightest danger of defeat for re-election, so far as the Democrats are concerned. Frank A. Day, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, said to-day:

"Even if we elect all of our candidates we would not have a majority of the Legislature. While I have not full information and there is still one more day for filing, I am quite sure that is the case. We have more candidates in the field this year than we had last time and have entered several districts where we have not made a fight for several elections, but I do not believe we have candidates enough in the field to control the Legislature even if we elect them all, which we hardly hope to do."

BLACK TO OPPOSE DALZELL.

Will Run for Congress on a Labor and Insurgent Platform.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 30.—It was announced by friends of Dr. R. J. Black of McKeesport to-day that he would run for Congress in the Thirtieth Congressional District against Congressman John Dalzell, who on the face of the primary returns defeated him for the Republican nomination by a narrow margin.

It is stated that the labor leaders of the district and the country have agreed to aid Dr Black. President Samuel Gompers of the Federation of Labor recently conferred with Dr. Black in Pittsburg. The latter will run on a labor and insurgent platform.

GREENWOOD WON'T RUN AGAIN

Wayne County Assemblyman Says Last Winter at Albany Was Enough.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Assemblyman Marvin I. Greenwood, Republican, of Wayne County, has declined a renomination. In a statement he says:

"I would not turn my hand over to go to Albany again. I would not put in another Winter like last Winter for the world."

Democratic League at Convention.

ALBANY, Aug. 30.—A meeting of the Democratic League, similar in character to the Saratoga conference of September last, will be held at the Hotel Seneca at Rochester on the evening of Sept. 28. This was decided here to-day at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the league. The committee adjourned to meet in Rochester on the afternoon of Sept. 28.

CORNERSTONE LAYING FOR TAFT TO-DAY

Will Assist Beverly to Found Its Y. M. C. A. Building—Soon Off to the West.

AT JUDICIARY LUNCHEON

Confers with Justice Holmes and Others, It Is Said, About Filling Vacancies in Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 30.—The Presidential party at Beverly is now looking forward to two events. One is the laying of the Young Men's Christian Association Building cornerstone to-morrow afternoon. The other is the President's departure at the end of the week for the West. President Taft agreed some time ago to take part in the cornerstone ceremonies, and he was one of the contributors last year to the building fund. This promises to be the one occasion of the season when he will meet the Beverly public face to face. His meeting with the local people last year was at a review of the Grand Army veterans of the Essex County Association.

The President goes into the West after some hesitation to launch his new conservation ideas. He and his friends are very hopeful of results from this trip. Some advised him against going, because it would subject him to comparison with Col. Roosevelt. In visiting St. Paul he penetrates to the heart of insurgent country and presumably will face an audience at the conservation congress that will be distinctly Rooseveltian. He has officially, however, the first right to discuss the conservation movement and has given unusual care to the preparation of his address. It will probably cover some phases of the topics that Col. Roosevelt is discussing on his present Western tour.

The President has told visitors that he has tried to eliminate politics from his address, although aware that the conditions under which he speaks will give it some political color. The address is expected to start the West to talking and to make the Administration a rival topic of conversation just at a time when the ex-President is on his way home on his excursion to many States.

President Taft's journey will be direct, both going and coming. He plans no stops by the way and he will tarry in St. Paul and Minneapolis only a few hours. It is understood in Beverly that he is not likely to meet Col. Roosevelt there, as the latter is not scheduled to arrive till the following day. The President plans that his conservation address shall be all he has to say to the public for quite a month. Then, on Sept. 30, which will be in the midst of a Congressional campaign, he will deliver his only strictly political speech when he appears before the New York League of Republican Clubs.

After his usual golf game at Myopia to-day the President motored over to Ipswich and was the guest of honor at a "judiciary luncheon" given by Charles P. Searles of Boston at his Summer home. Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court and United States Judges Colt, Putnam, and Lowell of the First Circuit were among the guests. It is said that the two vacancies on the Supreme Court bench that the President soon must fill were discussed informally. It is reported here to-night that Mr. Taft is still thinking strongly of appointing Solicitor General Lloyd W. Bowers as an Associate Justice. There is said to be a strong likelihood that the second appointment will be made from the Eighth Judicial Circuit. Nothing has occurred to indicate a change in the plan to nominate Gov. Hughes as the Chief Justice.

The President's activity in canvassing the situation for Supreme Court material has led to a renewal of the reports that he may call the Senate in extraordinary session to confirm his nominations in October. When this matter last came up the President declared that he wanted to make his appointments to the bench in the regular way and have them confirmed at regular sessions of the Senate. He said he felt that to call the Senate in extra session would indicate that he was hurrying the court in its consideration of important cases, and he did not want to appear as using even that sort of influence.

For the present political pilgrimages to Beverly have all but ceased. This is entirely satisfactory to the President, who prefers that activity in promoting the interests of the campaign should not be rushed to the point that might cause exhaustion for the work of the closing weeks. However, the political conferences which came thick and fast during most of August will be resumed during September. The President will see many campaign managers and candidates during the two weeks at Beverly after he returns from the West.

MACVEAGH'S ADVICE TAKEN.

Taft's Tariff Revision Stand Follows Conferences with Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Taft's stand for a revision of the tariff, schedule by schedule, when needed, and his recent declaration in his letter to Chairman McKinley of the Republican Campaign Committee, caused no surprise to those who knew of conferences which the President had had with Secretary MacVeagh during the Summer at Beverly.

Those who have been close to that situation do not attempt to say that the Secretary of the Treasury has molded the opinion of the President, but they point to Secretary MacVeagh's Boston speech last December, in which he declared the Payne law to be a step in the right direction and predicted that it opened the way to a decided improvement.

That Mr. MacVeagh's counsel on the tariff law has been highly valued by the President is an open secret. He has been one of the stanchest champions for a tariff board which would take up the whole subject of protection from a statistical and scientific standpoint.

Rumors have appeared from time to time during the last few months that Secretary MacVeagh was one of the men who was slated to go out of the Cabinet in the near future. The men who have known the relations between the President and his Secretary of the Treasury take Mr. Taft's declaration on the subject of the tariff revision as another indication that Mr. MacVeagh is still regarded by the President as a useful member of his Cabinet.

NOMINATIONS IN MARYLAND.

Contests in Four Districts Make Choice by Ballot Interesting.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 30.—For the first time Maryland Democrats and Republicans to-day selected by ballot candidates for Congress. Heretofore the convention system prevailed.

Campaigns were waged in the Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Districts, both parties having agreed upon their candidates in the First and Second. In the Fourth District there were four Democratic candidates for the seat now held by John Gill, who did not seek a renomination owing to ill-health.

Karl A. M. Scholtz, "progressive" Republican candidate in the Fourth District, who had proclaimed his opposition to the present tariff and to Speaker Cannon, was overwhelmingly defeated by Addison E. Mullikin, who had the support of the organization.

The nomination of David J. Lewis, Democrat, in the Sixth District practically was conceded by his opponent.

Congressman Sydney E. Mudd, Republican, declined a renomination in the Fifth District.

The nominees are as follows:

First District—A. LINCOLN DRYDEN, Somerset County, Republican; J. HARRY COVINGTON, Talbot County, Democrat, (renominated.)

Second District—WILLIAM B. BAKER, Hartford County, Republican; J. FRED C. TALBOTT, Baltimore County, Democrat, (renominated.)

Third District—CHARLES W. MAIN, Republican; GEORGE KONIG, Democrat.

Fourth District—ADDISON E. MULLIKIN, Republican; J. CHARLES LINTHICUM, Democrat.

Fifth District—THOMAS PARRAN, Calvert County, Republican; J. ENOS RAY, Jr., Prince Georges County, Democrat.

Sixth District—B. P. WARNER, Jr., Montgomery County, Republican; DAVID J. LEWIS, Allegany County, Democrat.

SHERMAN ADDRESSES WOMEN

Few Men in Audiences at Joplin, Webb City, and Carthage.

Special to The New York Times.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 30.—James S. Sherman, accompanied by James E. Watson of Indiana, arrived here at 7:45 A. M. After breakfast they went to Webb City accompanied by former State Senator Hugh McIndoe, Congressman Morgan, Republican State Committeeman Ammerman, and other leaders. Speeches were delivered at Webb City before an audience composed principally of women and children.

From the Court House steps in Carthage Mr. Sherman reiterated his belief in the protection policy, and urged the support of Congressman Charles S. Morgan, who is seeking re-election.

Returning to Joplin Mr. Sherman spoke in the afternoon in the club. The Vice President's popularity with the wives and sisters of voters seems proved. Here, as in Springfield, a large part of the audience was made up of women.

The itinerary given out in Chicago for the Vice President is continually being revised. He did not depart until 11 P. M. instead of 6 o'clock, and will reach Guthrie, Okla., at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

LOCAL OPTION IN THE LEAD.

Blease in Columbia, S. C., Runs Ahead of Prohibition Candidate for Governor.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 30.—Returns from the State-wide Democratic primaries indicate that C. C. Featherstone, Prohibitionist, will be in the second race for Governor, with either Col. L. E. Blease or T. B. McLeod, local optionists.

The renomination of A. F. Lever, Congressman from the Seventh District, by a large majority is certain.

At 10 P. M. returns from twenty-eight counties give: Governor—Featherstone, Prohibition, 11,536; Blease, Local Option, 11,814; McLeod, Local Option, 7,327.

In the Second Congressional District Patterson, the incumbent, is in the lead. Ellerbe (incumbent) leads in the Sixth; Butler and Finley (incumbents) are running close in the Fifth, with Finley's home county to be heard from.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin.

TRAINS FOR SCHOOL-BOUND STUDENTS.

Vacation time will soon be over.

An army of young folks will soon be en route to the halls of learning.

The trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad offer unusual advantages for the safeguarding of students and provide exceptional comforts for their enjoyment. The "Pennsylvania Special" (the 18-hour train between New York and Chicago); "The Pennsylvania Limited" between New York and Chicago; the "Chicago Limited," between New York and Chicago; "The 24-Hour St. Louis," and the "St. Louis Limited" with their eastbound counterparts are all peculiarly well equipped for their use. They have exclusive apartments for girls, a ladies' maid for their service, and polite and attentive employees throughout the train.

The high-class of travelers using these trains add an air of refinement, which makes them attractive to young and old alike.

The boys will follow their fathers and use the Limiteds, because the conveniences and comforts of these trains appeal to them.

It should be especially noted that none of these trains are out between terminals more than one night in either direction.

The Pennsylvania is acknowledged as "the Students' line" between all the educational centres.

The "Pennsylvania Special" leaves New York at 3.55 P. M.; "The Pennsylvania Limited" at 10.55 A. M.; the "Chicago Limited" at 4.55 P. M.; "The 24-Hour St. Louis" at 6.25 P. M. and the "St. Louis Limited" at 10.55 A. M.

Pennsylvania Railroad Ticket Offices at 263 Fifth Avenue (open until 10.00 P. M. daily including Sundays and holidays); 182 Fifth Avenue, 170, 461, 1,354 Broadway, 245 Columbus Avenue, 111 West 125th Street, 34 Mulberry Street, Hudson Terminal, West Twenty-third Street Station, Stations foot of Desbrosses Street and foot of Cortlandt Street, New York; 336 Fulton Street, 4 Court Street, 479 Nostrand Avenue, Flatbush Avenue (L. I. R. R. Station), and Annex Station, foot of Fulton Street, Brooklyn. Telephone "Madison 1082."

ROOSEVELT AGAINST RIGID CONSTITUTIONS

Warns New States That Corporation Attorneys May Slip in Things They'll Regret.

WILL GUARD CORPORATIONS

Colonel Assures Them His Protection Against Blackmailers—Cheered Everywhere in Colorado and Kansas.

Special to The New York Times.

HORACE, Kan., Aug. 30.—After the strenuous doings of yesterday in Denver Col. Roosevelt has had a comparatively quiet day. It has been almost all steady travel, with only one stop for a set speech, and infrequent rear platform talks at stations where the train stayed for from three to five minutes. In general he followed the lines of the brief talks he has been giving at such stops for the last few days, branching out at intervals to speak of the local interests or industries.

Pueblo, Col., was the one place at which he left his train, and to-night he is crossing Kansas on his way to Osawatomie, where Col. Roosevelt is to speak at a twenty-two acre park on the spot where John Brown fought the Missouri raiders on Aug. 30, 1856.

Everywhere there have been good crowds at the stations, and in many places where the train whirled through without stopping the station platforms have been filled with men and women eager to catch a fleeting glimpse of the Colonel. At all such places he has stepped out on the rear platform and waved to the people, and invariably cheers and waving of hands acknowledged the greetings.

Just a Woman and a Baby.

Once, far out on the lonely prairie, when scarcely a house had been seen for some time, the train passed a little shanty a quarter of a mile or more from the track. A woman, with a baby in her arms, had walked over to the track, and stood there waiting for the train to pass. The Colonel's attention was called to her, and he stepped out and waved his hand. A smile lit up the woman's face as she returned the salute and held the baby forward for him to see. Then she turned and walked back again toward the lonely little hut. These demonstrations of personal friendliness have continued all day. At some of the larger places there were big crowds, as at Colorado Springs, where more than a thousand persons were gathered around the station.

At Sugar City, a little village near the Kansas line, where the people raise sugar beets, and where perhaps 200 persons had collected at the small wooden station, there was a characteristic scene. Everybody yelled with delight as the Colonel emerged from his car.

"It's good to be here, and see you men and women of the West," said the Colonel, beaming. "I have been impressed in going through this region with the developments of your sugar beets and alfalfa. You have made the country blossom like a rose."

"Give it to 'em, Teddy!" shouted a small boy.

The Colonel's smile expanded, and he reached down to shake the boy's hand. The youngster could not reach him, and he asked some one to lift him up. That done the Colonel proceeded with his speech.

"Here I see an army button," directing attention to a veteran who stood a short distance from him. "You did pretty well to fight for this country. It is worth fighting for. There are plenty of things that can be made better, and we will fight for them as you did in the civil war. We will fight against corruption. But remember this country gives us a union of men that are superior to many of the people of the world."

As the train pulled out, Col. Roosevelt grasped some of the hands that were eagerly thrust above the railing of his private car, and then, waving good-bye, shouted:

"Thank you very much, and hurrah for the pretty girls."

The "pretty girls" had listened to his talk with evident eagerness, the pretty faces being, in many instances, incased in poke bonnets.

There were similar scenes at a dozen places. Wherever the Colonel talked to the people about honesty and good citizenship—and that was everywhere—he was always cheered.

Corporations Not Entitled to Vote.

"It is a very great pleasure," said the Colonel, while his train lingered at Colorado Springs, "to be back in Colorado, and particularly in this part of Colorado. I have been in Colorado Springs often before. It was here that, after I was elected Vice President, coming events cast their shadows. I started for this place on a lion hunt, and I have since hunted the lion in Africa and killed more of him than he did of me.

"I am glad to see all of you people in whom I so thoroughly believe. I am ready and anxious to do my share of the work that is before us. I know that fundamentally we are sounder than any other nation, but there are lots of things to be corrected. For instance, take the corporations. I believe in doing full justice to every corporation. It is entitled to its rights. It should be protected in its rights, but it is not entitled to vote and it is not entitled to own any public servant.

"So far as I am able I will protect the corporations against crooks who would blackmail them and against the visionary demagogue who would wrong the people by attacking them improperly. Also I will do everything in my power to take the corporations out of politics. We want to break up the connection between crooked politics and crooked business. To do that we must insist on not only getting justice, but on doing justice. Do not trust men who will resort to any kind of blackmail. If they do that they will do you if they get a chance. Stand by the clear-headed man, and above all by the man whose deeds make good his words."

The Roosevelt train stopped for a few minutes at Tribune, Kan., and the Colonel went out to make his bow to the crowd. Just as he appeared on the platform a woman hurled a huge bunch of dahlias at him. The Colonel, who is near-sighted, saw dimly some object hurling through the air directly toward his head and dodged back while the crowd laughed.

As soon as he saw what it was Col. Roosevelt picked up the bouquet and thanked the donor.

"I thought some one was throwing a bottle at me," he said. The crowd clamored for a speech.

"Some kinds of government will succeed with almost any kind of people," he said, "but it takes a good grade of citizens to make a success of a Government like ours."

Before he had a chance to complete his speech the train pulled out.

Train Stocked with Melons.

The people of Ordway stocked the entire train with watermelons and canteloupes grown on the spot. They had a sign at the station informing every one that Ordway is the best town in the Arkansas Valley.

"I know you people out here, and you know me," the Colonel said to the crowds at Eads.

"You bet we do," the crowds shouted back.

"I trust you with all my heart," the Colonel continued.

"And we trust you," the response came back.

The Colonel wanted to speak longer, but just then the engineer blew his whistle and the train started to creep away.

When the train reached Pueblo the whole town seemed to have turned out. There Col. Roosevelt left the train and was taken by automobile to the site of the new Young Men's Christian Association Building, where he laid the cornerstone and made his set speech.

As he rose to speak Col. Roosevelt, turning to Gen. T. J. Downen, President of the Young Men's Christian Association, declared that wherever he found a veteran of the great war who was Chairman of the Young Men's Christian Association he could give him his unqualified approval.

"I believe in decency," continued the Colonel. "The Young Men's Christian Association stands for manliness and decency. If a man does well by his family and home he makes a good citizen. Whenever you get for the head of the Young Men's Christian Association a man who lost his arm at Chickamauga you may know he is all right. There is only one person I would put ahead of him and that person is his wife, who has been the mother of six children. I put the veteran of the great war ahead of every other citizen, but I put the woman who has made him a good wife ahead of them all.

"The Eastern man is not fully educated until he gets west of the Missouri River. I pin my faith in the West because I believe in the type of manhood and womanhood you are producing. The average American is a pretty good fellow, but his wife is a better one. The chief object should be to develop the kind of man and woman you care to meet in private life.

Domestic Virtues Not Enough.

"Do not base your hopes of governmental success on a genius, but seek to develop a broad manhood. Don't allow the public man to ask you to accept domestic virtues as an offset for profligacy in public life. The public man is bound to be decent if he expects the confidence of his fellow-men.

"Make your ideas felt in demanding of your representative and executive public officials the same decency in public as in private life. Demand not only law honesty but that honesty that keeps a man straight at home or in office.

"It does not matter how honest a man may be in the great things if he is dishonest in small things. Unless you are exacting in this respect and send a man to represent you in your Legislature, or put him in executive office, he will sell out if the price is high enough. If he will be crooked for you he will be crooked against you.

"Demand of your public servants the same qualities of courage, honesty, and the saving grace of common sense that you seek to develop in your private life.

"I want to call attention to the admirable work done by the Forest Service in connection with these great forest areas. Not only has the Forestry Bureau done everything humanely possible with the preparation given them, but in fighting fires the men of the service have shown just the same abilities of endurance, courage, and entire indifference to their own lives that are shown by the best fire departments in our big cities. There is no body of public servants of which the public has a right to feel more proud than of the men on the forest service.

"I wish I could go down to New Mexico and Arizona, but this is the nearest place to them I will reach on this trip. Many of my friends there have written asking me to advise them about their Constitutions. I have not felt familiar enough with the conditions to do so. But there is one point upon which I would like to advise them, and that is to leave the Constitutions easy of amendment at any time, when the people feel that they should be amended. Experience has shown that not only doctrinires but also designing corporation attorneys often get put into Constitutions matters which are not thoroughly understood by the people at the time, and my plea is that the people of the new States should be left with their hands free so that if at any time they find that something has been put into their Constitutions which they did not know was there, or if they find that something is working badly which they believed would work well, they shall have an opportunity to easily make any change that is necessary."

Representative Martin of Pueblo, a Democrat, was on the platform with the Colonel while he spoke. After the ovation the cornerstone was formally laid and the ex-President in an automobile whirled back to his train, which pulled for Osawatomie on schedule time.

Gifford Pinchot, former Chief Forester, and James R. Garfield, ex-Secrtary of the Interior, traveled with Col. Roosevelt all day. Gov. Stubbs of Kansas is to join the party in the morning, and go on to Osawatomie.

Mr. Roosevelt Not a Candidate.

In Denver yesterday there were opportunities to see some of the Eastern newspapers with their editorials on the speeches that Col. Roosevelt has been making and on the political effect of his trip.

The number of references to him as a candidate for the Presidency in 1912 indicates that there is a growing belief that he will be named by the Republican Convention. It may be said again, however, with complete assurance, as has been said already in these dispatches, that he is not a candidate for any office in the United States. In this connection it may be pointed out that some of the speeches he made have been quite decidedly of a character that would not have commended itself to a man seeking not only to win support, but to avoid giving offense. This was notably the case in the talks at Cleveland and Toledo, where he dwelt so strenuously upon the subject of mob violence and lawlessness, and upon his willingness to use every means in his power to put a stop to it.

A candidate who was seeking support would hardly be likely to offer gratuitously such a line of offense to organized labor as that sort of talk contains. Again, yesterday in his talk to the Colorado Legislature the Colonel dwelt upon corruption and mendacity in a fashion not at all calculated to win delegates to a National Convention.

The fact is that Col. Roosevelt now feels perfectly free to discuss any question that may arise and to express his exact views upon it, no matter whom he hits or where the chips fall. He has taken that tack from the first, and has been consistent in following it. And that is hardly the course of a man who is out to secure support for a Presidential nomination.

IN HONOR OF JOHN BROWN.

Plan for Statue in Hall of Fame as Ossawatomie Awaits Roosevelt.

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 30.—Celebration of the 54th anniversary of the day when John Brown's men withstood ten times their number of Missouri guerrillas in the woods at the edge of the town of Osawatomie began to-day. At least 25,000 persons are expected here to-morrow at the second day of the celebration, when Col. Theodore Roosevelt will make the address dedicating to the State as a park the wooded hillside where the battle was fought. A movement for a statue to John Brown in the Hall of Fame at Washington was started by a resolution this morning.

Joseph G. Waters of Topeka, the orator of the day, spoke thus of Col. Roosevelt:

"To-morrow an even greater audience than this will be addressed by an ex-President of the United States—illustrious, honored in all lands, and especially loved in Kansas. It is his own serious handicap that he was not born in Kansas, for he has the genuine Kansas spirit. He has made the world respond to his touch. He is an instrument of the world's peace. We glory in him as a magnificent specimen of an American citizen. And to-morrow he will be honored by the great State that cradles our birth and urns our ashes."

Col. Roosevelt is expected to arrive here at 9:30 to-morrow morning. He will be taken first to visit the old cabin of John Brown, then will take part in a parade with a military escort. At about 2:30 in the afternoon he will be introduced by Gov. W. R. Stubbs of Kansas, and will make the speech dedicating the park. During the day, from the same platform where Col. Roosevelt speaks, addresses are to be made by Gifford Pinchot and James R. Garfield.

At 4 o'clock the ex-President will board a special train for Lawrence, where, as the guest of Gov. Stubbs, he will spend the night.

Sale of Qualey Company Deferred.

TRENTON, Aug. 30.—By agreement of counsel Vice Chancellor Walker to-day signed an order postponing the consummation of the sale of the Stone Age Plaster Company for one week. The order was issued with the understanding that if John A. Qualey and Harvey W. Corbett are not able by next Tuesday to raise $42,000, the amount paid by Clarence P. Browning for the property, the sale will stand.

DYNAMITER KILLED BY RAILROAD AGENT

Ex-Employe of the Great Northern Hurls Bomb in St. Paul Offices at A. G. Ray.

SHOT BY INTENDED VICTIM

Four Bullets All Reach Vital Spots—Bomb Would Have Wrecked the Building Had It Been Exploded.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 30.—C. T. Welch, a former employe of the Great Northern Railroad, tried to kill A. G. Ray, Special Agent of the road and head of its private detective force, in the offices of the company here this morning. He was shot and killed himself by his intended victim.

Half a dozen revolver shots were exchanged between the two men, and four bullets from Ray's pistol found lodgment in Welch's body. Ray was not wounded. The shooting occurred just after 9 o'clock when there were few people in the building except the clerical force. The shooting was witnessed by one man, L. S. Hess, a clerk in Ray's office, but at the first shot he jumped into a large vault and pulled the door shut.

Welch tried to blow up Ray by hurling at him a bottle containing a pint of nitroglycerine. A percussion cap was found on the neck of the bottle, but the heavy paper in which the bottle was wrapped prevented the cap from exploding the nitro-glycerine. Enough of the explosive was in the bottle to have blown up the entire building.

Welch's attack upon him, Ray said afterward, apparently had been caused by the special agent's discharge of the man from the post of watchman on July 1. Since then Welch had not been seen about the offices until this morning, when he entered and asked if there were any mail for him. This was a little before 9 o'clock. When told that there was none he left, saying he would return later when another lot of mail should have been opened. It was less than half an hour later that he returned.

Ray had not been in the building when Welch appeared first. On his second visit, however, the ex-watchman went direct to Ray's private office, where the Special Agent had just begun to go over his mail. Ray does not remember that Welch spoke a word, nor does Hess.

He had a revolver in his hand, and as soon as he stepped into Ray's office he began to pull the trigger. The first shot flew over Ray's head. Before he could pull the trigger again the Special Agent had drawn a revolver from his own pocket and had begun to return the fire.

Welch, who, it is said, had been a good shot, apparently was excited or so angry that his aim was upset. He fired several shots, but none touched Ray. The latter had been firing rapidly and Welch dropped his pistol and then tumbled to the floor.

The noise of the shooting had aroused every one in the Great Northern offices, and when the fusillade ended scores of frightened clerks began to peek into Ray's private office. A doctor was sent for, but when he looked at Welch he said the man must have died almost as soon as he hit the floor, as every one of Ray's bullets had struck a vital spot.

Ray immediately gave himself up to the police, and told the story of the shooting. He spoke of the throwing of the bottle, and this was taken by the Police Department to be examined. It proved to contain nitro-glycerine. In Welch's pockets were found several more of the percussion caps such as had been on the bottle.

According to railroad officials, Welch shot "Little Tommy," a burglar, in Duluth last Fall when doing duty as a watchman. He was acquitted. Welch was single, and was about 45 years old.

CARRY NEGRO TO DEATH CHAIR

Savage Had Feigned Insanity, Neither Eating Nor Talking for a Week.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Edward Savage, a Jersey City negro, had to be carried to the death chair to-night after he had refused to walk to the death chamber. It was thought that the negro had planned an outbreak, but he was forced into the chair and strapped so quickly he could not carry out his plan. He made a spring from the arms of the deputies carrying him, but two others grasped him, and had put him into the chair before he had time to make a further struggle.

On the hope that he might be declared insane, Savage feigned insanity until almost the last moment. He refused to permit the death watch to change his clothing or put on his shoes. When he realized, however, that there was no chance for a reprieve, he cried out: "I am crazy, you wouldn't kill a crazy man, would you?"

The Rev. Emil A. Meury, D. D., Chaplain of the Jersey City Jail, advised him to meet his fate bravely. The negro shouted that he would never walk to his death.

Efforts were made to get a thirty-day reprieve for Savage. Acting Gov. Freylinghuysen tried to get into communication with Gov. Fort, who is on his vacation. The telephone connections were so poor, however, that Mr. Freylinghuysen could not clearly understand the Governor. This fact gave Savage hope, and he was much disappointed when the Acting Governor refused to give him a new lease on life late this afternoon. He had refused to eat or talk for a week.

Savage, who was a Pullman car porter, killed Ada Snell, with whom he lived, in Jersey City, last October.

GET TEN SKENE JURORS.

Jury for Trial on Road Contract Charges to be Completed To-day.

ALBANY, Aug. 30.—Ten jurors—eight farmers, one salesman, and a boatman—were selected to-day to try Frederick Skene, former State Engineer and Surveyor, on the first of a series of indictments, charging irregularities in the awarding of good roads contracts during Mr. Skene's administration in 1907 and 1908.

Of the seventeen indictments returned against Skene and certain employes during his administration and good roads contractors, the State has moved the trial of the first indictment, which charges Skene and John F. Russell of Mount Vernon, President of the Russell Contracting Company, with grand larceny, first degree, it being alleged that a good roads bid of the Russell company on Nassau County roads was raised 30,000. Because of the mental collapse of Russell, who is confined in a sanitarium at Astoria, L. I., he was unable to be in court. He will probably never be brought to trial, as alienists to-day testified that he was suffering from an incurable disease.

The various talesmen were closely questioned by counsel on both sides, Mr. Jerome for the defense inquiring at times if they would be influenced by political affiliations. The task of completing the jury will be continued to-morrow.

Boy Swallows a Cent and Dies.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Aug. 30.—William Carman, 5 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Carman of South Side and Bay View Avenues, Freeport, died at the South Shore Hospital here last night as the result of swallowing a cent three weeks ago. An X-ray examination showed the coin had lodged in the stomach and had formed an abscess, destroying the wall of the stomach. An operation was impossible as the boy was too weak.

TOSS POLICE INTO THE AIR.

Columbus Rioters Blow Up Cars and Fire on Troops—62 Arrests.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 30.—The mob resumed its work early to-night by blowing up a car with dynamite. The detonation was plainly heard at Police Headquarters, two miles distant. Four automobiles of police were at once sent to the scene, where a crowd of several hundred had gathered, but showed no disposition to violence.

Mrs. Viola McGregor, a passenger, was blown some distance into the street and picked up insensible. Another woman was thrown into the street, but walked away. The car was wrecked and the motorman and conductor were hurled from it, but beyond being stunned were uninjured.

Another car on the Leonard Avenue Line struck two charges of dynamite and was completely wrecked. It was running wild, with no passengers, the crew having deserted it from fear. Several shots were fired at the conductor and motorman. The wreck was immediately surrounded by a jeering mob. The police were met with a shower of rocks. The crowd managed to separate the officers and Deputy Sheriffs, and further humiliated the police by tossing them about into the air. At this juncture there was a riot call to military headquarters. Instead of shooting into the mob the police apparently feared for their lives. So far as could be learned they did not fire a shot. When the soldiers arrived they at once began to beat back the mob with riot sticks. Shooting began, and then the infantrymen used the butt end of their rifles on any member of the crowd they could reach. The soldiers faced a fusillade of shots as well as brick and stones. Military officials consider it a miracle that none of the soldiers was killed. No serious injuries to the soldiers were reported.

As soon as the soldiers began to use their riot sticks the mob broke and began to dash into the houses for a block in each direction. Many of these private residences were soon filled from cellar to garret. A general order was issued to both soldiers and police to raid the houses and arrest everybody they could. Some sixty-two arrests were made. Many persons were injured.

you a thousand times for all the kindnesses you have done me. Good-bye, dear. Lovingly, your SISTER.

The following letter is to an unknown friend:

Aug. 18, 1910.

Dearest Blanche.—You may or may not think me foolish, but I have made up my mind to do it. From the time daddy died I have not had a happy moment. I am accountable for what I do and I am willing to take the chances. The women writers in the New York papers prate a lot of foolish nonsense about these things—they are generally 6,000 miles from the real mark. They very seldom give the real reason for an act such as I am about to commit.

They usually say it was the result of a love affair. In this instance, as you know, love has nothing to do with it. As with King Midas everything turns to gold, in my case everything turns to failure. Think kindly of me. Remember it might not have been so. Mine has been an unhappy life. Think kindly of me, I ask you again. Your sincere friend.

Here is the letter to her mother:

Never reproach yourself for what I am about to do. You have been an angel of love to me, and I regret that I cause you this trouble. The force of Fate has proven too strong for me to cope with, and it has driven me against the wall, and being defenseless I resort to this cowardly ? ? act.

Then, too, I hate the insincerity, sordidness, and disillusionment of life. That is all I have met with face to face in the last two years. And now I seek the unknown.

I can hear you say, dear, "It is very wrong for one to take one's own life whatever the motive be."

It is really deplorable that a girl cannot get along honorably in New York. In some things I might have succeeded had I conceded to the wishes of men—cultured, yes, usually moneyed, yes, but never moral. I could never submit to such things. Death is preferable.

Ill-fortune has followed me since my father's

KNICKERBOCKER MAID INTERRUPTS SUICIDE

Servant Saw Hirsh Bleeding from Wound as He Sat Writing Farewell Notes.

KILLED HIMSELF AFTER ALARM

Chicago Clothing Merchant Was Still Slashing His Throat While Servants Clamored at the Door.

S. J. Hirsh, President of the wholesale clothing firm of Hirsh, Wickwire & Co. of Chicago, with a branch office at 24 East Twenty-first Street, this city, committed suicide yesterday morning in the Hotel Knickerbocker by cutting his throat with a razor. Mr. Hirsh arrived in New York a week ago on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, after a trip through Europe for his health, on which he was accompanied by Walter H. Reed. A servant in the hotel, who called at the door of Mr. Hirsh's rooms yesterday, saw him bleeding from one of the cuts which he had inflicted upon himself, and her cries threw the attendants in the hotel into a panic. Before those who had been summoned by the chambermaid's cries could break down the door Mr. Hirsh ran into the bathroom and slashed himself several times across the throat with his razor. The hotel detective was summoned, but by the time he had broken in the bathroom door Mr. Hirsh was dead.

Mr. Hirsh and Mr. Reed took a suite in the Hotel Knickerbocker on their return from Europe, expecting to spend a week or so in this city before returning to Chicago. They went to nearby seaside resorts and attended several theatrical performances. They planned to leave for Chicago yesterday on the Twentieth Century Limited, but attended a theatre and went to a supper afterward on Monday night. They decided to postpone the start westward one day.

Yesterday morning Mr. Reed asked Mr. Hirsh if he didn't want to go out for a walk. He refused, declaring that he had some important letters and telegrams to write. Mr. Reed went out alone.

Evidently Mr. Hirsh began to get ready for his suicide at once. He filled a trunk with articles on which he put notices telling to which of his acquaintances he meant each article to go. He then sat down at a writing table in his room to write some farewell messages. While at the table he must have struck at himself with a razor, inflicting a small wound on his forehead. Then he went on writing again.

The chambermaid who had charge of the Hirsh suite had tried several times to get into it in the morning to clean up the room, but each time Mr. Hirsh told her to go away, that he would be out of the place after a while. At noon the chambermaid went into a room on the seventh floor, whose windows looked across an airshaft into those of Mr. Hirsh's sitting room. She saw him writing at the table with the blood streaming from his forehead.

Running back out into the corridor she called to several other servants that Mr. Hirsh had hurt himself, and they all tried vainly to get into the suite, but they did not attempt to force any of the doors. Mr. Hirsh, hearing the servants trying to get at him, and fearing that he would be halted in his attempt upon his life, ran into the bathroom, got into the bathtub, turned on both the hot and cold water, and slashed himself several times across the throat, dropping the razor down by the side of the tub.

The servants had now notified the hotel office, and the house detectives and several assistants ran to the Hirsh suite, and, again failing to get in, broke through the bathroom door. Dr. I. L. Hill of 616 Madison Avenue, who was summoned, reached the hotel after Mr. Hirsh had died.

Coroner Holtzhauser arrived and took charge of the case. He found several messages which the suicide had written on telegraph blanks on his table. The first said:

> She leaves to-day on the Century for Chicago.

Here is the second note:

> Good luck to all. All the things in my trunk are to go according as I have labeled them. The calabash pipes are for all the boys in the office who smoke. I feel better now than I have in a long time.

Still another note said:

> I did this. Nobody is to blame. I have been this way all my life.

And the last one read:

> See that Walter is taken care of for the remainder of his life.

The "Walter" referred to is evidently Walter H. Reed, Mr. Hirsh's traveling companion. He burst excitedly into the room while Coroner Holtzhauser was examining the effects of the suicide. He told about the trip to Europe, said they had visited Carlsbad, and declared that the trip had done Mr. Hirsh, it had seemed, a great deal of good.

Coroner Holtzhauser found $140 in the dead man's pockets and a bankbook showing a deposit of $3,000 in the bank of the Metropolis, which amount, Mr. Reed said, had been put in the bank when Mr. Hirsh came back from Europe to be used for current expenses.

OBJECT TO NEW AUTO LAW.

Connecticut Autoists Resent Being Made Subject to It at State Line.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 30.—Automobilists who have Summer residences just over the Connecticut State line are indignant over the latest interpretation of the new automobile law, which goes into effect on Sept. 1, that all automobiles from Connecticut must be licensed in New York State without the ten days' extension granted to New York autoists by the Connecticut laws. Their indignation is not so much due to the obligation to make out a license as because they must stop each time at the State line and change the number plates. The local authorities have become interested and threaten to retallate on New Yorkers.

Summer residents on the Connecticut side at Byram Shore and King Street have been accustomed to go to the Port Chester Station for their daily trips to New York. Nearly all own automobiles, and usually make late starts for their train, necessitating a hurried spin. They feel that they should not be forced to stop each morning at the State line to replace the Connecticut number by New York plates.

One automobilist to-day said that he had escaped the advanced commutation rates on the New Haven Road so far by traveling to New York and back in his auto day by day, but thought he would prefer to pay the higher rate this Winter than wait on the Byram Bridge while his chauffeur changed the numbers.

GETS LEGACY, WANTS DIVORCE

Woman, Deserted When Poor, Sues for Freedom Now She's Rich.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 30.—Detectives are hunting for Elmer T. Benton, a former resident of the Naugatuck Valley, who is thought now to be a commercial traveler. When he left here, some time ago, his wife and two twin boys, now 8 years old, went to live in Terryville, and were supported by relatives until three weeks ago.

Mrs. Benton has received a legacy of nearly $40,000, left by a cousin in Australia. Instead of looking up the recreant husband and killing the fatted calf, she has applied for divorce. She says he was a faddist on the evil effects of bathing, and had not been in a tub for years. She mentions eight co-respondents, one a creole, and says she will name them [illegible]

CHEER RESCUE IN THE BAY.

Girl and Boy, Overboard from Launch, Saved by Crew of Patten Liner.

A girl who started from Staten Island in a motor launch with a boy and another young woman yesterday afternoon decided to take a swim when the boat reached the Narrows. Clad in her bathing suit, she climbed over the edge of the boat and trailed along behind it, holding to an anchor rope at the stern. Suddenly the rope parted, and the girl, who was only a fair swimmer, was buffeted about in the wake of the launch and the choppy sea. The boy, rather than change the course of the launch, and without stopping the engine, dived overboard after her and swam back to her. Meanwhile the young woman, not knowing how to operate the machinery of the launch or how to steer it, sat helpless in the bow, drifting in circles away from the pair in the water.

The boy reached the girl's side and slipped one arm under her to keep her up. Both, however, were soon in distress, and began calling in vain for help to the runaway launch. The young woman could only wave her arms frantically to show her own helplessness.

Just then the Ward liner Havana came steaming up the bay, and the Patten Line boat Little Silver came steaming down. Capt. Hobbs of the Little Silver, seeing the plight of the two young swimmers, ordered full steam ahead and steered his boat toward them, at the same time shouting to the deckhands to get ready to lower a boat.

Aboard the steamer there was much excitement as the deckhands went forward with life preservers. It could be seen that the boy and the girl were battling with their last strength. Fearful of swamping them with the wash of his boat, Capt. Hobbs stopped the machinery and called for volunteers among his men to jump overboard. Immediately two of the deckhands, equipped with life preservers, dived over and swam out to the couple, reaching them just as they became unconscious.

The two were carried back and lifted aboard a boat which had been hastily lowered. After they had been taken safely aboard, the boat put out toward the launch, overtook it, and towed it back to the steamer. The young woman in it had fainted. Aboard the Little Silver all three were revived and cared for, and taken to the Highlands pier, together with the launch, which was hitched astern.

The Ward liner, seeing that the Little Silver was taking care of the rescue, did not stop, but continued her way up the bay. The passengers on both steamers cheered the deckhands throughout the work of rescue.

BLACK ART IN ROOSEVELT ST.

Works with a Broomstick and Horns —$45 Fees.

Mrs. Francesca Ariga of 873 Colgate Street, Jersey City, an elderly Sicilian, went into the Tombs Court yesterday with a tale of the black art. She was appearing as prosecuting witness against Nicolo Tarenta, who deals in "life lines and related subjects" at 53 Roosevelt Street. Mrs. Ariga went to the palmist about some pains in her head.

She told him her trouble, she went on, and he said, "Ah!" With that he broke an egg in a glass and called her to look at the yelk. "I see there a pair of horns," he said, according to Mrs. Ariga. "They are the horns of my friend, the devil."

He picked up a broomstick, which he said was his magic wand, and began beating a pair of goat horns which were nailed to the side of the wall, falling on the floor, apparently in a trance, while he still belabored the horns. He moaned from time to time, "Oh, my friend, have mercy."

Rising to his feet presently, he told Mrs. Ariga that his friend would permit her cure for $45, she declared, whereupon she paid him the money asked. She said he gave her a bottle full of black liquid, which was to assist the devil in getting out of her head.

Though she took a good deal of the black liquid, she said, the pains remained in her head, and so also had Tarenta treated on the modern charge of larceny. Magistrate Freschi held Tarenta in $1,000 bail for forty-eight hours. "And I'll not take your friend, the devil, as a bondsman," he concluded.

FUNERAL OF FATHER AND SON

Services To-day for Sidney H. Jones and His Boy, Who Were Drowned.

The bodies of Sidney Harris Jones and his only son, Sidney Harris, Jr., who were drowned in Yoke Pond, Me., following the capsizing of their canoe on Saturday, were brought home to this city late yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held to-day at the Church of Zion and St. Timothy, in West Fifty-seventh Street.

Mr. Jones spent the greater part of his life in Young Men's Christian Association work, associating himself largely with the railroad branches. He started in as a boy some twenty years ago, just out of knickerbockers and just over from Ireland. He was office assistant in a branch fashioned from four stalls in a roundhouse, the beginning of the chapter in West Seventy-second Street. Since then he has held many posts up to the time of his leaving the work for the real estate business, a year ago. Besides the West Seventy-second Street branch, where he was Secretary from 1904 until his resignation, in April, 1909, he served in the Madison Avenue Branch, in Gloversville, N. Y., and in Louisville, Ky.

He lived at 950 Anderson Avenue, the Bronx, and near his home took active interest in Sunday school and church work.

SUGAR SENTENCES DEFERRED

Heike and Gerbracht Get Off Until Sept. 10 and Probably Longer.

Charles R. Heike, former Secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, and Ernest W. Gerbracht, former Superintendent of the Sugar Trust's Williamsburg refinery, were brought before Judge Martin, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday for sentence on their conviction of conspiracy to defraud the Government. On account of the absence of the Government's prosecutor, Henry L. Stimson, however, sentence was postponed until Sept. 10.

Heike and Gerbracht were convicted last June in the final one of the sugar weighing fraud trials. The passing of sentence does not mean their incarceration, for after it has been imposed John B. Stanchfield, their counsel, will make a motion for a new trial. Various appeals after that motion has been disposed of, even if unsuccessful, will postpone the time when the two men begin serving their terms until next Spring at least. Both are under $25,000 bail. They were in court yesterday with Mr. Stanchfield.

TEXAS RAILROAD EARNINGS.

Gross Receipts and Expenses Above Last Year's—Income Slightly Less.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 30.—The Railroad Commission to-day made public a comparative statement showing the gross earnings and operating expenses of the Texas railroads for the fiscal year ended June 30, as compared with the previous year.

The statement shows the gross earnings to be $94,340,162, an increase of $4,374,877, or 4.57 per cent. The operating expenses were $72,216,024, an increase of $4,491,892, or 6.63 per cent.

The income from operation was $22,124,138, a decrease of $115,022, or 0.52 per cent.

Downtown Subway Travel Delayed.

Traffic on the downtown express track of the Subway south of Ninety-sixth Street was tied up between 5 and 6 o'clock last evening, when the motor on a southbound Lenox Avenue express train suddenly became "dead" south of Seventy-second Street. Each of the stations below that point was crowded till would-be passengers decided that the local trains were quickest for once. These, on reaching City Hall, were switched to the express track and continued the trip to Brooklyn. The stalled train was finally shoved south by the train behind it, and switched to a siding below the Brooklyn Bridge station.

WOODRUFF TESTIFIES ON KILL KARE DEAL

Tells Commission the Owners Had Refused to Sell It to the State.

HOW LAND VALUES WENT UP

Raquette Lake Tract Worth $1,000,000, He Says—$127,000 Offer Was Before State Arranged to Buy.

ALBANY, Aug. 29.—With the testimony of Timothy L. Woodruff, former President of the Forest Preserve Board, public sessions of the investigation which Commissioners Roger P. Clark and H. Leroy Austin have been conducting into forestry affairs ended to-day. The Commissioners' report probably will be in the hands of Gov. Hughes within three weeks. The Governor expects to resign about the first of October, and wants to dispose of the matter before he starts for Washington to assume his duties on the United States Supreme Court bench.

Mr. Woodruff, Speaker James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Commissioner James S. Whipple of the Forest, Fish, and Game Commission; Chief Counsel John K. Ward, Special Counsel Frank L. Bell, George N. Ostrander, an Adirondack land operator, and Selah B. Strong of Brooklyn, former special attorney for the department, have testified publicly, and the testimony of others has been taken privately during six months in which the investigation has been under way.

Woodruff came to Albany to-day to testify particularly concerning the purchase of Kamp Kill Kare, his Adirondack estate, while he was President of the Forest Preserve Board. He said he wished to correct the impression that improper methods had been used in acquiring the property.

"My object in asking for a hearing," said Mr Woodruff, "was to silence for all time the insinuations with regard to my conduct as President of the Forest Preserve Board. The imputation has been made that by some wrongful method I acquired my Kamp Kill Kare estate.

"In this instance the State could not get this property. The owners declined to sell to the State, because two miles from it were two lakes upon which Durant had spent thousands of dollars in improvements."

Woodruff produced documents showing that the property on which his camp is located had been advertised for sale as a private preserve seven years before he purchased it. It was after the Forest Board had bargained with the company of which Durant was President for the purchase of the property that Woodruff purchased his estate for $12,000.

The purchase of the Raquette Lake tract by the State for $167,000, Woodruff said, had been approved by Gov. Black, Woodruff said the statement that the State could have purchased the property for $127,000 was erroneous. The company, he said, had offered the property for that amount, but it was before the organization of the Forest Preserve Board, and before the State had appropriated any money to buy Adirondack lands.

After the board was organized and $1,000,000 appropriated to buy forest lands, prices went up, and Woodruff thought the State fortunate in having acquired for $167,000 land which to-day, he declared, is worth $1,000,000.

An instance of the remarkable rise in Adirondack land values was shown in a purchase about four years ago by Mr. Woodruff of a 1,200-acre tract near his present estate for $48,000. George N. Ostrander said he had purchased that same tract several years before for $200 and had sold it for $4,500.

Woodruff said he had stocked Lake Kora with trout, not from a State hatchery but from a private hatchery in Caledonia.

Woodruff was questioned about a hotel conducted by Wellington Kenwell about eleven miles from the Woodruff camp. Although built on State land, the State paid Kenwell $1,500 for his hotel in 1901, and the buildings eventually were burned by direction of Woodruff.

Asked if his son and a party of friends had not made the place their headquarters, Woodruff said such was not the case, and added that he had only spent one night there in his life. He also explained the erection of a small shelter for two of his canoes on State land.

HUGE CROPS IN CONNECTICUT

Half-Million Bushels of Peaches In Sight—Tobacco Yield Largest In Years

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 30.—Connecticut peach orchards will yield 500,000 bushels of fruit this year, one grower shipping 90,000 bushels.

Reports indicate that the tobacco crop also is the finest in years. At New Milford 20 cents a pound has been offered for first quality leaf. The price has been about 10 cents a pound for three years.

Tobacco plants are unusually large, free from insects and worm holes, and the leaves bear no evidence of hail. The great size of the leaves adds to the yield, many growers cutting 2,500 to 2,800 pounds to the acre.

A factor in the splendid yield is the adoption by growers of methods suggested by Government experts who have investigated conditions in this State for several years. Especially in handling the leaf after cutting are results proving satisfactory. A continuation of good weather will bring to growers several millions of dollars.

GET LARGEST COPPERHEAD.

Many Other Snakes Captured by Hunters from the Bronx Park Zoo.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Sullivan County snakes will be on exhibition in Bronx Park within a few days. George W. Palmer, reptile keeper in the park, with the Rev. J. H. Miller of Winfield, L. I., have been searching the barrens near this place for a week and captured some exceptionally large secimens. They returned with the largest copperhead ever seen in this section. It was three feet and one inch long.

Palmer captured it after a fierce fight, and as its bite is deadly the battle was exciting. Mr. Palmer stated this was the largest specimen he had ever seen. Among the others captured were four rubber snakes, a blue racer, several rattlesnakes, and many water and garter snakes.

Mr. Palmer and the Rev. Mr. Miller are touring Sullivan County on foot, and will walk to Liberty to-morrow, where they will join R. S. Ditmars, Superintendent of Bronx Park.

HORSE WANTED BEER.

In Buying In Long Island Purchaser Didn't Get a Prohibition Steed.

Patrolman Brunde, attached to the Newtown Precinct, thought it would be a fine thing to get a horse for his children. This fact becoming known to John Liscross, a saloon keeper on the Hoffman Boulevard, he offered to sell to the policeman his own horse. "What's his name?" asked Brunde.

"Call him what you like," returned Liscross. "He's used to almost any name, and $25 takes him."

"Chuck in a pint of beer and we'll call it a go," said Brunde.

"For you or the horse?"

"For me," and the horse changed names and owners at the same time.

Brunde later reported to his precinct station and started out on duty. He got home shortly before midnight, and found his stable knocked down and the horse gone. He called up his precinct and asked that a general alarm be sent out, with a description of the horse.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning the Newtown Station got a hurry call, with a request that the reserves be sent to the neighborhood of Horse Brook Road and Hoffman Boulevard. The frightened voice on the other end of the telephone informed the police that a wild horse was breaking in the doors of houses in that vicinity.

Policeman Brunde joined his comrades in their dash to the rescue, and as they neared Liscross's saloon they saw a horse standing with his back to the saloon doors battering them with his heels. Liscross was aroused and looked out of a window.

"Well," he said, looking down at the horse, "if that isn't Pete come back for his pint!"

"What's that?" inquired Brunde, becoming interested.

"I forgot to tell you that Pete never thinks of retiring without his pint."

BRONX ZOO LOSES A TIGER.

Rajah, the Gift of C. T. Barney, Dies of Throat Trouble.

Rajah, a Bengal tiger which the late Charles T. Barney presented to the Bronx Zoo in 1902, began to suffer from trouble in his throat a week ago. Rajah was the most ferocious animal in the lion house, and none of the keepers dared go inside his cage. It was said that he was unable to swallow enough food to keep him alive. When raw beef was thrown into the other cages he would rage around until some of it was thrown to him. He would leap upon what was thrown to him, but he could seldom get it down his throat.

Dr. W. Reed Blair, the veterinary of the park, could not get near enough to the animal in his early illness to see just what was the matter with him. As the days went by and his hunger increased Rajah became more than usually ferocious. Yesterday afternoon Keepers Schwartz and Greed threw him some beef. He jumped on it, tried to gulp it down, but went into convulsions and died in his cage. Dr. Blair will hold an autopsy this morning to see what was the matter with the tiger's throat.

Rajah was 12 years old, weighed 260 pounds, and measured five feet six inches. Mr. Barney gave him, along with several lions and tigers, to the Zoo eight years ago. Rajah was then 4 years old. His temper at that time was fairly good, but of late years he had become so ferocious that it was dangerous to put any other animal in the cage with him.

SCAFFOLD FALLS WITH 16 MEN

Six Taken to a Hospital from the New Pennsylvania Station.

As a result of the insecure fastening of ropes on a scaffold at the new Pennsylvania terminal, at Thirty-first Street and Seventh Avenue, sixteen men were injured yesterday morning. Four ambulances were summoned and six men were taken to a hospital. Two were taken home. The others returned to work. None was seriously hurt.

John Preting of 172 Prospect Street, Long Island City, was most seriously injured. Both his ankles were broken. He was removed to the New York Hospital by Dr. Armstrong. The others will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

The men were painting ironwork on the Thirty-first Street side, when the rope slipped and the men were dropped to the ground. The crash was heard two blocks away and a large crowd collected. The men were employed by the Long Island City Contracting Company.

GROUND TO DEATH IN WHEELS

Dredge Engineer Caught In the Cogs and Drawn Into Them.

While Henri Koch, an engineer of a steam dredge of the R. C. Packard Company, which has been blasting and dredging in the east channel of Big Hell Gate at the foot of Ninetieth Street, was oiling a cog near the winding drum of the dredge yesterday afternoon, his coat caught in one of the teeth of the moving wheel. He was drawn between the largest two gear wheels. The wheels crushed through his body and then came to a stop.

The engineer's screams brought half a dozen laborers employed on the dredge on the run. They saw him crushed to death between the wheels, with only his legs free of the long cog-teeth. One of the laborers, Emil Hanson, tried to reverse the machinery, but the wheels would not move. After working several hours the laborers, with the assistance of a squad of the harbor police under Lieut. Dwyer, extricated the body. It was removed to the Morgue.

Court Won't Aid Detective Work.

Justice Bischoff, in the Supreme Court, gave a decision in the Parker divorce case yesterday in which he held that the Supreme Court could not be invoked to promote detective work. John Alley Parker, a broker, had a suit against his wife for divorce, naming as corespondent a musician. Mrs. Parker has a counter suit against her husband. Mrs. Parker asked Justice Bischoff to permit her to send to Europe to examine witnesses interrogated on behalf of her husband. In denying the application Justice Bischoff said: "That this motion for a commission to take testimony is not made in good faith is apparent. The commission is obviously sought not as a means of securing the presence of evidence of which the defendant has knowledge, but rather as a means of making search for evidence."

Fund for Catholic Scholarships.

In the will of M. J. Cunningham, filed in the Surrogates' office yesterday, two bequests of $2,000 each are left to St. John's College, Fordham, with which to found two day scholarships, the recipients of the benefaction to be designated by the President of the college. The Visitation Convent of Riverdale-on-the-Hudson, receives $2,500 outright, and the rest and residue of the estate, not to exceed $2,500, goes to Corpus Christi Monastery of the Sisters of St. Dominick, Hunt's Point, New York.

WAR IN NICARAGUA MAY NOT BE ENDED

Report from San Juan del Sur That the Madriz Faction Holds Part of the Country.

BARRICADED AT GRANADA

Two Hundred Madriz Followers In a Church There, and Refuse to Surrender, It Is Said.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Aug. 30.—Though all telegraphic communication between this town and Managua is cut, it is reported that the local authorities there are levying a forced loan for the payment of the troops.

It is said also that the Estradists are in possession of Bluefields, Chontales, Managua and a part of Granada, but the remainder of the country is in the hands of the Madriz forces.

Two hundred of the followers of Madriz, it is reported, are barricaded in the Church of San Francisco at Granada and refuse to surrender.

Another report reaching here is to the effect that groups of Nicaraguans are threatening to invade their country from Costa Rica.

RIVAL NICARAGUAN CONSULS.

Shippers Perplexed—Estrada Representative May Soon Be Recognized.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The complicated situation in New York resulting from the rival claims of the Madriz and Estrada Consuls has been called to the attention of the State Department. Commercial interests wanted to know which of the Consuls should be recognized.

The response of the department was, however, that the authority of consuls was determined by the domestic laws of their country and not by the Government to which they were accredited. The United States, nevertheless, has recognized the right of Consul Bolanos to certify invoices of shipments to the portion of Nicaragua under the control of the Estrada faction, and of Consul Strauss to shipments to the section held until recently by Madriz.

Now that Madriz has been ousted it is believed that the State Department within the next few days will take steps amounting to the recognition of the right of Consul Bolanos to certify for the whole of the republic. As soon as official notification of the organization of a Government by Gen. Estrada reaches Washington it is generally believed that the State Department will consider favorably the question of recognition of the Estrada Government as the responsible power in Nicaragua.

MISS HAYS KEEPS HER POST.

Her Treatment in Germany Ignored by Philadelphia Education Board.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—Fearing that the stories of her treatment in Germany might cause Dr. Brumbaugh, Superintendent of Schools, to ask for her resignation of her post as a teacher, Miss Emma J. Hays, who asserts that she was illegally thrust into an insane asylum while spending her vacation in Germany, called at the office of Secretary Dick of the Board of Education to-day and was assured that her position is still open for her. At Dr. Brumbaugh's office it was stated that the Board of Education had no official knowledge of the teacher's trip abroad and therefore could take no action.

When questioned about the case Dr. Murda, German Consul in this city, said the story was too one-sided to be considered at the present time.

"Only the woman's side has been heard," he said, "and I cannot believe all of it is true. Our Government is very careful, and neither Miss Hays nor any one else could be placed in an asylum unless the prescribed routine of the Government was carried out."

OUR SHIPYARDS FROZEN OUT.

British Builders Likely to Get Contracts for Chilean Warships.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—American and Continental shipbuilders who expected to compete for the construction of the new Chilean warships, have probably been frozen out. Chile has invited tenders, to be submitted by Sept. 15, for two battleships of 24,000 tons, capable of a speed of twenty-three knots.

The plans have been drawn up by Sir Philip Watts, Chief Naval Constructor of the British Navy, and specify that the guns and certain machinery must be of English design and manufacture. The opinion is generally expressed here that foreigners would not be likely to arrange terms with English manufacturers, which would enable the foreigners to compete. It is believed that the terms of the recent Chilean loan, which was floated by the Rothschilds, stipulated the advantage to English builders.

Turkey, which bought two German ships, offered to purchase the British battleships Exmouth and Russell. The Admiralty has refused to part with these vessels, but offers to sell the Canopus, which is more nearly obsolete.

SOCIALIST DISPUTE SETTLED.

International Bureau Decides Claims of Rival American Organizations.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30.—The International Socialist Bureau to-day rejected the Socialist Labor Party's claim to equal representation with the Socialist Party in America. This action was taken after a long and exciting debate.

Daniel De Leon, editor of The Daily People of New York, who represented the Socialist Labor organization, maintained that it was entitled to cast the same number of votes as the rival Socialist body, but Maurice Hillquit of New York, the Socialist Party leader, gained the day and the bureau ruled that the Socialist Labor Party was entitled to but one vote.

The Committee on Disarmament and International Arbitration recommended that incessant agitation on behalf of the cause be kept up, and urged action to this end by the Parliaments of the world.

Estrada's Americans at Managua.

MANAGUA, Aug. 30.—Gen. "Gabe" Conrad of New Iberia, La., Chief of Gen. Estrada's artillery, arrived here with Estrada. Conrad was taken ill at Juigalpa and turned over his command to Samuel Drebbin of Philadelphia. The entire American brigade which supported the revolution is now here.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The American Embassy is still receiving from America descriptions of missing men, but thus far none fits the young American who was taken into custody after he had lost his memory and was able to tell but little concerning himself except that his name was John Drexel. The physicians are of opinion that he is improving mentally and are hopeful that his memory will be restored.

PORT AU PRINCE, Aug. 30.—Parliament was convened in extraordinary session to-day to discuss the contract with the new bank which has been organized with a capital of $4,000,000 and will take up the Treasury service. A loan of $12,000,000 will be made for the purpose of taking up the interior loan and improving the monetary situation generally.

TOKIO, Aug. 30.—Bernhard Dernburg, ex-German Secretary of State for the Colonies, who is touring the Far East, arrived here to-day.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Dr. David Jayne Hill, American Ambassador to Germany, returned to-day from Sweden.

FOR PEACE IN THE AMERICAS.

Argentine Minister's Speech at Close of Pan-American Congress.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 30.—The fourth Pan-American Congress of American Republics, which has been in session since July 12, adjourned to-day.

The closing session was attended by President-elect Saenz Pena and Vice President-elect De la Plaza of this republic; the members of the Argentine Cabinet, and the Diplomatic Corps, Senators and Deputies, M. Clemenceau, ex-Premier of France; Enrico Ferri, a member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, and a large number of other well-known persons.

The Argentine Minister of Foreign Affairs made an address to the delegates to the congress, of which the dominant note was a plea for peace and arbitration.

"We should respect," he said, "the rights of all the republics, and never employ force except to re-establish the empire of justice." In conclusion the Minister said:

"We can now say, as was said at Washington, 'America stands for humanity,' because we are sovereign nations. Let my last word be to send from here a message of gratitude to the great Nation which inaugurated these continental conferences."

Toledo Herrarto, the Guatemalan delegate, responded eloquently.

The Foreign Minister to-night entertained the delegates at a banquet, at which there was a cordial exchange of toasts.

CZAR AND CZARINA IN HESSE.

Big Crowds at Friedberg—Two Supposed Anarchists Arrested.

FRIEDBERG, Hesse, Aug. 30.—Emperor Nicholas and Empress Alexandra of Russia arrived here at 3:30 P. M. to-day. They were accompanied into German territory by a suite of fifty persons. Before the arrival of the imperial train great crowds gathered in the streets in the hope of seeing the visitors. They were not disappointed, for the Emperor and Empress were driven from the railway station to the castle which they will occupy while here in an open automobile. Their suites followed, also in open motor cars.

Russian secret police have been here for several days on the lookout for Anarchists and last night at Bad Nauheim took into custody a Russian named Mandelberg.

Shortly before the royal party arrived to-day the police arrested another man who is believed to be an Anarchist. It is estimated that no fewer than fifty Russian and German political agents are now in Friedberg and adjacent places.

As is invariably the case when royalties travel, sensational rumors were afloat to-day of impending and actual harm to the visitors. The arrival of the Czar and Czarina, however, was attended with no unpleasant incident.

DISCUSS ARBITRATION CAUSE.

Eight Hundred Delegates at Interparliamentary Conference.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 30.—The sixteenth Interparliamentary Conference opened to-day, 800 delegates being present. Auguste M. F. Beernaert, the Belgian Minister of State, presided.

In his opening address M. Beernaert said that, despite the rapid progress of the cause of arbitration and mediation, the world was living in a régime of armed peace, with 14,000,000 men under arms at a cost annually of $1,000,000,000.

The conference will probably discuss Secretary Knox's proposition to invest the International Prize Court with the functions of a Court of International Arbitral Justice.

The conference unanimously adopted a proposal of Herr Paehnike, a member of the German Reichstag, for the neutralization, under conditions similar to those pertaining to the Suez Canal, of the Strait of Magellan and all interoceanic canals and isthmus. A commission to study the question was named.

CRIPPEN IN HOSPITAL.

Suffers Nervous Collapse — Explains Letter Hinting at Suicide.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, accused with Ethel Clare Leneve of the murder of his wife, has suffered a nervous collapse and was removed to-day to the hospital ward of Brixton jail.

Arthur Newton, Crippen's solicitor, states that his client has given him an explanation of the farewell mesage found among the prisoner's effects by Inspector Dew which will throw a different light upon the matter when it is made public.

The message was read in court yesterday at the arraignment of Crippen and Miss Leneve and indicated that the writer contemplated suicide during his flight to Canada on the steamer Montrose.

BALLOT BOXES DISAPPEAR.

Portuguese Election Invalidated—Priest Accused of Influencing Voters.

LISBON, Aug. 30.—The disappearance of the ballot-boxes has invalidated the election at Sabugal. A priest who was directing the voters was arrested.

The count at Braga and Covilha has not been completed.

EARTHQUAKE IN CALABRIA.

Inhabitants Panic-Stricken, but No Casualties Reported.

ROME, Aug. 30.—A strong earthshock was felt throughout the Department of Calabria at 3:15 o'clock this morning.

The inhabitants, awakened from their sleep, fled panic-stricken into the streets. No casualties have been reported.

Bubonic Plague at Kieff.

KIEFF, Aug. 30.—The bubonic plague made its appearance in this city for the first time to-day. A single case is officially reported.

HOPE TO END LAW'S DELAYS.

Bar Association Committee Recommends Changes in the Criminal Code.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 30.—Fully 200 delegates, including some of the most prominent lawyers of the country, were in the City Hall to-day when President Charles F. Libby of Portland, Me., called the American Bar Association to order for its thirty-third annual session. Annual reports of Secretary George Whitelock of Baltimore and Treasurer Frederick E. Wadhams of Albany and of the Executive Committee, were read. The committee of the National Civic Federation on Reform in Legal Procedure, of which R. W. Breckenridge of Nebraska is Chairman, has adopted the following recommendations to be embodied in a reformed criminal practice code:

No indictment or information shall be held defective at any stage of the proceedings, provided it fully informs the defendant of the offense with which he is charged.

Upon any second or subsequent trial of a criminal cause the testimony of any witness who testified on a former trial and is dead or beyond the jurisdiction of the court may be introduced by the prosecution or defense.

President Libby's address told of the most noteworthy changes in statute law made by the States and Congress during the year.

Reunion of Spanish War Veterans.

To set aside a place for the care of invalids from among the Spanish War veterans the United Camps of New York County are planning to establish a room in the Red Cross Hospital at 100th Street and Central Park West. They have been led to this step by several instances of sick veterans making the rounds of various hospitals only to end among the charity wards on Blackwell's Island. For the purpose of raising funds to endow the room the camps will hold a reunion and picnic on Friday evening at Manhattan Casino, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue. Tickets will be twenty-five cents.

EXCURSIONS SPEED THROUGH NEW TUBES

Pennsylvania and Long Island Companies Entertain Officials with Trips Under the City.

THREE MINUTES TO QUEENS

More Trains to be Run To-day, To-morrow, and Friday, with the Public as Guests.

As a preliminary to the opening of the New York terminal of the Pennsylvania and Long Island Railways on Thursday, Sept. 8, the companies began yesterday a series of inspection trips through the tunnels under the North and East Rivers and out over some of the improved roadbeds of Long Island, in which almost everybody in New York is to be a guest.

The first trip was made yesterday morning, the second in the afternoon. These little tunnel journeys are to continue at the rate of two a day through Friday, by which time it is anticipated that all the railroad men of prominence, newspaper editors, city officials, county officials of Nassau and Suffolk Counties, members of the Legislature, State officials stationed hereabout, judiciary, and almost every one else with any excuse whatsoever will have been the guest of the two companies to see the great work which has cost more than $50,000,000 and taken nearly a decade to complete.

Yesterday's trips demonstrated the fact that at last the Pennsylvania Railroad had made good its promise to bring Long Island City within three minutes of Broadway. Eastbound the special train left the Seventh Avenue terminal at 11:34 o'clock.

Timed by President Peters of the Long Island Road, Charles E. Pugh, First Vice President of the Pennsylvania system; John D. Crimmins, and James A. McCrea, a son of President McCrea of the Pennsylvania, the train sped out into the open where Long Island City struggles out into Queens County at a few seconds past 11:37 o'clock.

Railroad Employes Invited.

The officers and Directors of the Pennsylvania and Long Island Roads, and the heads of the various departments were guests on the morning trip. It was the first opportunity of many of the department men to see the new station in Seventh Avenue and the river tubes. They had been too busy keeping the trains running since the work began to get over from the general offices of the Long Island Road or from the Pennsylvania's general offices in Philadelphia to see what had been done.

President McCrea of the Pennsylvania, President Peters of the Long Island, most of the Directors of the Pennsylvania, and practically all of the auditing and operating forces of the two roads met in the station at 10:30 o'clock.

Among the Directors of the Long Island Company were James McCrea, August Belmont, Charles E. Pugh, Samuel Rea, Henry Tatnall, J. B. Thayer, Thomas De Witt Cuyler, W. W. Atterbury, and John P. Green. Some of the Pennsylvania Railroad Directors in the party were N. P. Shortridge, Montgomery County, Penn.; William H. Barnes, Clement A. Griscom, George Wood, C. Stuart Patterson, E. B. Morris, Lincoln Godfrey, Rudulph Ellis, Charles E. Ingersoll, and Percival Roberts, Jr., all of Philadelphia.

From Pittsburg came First Vice President Joseph Wood of the Pennsylvania lines, Second Vice President J. J. Turner, Third Vice President E. B. Taylor, Fourth Vice President D. T. McCabe, S. C. Scott, assistant to the President; General Manager G. L. Peck of the entire system, Assistant General Manager H. L. H. Blair, General Supt. A. M. Schoyer, and General Supt. R. E. McCarty of Columbus, Ohio.

Every man present except about a dozen reporters was an officer or employe of the two companies. The first three-quarters of an hour was spent in an inspection of the station itself. When even these men, accustomed to great terminals, had been duly impressed, they were conducted to the train shed, where an attendant shouted, "All aboard!" With a railroad man's instinct a hundred persons instantly drew their watches. But the train did not start until fifteen minutes later, owing to the eight acres of granite which had to be traversed in the inspection of the station.

All Steel Cars.

The train was made up of six coaches, all steel and equipped with motors, just as are the Subway cars. The coaches were furnished with a double row of seats the entire length, and brilliantly lighted, so that reading under the rivers will be as easy as electric light can make it.

The first run was made to the Bergen Hill portal, a mile beyond the New Jersey shore of the river, and return. Less than fifteen minutes were consumed in the trip, including the stop and switch-over at the mouth of the tunnel. Almost without pause at the station the train was sent ahead under Manhattan Island, East River, and Long Island City to the Sunnyside yards on the outskirts of Long Island City. Without stop the train pushed on to Jamaica, Valley Stream, and Far Rockaway, where it swung around on the return through Arverne, Tresslie, and the Glendale cutoff, thence to the terminal in Manhattan.

A feature of the inspection tour was the high speed made by this train under the rivers. On the return trip the motorman ran up his key to the last notch as soon as he entered Long Island City portal, and from that instant until the train slowed down for the station it sped along on even rails at a rate worthy of a Chicago flier. There was a notable absence of rocking and no dust whatever. Also, in both the Hudson and the East River tubes, there is an absence of the sensation of sinking and coming up, due to the even grade obtainable by having started and ended the tunnels far to the east and west of the two rivers.

The tunnels appeared to be well ventilated. Fresh air is blown into the tubes by four great fans, and all these will be kept in operation when the tunnels are used to their capacity unless it is found that the trains themselves drive sufficient fresh air in ahead of them.

The tubes are well lighted, the current for the purpose being supplied from a different powerhouse from that which furnishes the motive power of the trains. In case of an accident darkening the cars the tunnel will still be lighted, and no mishap to the tunnel lights will darken the trains.

On the afternoon trip were most of the city officials, high officers of other railroads, bank Presidents, financiers, and prominent business men and industrial captains of every kind.

Traffic Lines Represented.

All the transportation lines in or entering the city were represented by their Presidents or other high officers, with Mr. Shonts from the Interborough, Mr. McAdoo of the Hudson & Manhttan Company, President Truesdale of the Lackawanna, President Underwood of the Erie, Vice President Smith of the New York Central, President Thomas of the Lehigh Valley, C. C. F. Dent of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company, W. G. Wood of the New York & Queens County Company, E. W. Winter, President of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, and General Manager Hedley of the Interborough.

The rest of the party of about 1,200 persons was made up of business men, members of the Legislature, and the judiciary of the city and neighboring counties.

The Brooklyn League will be the two companies' guests on the first trip to-day. The special train will leave Flatbush Avenue at 10 o'clock, and will proceed to Ozone Park and the Glendale cutoff, thence to the terminal in Manhattan and under the Hudson to the Bergen Hill portal.

The afternoon trip is for the Jamaica and Richmond Hill residents. Their train will leave Jamaica at 3 o'clock, proceeding to the Seventh Avenue terminal, and back to Jamaica, where it is due at 4:35 o'clock.

GOT HER RINGS AND PILLOWS.

Widow Goes to Police Court for Redress Against Her ex-Suitor.

Two feather pillows, some pawntickets, various pieces of jewelry, and ambitions to own a Caruso-playing phonograph figured in a matrimonial and promise-to-wed tangle which came up yesterday in the Yorkville Court.

Mrs. Julia Dafferi, a widow, haled into court Frank Nastrangelo, who had promised once to wed her, she said, only to wed another.

"And that's not the worst of it," she complained to the Magistrate. "I made two nice feather pillows, and now they are using my pillows. I want them back. Ah, how false he was—a false and fickle Frank! He has my diamond earrings and my rings, and I want them back, too."

Nastrangelo had seemingly come to court prepared. He had the rings and pillows for evidence. His bride accompanied him, bearing the feathered creations.

"Here are her pillows," said the bride as soon as Magistrate O'Connor had heard the widow's story. "She can have them." She handed them to Nastrangelo's lawyer, who passed them over to Mrs. Dafferi, but that softened her wrath only a little bit.

"My rings," she demanded.

"They are not hers, your Honor," interposed the lawyer. "My client took them out of pawn when he was engaged to Mrs. Dafferi, and paid $275 to do it. She can have them when she pays him the pawn money."

Nastrangelo admitted that he did intend to marry Mrs. Dafferi. But when they were talking over the domestic problem he learned from her, he said, that she wouldn't live anywhere but in a steam-heated flat on the west side; that he must employ a servant to care for her five children by a previous marriage; that she must hear Caruso and have a phonograph with a stock of Caruso plates, and must go to the opera at least once a week during the season. As he was earning only $25 a week he concluded he had made a mistake, and married a woman with less lofty ideals.

The Magistrate thought the fair thing to do about the jewels would be for Nastrangelo to repawn them for what he paid to get them out and give the tickets to Mrs. Dafferi. Nastrangelo agreed to the proposal.

FLEET PRACTICE OFF CAPES.

Shipmasters Asked to Indicate Their Course That Firing May Continue.

Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic Fleet, announced yesterday that battle practice for the fleet will begin off the Virginia Capes about Sept. 12. In a letter making this announcement he asks the co-operation of all passing ships, to prevent inconvenience and interference with the practice firing.

The practice grounds extend for a distance of from thirty to sixty miles off the Capes. Day firing will last a week or ten days, but the night practice will be only on the nights of Sept. 12 and 13.

The importance of deciding quickly whether to pass ahead or astern of vessels towing the targets is impressed on all shipmasters, and they are asked to indicate promptly by marked action which course they will follow.

FAILED TO TEACH FARMERS.

Effort Killed Him, Is Dead Professor's Epitaph—Wills $500,000 to University.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—"Here lies the body of M. Theodore Kearney, a visionary, who thought he could teach the average farmer, and particularly raisin growers, some of the rudiments of sound business management. For eight years he worked strenuously at his task, and at the end of that time he was no further than at the beginning. The effort killed him."

Mr. Kearney wrote this epitaph for himself. It was found on a scrap of paper among his documents, which have come into the hands of the Faculty of the University of California.

Mr. Kearney bequeathed an estate at Fresno, Cal., worth about half a million dollars, to the university.

F. A. HEINZE'S WEDDING DAY.

Sometime This Week—Mrs. Henderson Settles a Rent Dispute.

Mrs. Berenice G. Henderson, the actress, and Fritz Augustus Heinze, the copper man, are to be married at the end of this week. They are to have a "church wedding," it was said on authority last night, though neither the exact day nor the place had been decided upon yet. Reports that the couple had already been married were denied.

As a preliminary to her wedding, Mrs. Henderson, through her lawyers, Battle & Marshall, has settled a dispute she has had about the lease of her apartment at 39 East Twenty-seventh Street. She occupied the apartment from January to July; the lease ran until October. Herman Lobel brought suit in the Sixth District Municipal Court against her for $523 unpaid rent. The judgment he obtained was settled yesterday.

Mrs. Henderson and Mr. Lobel each maintained that the other had broken the contract.

A ROYAL GUARD HERE TO WED

Austrian Army Officer's Bride Is Not Quite Seventeen.

Lieut. Bela Schwarz of the Royal Guards, Austro-Hungarian Army, arrived here yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. to marry Miss Margaret Amelia Bruemm of 200 West 112th Street, whose father is in the insurance business in this city. Lieut. Schwarz met Miss Bruemm a few months ago at a ball in Vienna. The prospective bride, who is not yet 17 years old, was at the time a student at a girls' school in Budapest.

Miss Bruemm arrived home a few weeks ago and astonished her parents by announcing her engagement to Lieut. Schwarz. The date set for the wedding is next Sunday. The bridal pair will sail for Europe next week.

The Lieutenant brought over several fine swords, besides a fine uniform in which it was said he will be married.

William Thaw to Marry.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Gladys V. Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henderson Bradley of Bridgeport, Conn., to William Thaw of Allegheny, Penn. Miss Bradley was introduced into society two years ago by her sister, Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia. Mr. Bradley formerly lived in Pittsburg.

Mr. Thaw was graduated from Yale in 1890 and is a grandson of the late William Thaw of Pittsburg.

CONTROLLER HOLDS UP PAY IN SCHOOLS

Demands Approval of Aldermen and Estimate Board Before Passing the Rolls.

HARDSHIP ON THE WORKERS

Janitors and Others Connected with the Department Kept Out of Their Wages for August.

There are some 550 angry public school janitors in this city and scores of other public school employes are in no pleasant frame of mind. The reason is that the janitors have upward of $125,000 in wages due to-day for August, and there is little prospect of their getting them at once. The Board of Education, including the Secretary of the board, the Assistant Secretary, and all the department heads and their numerous clerks, with nearly $40,000 due them for August, are in the same fix. This is because Controller Prendergast has ruled that he will not pay salaries to the Board of Education employes until the Board of Estimate and the Aldermen have approved them. He bases his decision on Section 56 of the City Charter, which says that the wages or salaries of all persons paid out of the City Treasury, except day laborers, teachers, and members of the supervising staff of the Department of Education, shall be approved by the Board of Estimate and the Aldermen. He thinks he might be held responsible for all money paid out unless so approved, and is sustained by the Corporation Counsel.

Though most of the Commissioners of the Board of Education are out of the city, an effort was made yesterday afternoon to hold a special meeting to approve and send to the Board of Estimate a salary list of the board's employes. Not more than fifteen or sixteen Commissioners could be got together, though the city was hunted high and low for them. When a roll call showed this Chairman Harrison of the By-laws Committee ruled that action by the Executive Committee, to which the board had delegated its powers, would be valid. The committee thereupon approved and ordered forwarded to the Controller the payroll of the department.

But this action will be much too late for the officers of the board, heads of departments, clerks, and janitors to get their money before it is weeks overdue. The Board of Estimate may approve this payroll on next Friday if it meets then, but the Aldermen will not meet before the latter part of the month unless a special meeting is called. There is already talk of this, but no call has been issued.

In bringing the matter before the Executive Committee of the Board of Education yesterday Commissioner Harrison said it was one of the most difficult questions the committee had had to deal with in a long time. The Board of Education has always maintained that it is a distinct corporation, with powers of its own, and not a city department, subject to the dictation of the Board of Estimate and the Aldermen. In the resolution adopted yesterday the committee expressly stated that its action was without prejudice to the contention of the board, that it was a part of the State Department of Education, a separate corporation with powers not derived from the city.

The employes' payroll of the Board of Education is about $2,000,000 a year. $1,500,000 of this going to the janitors and the balance to the administrative and clerical forces.

INGERSOLL CUTS HIS THROAT.

Deposed Treasurer of Maine Savings Bank Seeks Death with a Razor.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 30.—A desperate attempt to commit suicide has been made by Richmond H. Ingersoll, formerly Treasurer of the closed York County Savings Bank. He cut his throat and lies in a critical condition. As announced yesterday, the bank's shortage is estimated at between $300,000 and $350,000.

Ingersoll went into the basement at his residence, locked himself in a room, and slashed his throat with an old razor. Mrs. Ingersoll and their daughter were alone in the house with him at the time. Missing him from his room, they searched the house and finally found the locked door. They summoned a neighbor, who broke open the door and found the aged man lying in a pool of blood.

The illness from which he was suffering, believed to have been due to a previous attempt at suicide by poisoning, left him too weak to accomplish his purpose.

KILLED A WIFE-BEATER.

Brother-In-Law's Blow Resulted In Fracture of the Skull.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Fred Bacon, a middle-aged carpenter of this city, was killed this evening as a result of a blow on the jaw delivered by his brother-in-law, Legrand Vandemark. Vandemark interfered when Bacon was beating his wife. Bacon hit him and he struck the man in the face. Bacon fell and his head hit the back of a chair, fracturing his skull. He died in a few minutes. Vandemark was placed in jail.

Mrs. Bacon says that Bacon had been drinking heavily and had been out of employment for some time. She corroborated her brother's story.

SUES LILLIAN RUSSELL.

Schenectady Man Says Her Automobile Ran Him Down.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—William Fitzgerald of this city has started an action to recover $5,000 from Lillian Russell, the actress, for injuries received by being run down by her automobile in this city on Aug. 15.

The papers were served on the defendant at the stage entrance to a New York theatre on Aug. 26.

SUSTAINS LOUIS BUSTANOBY.

Court Enjoins His Brothers from Ousting Him from Restaurant.

Justice Bischoff, in the Supreme Court, handed down a decision yesterday sustaining Louis Bustanoby, one of the three brothers who own the Café des Beaux Arts, Sixth Avenue and Fortieth Street, in his legal fight to prevent his being ousted from the management of the restaurant.

Some time ago Mr. Bustanoby obtained a preliminary injunction restraining the other two brothers, André and Jacques, from putting into effect a resolution adopted by the two brothers as Directors of the restaurant corporation to remove Louis from any part in the management of the business, and to discharge a number of employes hired by him. He is a Director and Vice President of the corporation.

About a year ago differences arose between the three brothers over the management of the Manhattan restaurant, and another place owned by them at Huntington Bay. As a result A. A. Anderson, the owner of the building, was agreed upon as arbitrator. He decreed that the brothers were to rotate in office, and Louis, who then was President, retired in favor of André, Louis becoming Vice President.

But the differences still continued, and culminated when Louis, according to the other brothers, insisted that the salaries of the officers of the company be reduced one-half. This was followed by the resolution ousting Louis from his Directorship and Vice Presidency, whereupon he asked for an injunction restraining his brothers from putting this resolution into effect pending the trial of an action brought by him in the Supreme Court.

THREE HURT IN AUTO UPSET.

Man and Two Women Refuse to Give Their Names After Accident

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 30.—Employes on the place of Mrs. William T. Bull, at One Mile Corner, just outside this town, were aroused just after midnight this morning by a loud crash followed by women's screams. Several ran into the road where they found an overturned and badly damaged automobile. Nearby a man was scrambling to his feet. He was cut and bruised. Two women lay senseless where they had been thrown when the auto overturned in the ditch alongside the road.

The man declined to tell who he was, but asked that some one telephone to Newport for another automobile. Aided by the men he managed to resuscitate the women, who were suffering principally from shock.

Like the man, the women refused to give their names, but sat silent beside the wreck of their automobile until another car arrived from Newport. The chauffeur examined the overturned car and, deciding that it could be hauled into town, got the men to help set it on its own wheels again.

With the wrecked car in tow the party continued to Newport. No automobile man here to-day would admit that he had been summoned to the injured party, and their wrecked car and the identity of the victims of the accident are still unknown.

DOG SCARES CONEY BATHERS.

St. Bernard Bites a Policeman Who Ran to Aid of Swimmers.

Several hundred bathers on the beach at Coney Island scattered in every direction yesterday afternoon as a St. Bernard dog bounded along the sands snapping as he went and darting toward the groups of merrymakers. Some ran into the surf who had contemplated no such move, while others tried to escape into bathing houses that did not belong to them. Patrolman Shea, running forward to do battle with the animal, was knocked down and chewed in the cheek for his pains. Then somebody shot the dog and the body will be sent to the Board of Health this morning that it may be examined for possible traces of rabies.

Mrs. Henrietta Lang of Surf Avenue and West Twenty-third Street said she owned the dog. It was not mad at all, she said; just playful, and very fond of children. She was angry when she heard it had been killed.

WAITERS DROWN AT BEVERLY.

Three Lost While Rowing Near President Taft's Home.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 30.—Three waiters employed at the Casino were drowned to-day. They are Arnold Surdez and Alexander Lossi of New York and Leonard St. Pierre of Lawrence. The accident occurred not far from President Taft's Summer home.

The young men, with Marcello Cantalope of New York, went out rowing, and when two of them exchanged seats the boat was overturned. Surdez and Lossi sank immediately, but St. Pierre and Cantalope clung to the overturned craft for some time.

Finally St. Pierre sank and Cantalope was rescued by a fishing sloop.

Buffalo Lithia Springs Water Company Completes Fine Bottling Plant

We beg to announce the completion of a New and UP-TO-DATE plant for handling and bottling the well-known BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS WATER in its natural purity and without loss of its health-giving properties. This plant was planned, built and equipped under the direction and personal supervision of some of the ablest mineral water experts, chemists and bacteriologists of this country and nothing that science could suggest or money purchase has been left undone to make the plant an ideal one for bottling and handling a medicinal water according to the latest scientific teachings. Some of the precautions taken may seem extreme, but the aim has been to anticipate, rather than fall behind, the advanced teachings of the day along this line.

The spring from which these waters flow is chiseled out of solid rock, lined with white tiling, covered with plate glass and the whole surrounded with triple re-inforced cement walls laid in the natural rock. The water is taken from the spring by means of an air tight pump, silver lined and fitted with silver valves, and forced through lines of block tin pipe into glass-lined steel tanks. From these tanks the water is drawn through silver faucets into NEW bottles which have been chemically treated, washed and rinsed with the purest water under high pressure, and sterilized—all in the most thorough manner and with the latest devices and equipment. Even the air which enters the white-walled bottling room is taken from high above the building, filtered and driven out by powerful electric fans, rendering contamination by dust, or otherwise, an impossibility.

The Buffalo Lithia Springs Water retains its medicinal properties to a remarkable degree when bottled and for thirty-eight years past this water has been widely prescribed by the medical profession and no remedial agent has received a larger share of medical endorsation of a high order. Most of this endorsation was given to the use of the bottled water, comparatively few of these eminent physicians having used the water at the Springs.

Around this model plant and its output is thrown every known sanitary precaution and the whole is under the watchful eye of a skilled bacteriologist.

For sale by the general drug and mineral water trade. Booklet and medical endorsation to any address.

FIGHTS TO AVERT ASSEMBLY ELECTION

Wright, Supporter of Woodrow Wilson, Nominated for Office by His Opponents.

MUST STAY ON THE TICKET

Circular Issued to Rally Princeton Alumni—McDermit, Senatorial Candidate, in Supplementary Case.

Edward W. Wright of Newark, whom the Harrigan wing of the Essex County Democracy named as one of the eleven to contest the primaries next month with the Smith wing, is having a harder time to keep out of the Assembly than most men have to keep out of prison. Mr. Wright is a supporter of the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for the Governorship of New Jersey, while the Harrigan Democracy is devoted to the candidacy of Sheriff "Bill" Harrigan.

The Harrigan men put Wright's name on their Assembly ticket without consulting him. When he found it out he declined to stand with a crowd that is not for Wilson, and he tried to get off the ticket.

Then his troubles began when he went to the County Clerk to ask that his name be left out; he was told that the time limit for "correcting" the ticket had just expired, but that the City Clerk's office might help him escape an election to the Assembly. Forthwith he put out for the City Clerk's office, only to be informed that the list had not yet been received in that office from the County Clerk, and that he was a little ahead of time. When he went in a little later he was told that the list had come and he was a little behind time, and that his name would have to stay where it was.

A committee of the alumni of Princeton College, of which Mr. Wilson is President, has sent out an argument in favor of Dr. Wilson's nomination, for signatures by the 1,400 alumni in New Jersey. It says in part:

"There is a strong and widespread movement to bring about the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for Governor of New Jersey.

"This is clearly an unusual opportunity for the friends of good government in New Jersey. In the judgment of qualified observers his nomination is equivalent to an election by a very large majority. Regardless of all partisans and personal considerations New Jersey would be tremendously the gainer through the entrance of Woodrow Wilson into the official and political life of the State.

"This memorandum is addressed to the 1,400 Princeton men who make their homes in New Jersey. A formal organization of some sort has been proposed, although as yet no steps have been taken in this direction. In the meantime suggestions are invited. They may be sent to Edward W. Wright, Jr., who has consented to act as Secretary for the time being. His address is the Prudential Building, Newark, N. J.

Frank M. McDermit of Newark, who recently filed a petition as a candidate for United States Senator, is summoned in supplementary proceedings for nonpayment of a note for $200, which matured recently. The holder of the note is Julius Lax, a saloonkeeper. Mr. McDermit declared yesterday that he merely acted as indorser on the paper, the note having been given to him by a client.

Lax declared that he loaned McDermit the $200 on an accommodation note. He said it was his savings, and that he did not even keep a bank account. Lax said he tried repeatedly to collect the money, but failed.

A writ of execution was issued, and in due course was returned unsatisfied.

ACCUSE CLERK OF LARCENY.

Asbury Park Prisoner Says He Is Magistrate Breen's Nephew.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—James Breen, who said he was a nephew of Magistrate Breen of New York, was arrested here to-night on a charge of larceny made by Rufus Cook, manager of a local department store in which Breen had been employed as a clerk for the past two months. When arraigned before Police Magistrate John A. Borden, Breen entered a plea of not guilty and deposited $200 cash bail for further examination to-morrow morning.

It is alleged that Breen falsified a sales check, the discovery being made when a purchaser called at the store to-night to exchange some goods bought in the afternoon. Mr. Cook had suspected that the sales checks were being tampered with, but was unable to trace them until to-day's incident.

Magistrate Breen said last night that he had no nephew named James Breen and had no relative at all, so far as he knew, employed at Asbury Park, N. J.

MORSE PETITION IN OMAHA.

Mayor Heads List of Residents Who Ask Freedom of New York Banker.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 30.—N. D. Jordan of Kansas City, Mo., is in this city to obtain signatures to a petition asking the President to pardon Charles W. Morse, former head of the National Bank of North America, who was sentenced to fifteen years in prison in Atlanta for violation of the National banking laws.

Jordan hopes to obtain between 10,000 and 15,000 signatures in Omaha. He says more than 800,000 names have been obtained since the movement in behalf of the prominent New York banker was begun.

Mr. Jordan obtained 426 names in Omaha the first day. Mayor Dahlman's name being one of the first on the list.

WILLED HIS SOUL TO GOD.

McGee Also Consigned His Body to the Soil in a Brief Document.

The will of Henry Eugene McGee, who died in this city on July 17, was filed yesterday in the Surrogates' office. It was made at Greenville, S. C., and covers less than a sheet of note paper. After directing that the testator's debts and funeral expenses be paid, the will continues:

Item 1—I will and bequeath my soul to God and my body to the ground.

The next and only remaining clause in the will divides the testator's property between two sisters, Etta McGee and Eliza McGee, both of Greenville. The estate is valued at $1,000.

KILLED BY BITE OF HOG.

Farmer Tried to Drive the Animal and It Turned.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 30.—John H. Bartlett, a Dalton farmer, who was attacked by a mad hog in his pasture last Friday, died to-day of blood poisoning.

Bartlett attempted to drive the boar into a shed, and the hog turned and sank its tusks two inches into Mr. Bartlett's right knee, making an ugly wound. Blood poisoning rapidly developed.

J. Rogers Maxwell Getting Well.

J. Rogers Maxwell, President of the Atlas Portland Cement Company, is recovering at the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, from an operation performed a week ago for internal trouble. Dr. J. A. McCorkle, his physician, said yesterday that the patient's condition was much improved. Mr. Maxwell was President of the Central Railroad of New Jersey before he became head of the cement company.

CALLS JAPAN SHAMELESS.

Novoe Vremya Bitter and Sarcastic Over the Annexation of Korea.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—The text of the treaty by which Korea is annexed by Japan was published here to-day.

The Novoe Vremya prints a bitterly sarcastic editorial article in which Korea is likened to an oyster which, about to be swallowed, treats with the gastronome who has already squeezed the lemon juice upon it.

The document, the paper says, constitutes a "historical example of shameless hypocrisy." The juridical importance of the treaty is null, says the Novoe Vremya. The Emperor's rescript is at gross variance with the statements previously made about Korean affairs, earlier reports having pictured Korea as flourishing under Japanese rule. The only document of importance in the official exchanges is the declaration whereby the Consular Courts are abolished and the customs and coasting trade rights become subject to abolition after ten years.

The Novoe Vremya adds that Russia's interests in the "Hermit Kingdom" are insignificant, and for that reason Russian diplomacy will not raise its voice in protest. The United States and Great Britain have been hard hit, in the opinion of the editor, who, however, concludes that, as war would be the only means of annulling this accomplished fact, the situation will be accepted, for assuredly "nobody would go to war for Korea."

SEOUL, Aug. 30.—Yi Syok, the deposed Emperor, has conferred decorations upon Lieut. Gen. Viscount Terauchi, the Japanese President General in Korea, and other Japanese notables.

The capital is quiet.

CONVERT TO CONSCRIPTION.

Lord Esher Now Admits the British Volunteer System Is a Failure.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 31.—Lord Esher, one of the leading authorities on the army, and heretofore a consistent supporter of the volunteer system, in an article printed to-day says he feels that the days of the volunteer are numbered, and that the time may come for compulsory service in the army.

The lack of necessary recruits for the Territorial force, which Minister of War Haldane established on the advice of Lord Esher, is responsible for the latter's change of view.

SHOT BY 15-YEAR-OLD.

Gang Fight Over a Girl Interrupted by a Bullet.

William Clowse of 101 East 122d Street, a 15-year-old member of the "Canary Island" gang, known as Red Shirt, and 17-year-old William Mullaley, known in the same gang as The Gimp, were in love with the same girl, and Mullaley, according to others in the gang, led in the girl's affections. Last Tuesday night he downed Red Shirt in the presence of the whole gang. The battle of the rivals was to have been continued last night.

At 11 o'clock, Mullaley, returning from the home of the cause of their discord, was met at 124th Street and Second Avenue by Red Shirt, and some ten members of the gang. Both squared for a brief diversion in fisticuffs. Suddenly Red Shirt, who is a little shorter than The Gimp, drew a revolver and fired twice. One shot went wild. The other inflicted a slight flesh wounid in The Gimp's right arm. Then the gang scattered, with Mullaley in pursuit.

At the sound of the shots a crowd, that soon grew into thousands, flocked to the corner, together with the reserves of the East 126th Street Station. These dispersed the crowd just as Policeman Osterhouse came up, leading Red Shirt as prisoner, with The Gimp beside him. On complaint of Mullaley, Clowse was locked up on a charge of juvenile delinquency. He coolly admitted that he had shot The Gimp.

"He licked me with fists once," he said, "and I wasn't going to let him do it again."

Another member of the gang, John Cavanagh, of 304 East 126th Street, was caught and arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

PEDDLERS AT ODDS.

One Association Objects to Parade of Rivals—Call It a Political Move.

Sigmund Schwartz, President of the United Citizens' Peddlers' Association, unbosomed himself of a grievance yesterday afternoon at his headquarters, 107 Forsyth Street. He declared that Jacob Beer, one of John F. Ahearn's election Captains and President of the Rivington Street Merchants' Association, is making arrangements for a parade of pushcart peddlers this morning for the purpose of conciliating Acting Mayor Mitchel.

Schwartz alleges that politics is at the bottom of this plan, and he asserts that his own organization will not take part in the demonstration. He also says that an attempt will be made to influence the Acting Mayor to issue more licenses.

"According to the figures of the bureau, only 3,300 licenses have been issued," said Schwartz. "But 9,000 street merchants are now at work, and conditions will soon be intolerable. Merchants will make complaints and prejudice will be stirred up against us."

JUMPS OFF PIER AND DROWNS

Rescuers in Boat Failed to Reach the Unidentified Man.

According to a story told by John Dandarek of 513 East Seventy-sixth Street and Joseph Kellenik of 573 East Seventy-second Street to Policeman Gray of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, a clean-shaven, dark, short man, about 25 years old, jumped from the pier at the foot of Seventy-fourth Street into the East River last night and was drowned. The two men told the policeman that they had seen the man pacing up and down the pier, and that when they approached he waved his arms, shouted something they did not catch, and dived in. They saw him being carried out by the tide. Some men on a nearby barge manned a rowboat and put after the man, but he disappeared before they could reach him.

The two men gave the policeman a slip of paper which they said they had found on the pier near where the man jumped off. On it was written:

"Joseph Kurnath, 27 Jackson Street, Passaic, N. J. Rebani Motor Boat Company."

HARKNESS ENTERS FOR BENNETT TROPHY

First Aviator to Signify Intention of Taking Part in the Elimination Race.

ALL EUROPE SENDING AIRMEN

Contract for Belmont Park Signed Which Binds International Meet for Last of October.

The first entry for the elimination race for the Gordon Bennett International Trophy, held by Glenn H. Curtiss, was received yesterday by the Contest Committee of the International Aviation Contest, to be held over the Belmont Park course the latter part of October. The entry was received from Harry Harkness, the son of the Standard Oil magnate.

The contest for this trophy will bring together the most prominent aviators in the world. France has designated three of its most prominent airmen, and England, Italy, and Germany have also nominated their representatives. Owing to the number of American aviators who are desirous of competing it will be necessary to hold elimination trials. These will be held over the Belmont Park course on Oct. 21 or 22, and two representatives will be selected to represent the United States with Glenn H. Curtiss, who has already been selected. Mr. Curtiss at present holds the world's championship, and will not be required to enter the elimination contest.

Mr. Harkness has not made any spectacular flights on this side of the water, but in Europe he has been very successful. For some time he has been located at the Mineola aviation grounds, where he is perfecting a machine which he expects to develop remarkable speed.

During the early days of automobiling Mr. Harkness won a road race to Boston, held under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America, but was disqualified on a technicality. Later he captured the trophy for the Mount Washington hill climb. With the introduction of the aeroplane Mr. Harkness gave up the automobile and devoted all his attention to the new machine.

Getting two Antoinette machines from France Mr. Harkness has succeeded in developing one from which, with the addition of a special French motor, great things are expected. In a conversation with Chairman McCoy of the Contest Committee yesterday Mr. Harkness said that he was satisfied that his machine would break all records for the competition.

The report that the French aviators would object to the five-kilometer course was ridiculed by Mr. Harkness, who said that the European courses were inferior to that laid out for this contest.

Any doubt as to the international meet being held at Belmont Park was dispelled yesterday when August Belmont, representing the Westchester Racing Association, signed the contract.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 30.—Sidney Drew of St. Louis, who arranged for a series of qualifying flights in the balloon Pittsfield, has objected to being licensed as a balloon pilot, and has written to the Pittsfield Aero Club that he will not make the flights.

Drew carries large life and accident insurance policies, and the companies threatened to cancel the policies if he began ballooning as a sport.

AGAIN FLIES OVER PARIS.

Bielovucci Manoeuvres in Air for Forty Minutes—Latham's Feat.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—M. Bielovucci in a biplane to-day again manoeuvred over Paris for forty minutes at a height of between 1,500 and 2,000 feet.

HAVRE, Aug. 30.—Incident to the international aviation meet here a race was held to-day across the mouth of the Seine to Trouville, about twelve miles. Those who made the trip were Latham, Morane, Le Blanc, and Aubrun.

Latham made the journey three times without landing.

NIGHT FLIGHTS AT HEMPSTEAD

Frisbie Makes a Record on a Mere Ten Days' Education.

Special to The New York Times.

AVIATION FIELD, HEMPSTEAD PLAINS, L. I., Aug. 30.—After only ten days' preliminary education J. J. Frisbie demonstrated to-night his right to be called an aviator. Frisbie's flight to-night is a wonder to all those who have watched his short career. It took him just two weeks to build his plane. This was followed by repeated smashups and disappointments. Frisbie capped these experiences of a month, all told, by taking out his aeroplane to-night and rising to the altitude usually maintained by Clifford B. Harmon during his exhibitions here. He flew from the field over the neighboring lots, and over the roof of the Meadow Brook Club, disappearing from sight. When he came back and descended he had to shake hands with an enthusiastic gallery.

Joe Seymour also made a good flight to-night. He reached a good height, running on three cylinders. Seymour had difficulty in making his left turn and once was forced to make an extra lap of the field in order to make his landing.

Tod Schriever again took out the Dietz machine and flew over to the Meadow Brook Club and back. This morning he had the machine out and broke up the front control near the motor parkway. Frisbie leaves here to-morrow for Rochester, his home, where a three days' meeting has been arranged. From there he goes on to Helena and Spokane. George Russell is departing shortly also, and this leaves the grounds here practically deserted during the Harvard-Boston meet.

THREE HURT IN FAMILY FEUD.

One Woman, Recently Operated On in a Serious Condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Samuels, accompanied by their 4-year-old son, Harry, started out for a walk last night from their tailor shop, at 786 Rogers Avenue, in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. The family of Harris Albert, grocer at 784, and the family of Samuel Rankle, butcher at 788, stood at their doors.

There has been bad blood between Samuels on the one side and Rankle and Albert on the other. He says they are bad men from Russia, where they have shed blood, and he has them now under bond to keep the peace, for he declares they have made his life a burden since they came here, three months ago. They declare that Samuels is snobbish and that he goes to Brownsville to buy his meat and groceries.

Though Mrs. Samuels has been out of the hospital only two weeks, where she underwent an operation, she was the centre of a fight that started as soon as the family appeared. Harry Samuels and 6-year-old Henry Albert clinched. Samuels, Sr., ran to the corner to telephone for help. In a few minutes Fire Company 139, from Church Avenue, came racing down the street, followed by the police reserves from the Flatbush Avenue Station.

The firemen had nothing to do, but the police had plenty. Friends of the three families had joined in the fight, and the noise was deafening. When the police had broken up the fight and cleared the street they found Mrs. Samuels lying on the pavement. She was removed to her home. It was said that the attack on her may endanger her life.

Six-year-old Henry Albert lay on the pavement unconscious, with a possible fracture of the skull. He was removed to his home and treated by a neighborhood doctor. Mrs. Rankle had a scalp wound. No arrests were made.

AUTOS COLLIDE; GIRL HURT.

She Is Pitched Out as They Crash in West End Avenue.

Anton Wagner, chauffeur for Walter Clifford of Whitestone Landing, L. I., was running his employer's automobile east in Seventy-second Street last night at 10:30 o'clock. He had in the car with him Annie Till of 827 First Avenue. Coming north on West End Avenue at about the same time was the touring car of Russell V. Stewart of 344 West Seventy-second Street. Mr. Stewart and his wife were in the rear seat and his chauffeur, Carl Nimm of 204 West Sixty-ninth Street, was driving.

According to Hugo Messurl of 640 East Seventy-first Street, a witness whose name was taken by the police, the Stewart car was racing up West End Avenue at high speed. As the east-bound car, driven by Wagner, turned into West End Avenue the Stewart car crashed into it. The forward wheels of both cars were torn off and the fronts battered in.

The Wagner car was thrown up on the sidewalk, and Miss Till was hurled out on the pavement. She was picked up and sent to Flower Hospital suffering from wounds and bruises. None of the others in either car was injured; none of them being even thrown out of their seats.

Policeman Cohen took Nimm away to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, followed by Mr. Stewart. In the station the prisoner said he had no chauffeur's license. Mr. Stewart admitted that he had none, either. The chauffeur was arrested for running a car without a license and for speeding.

MORTALLY HURT BY AUTO.

Car Going Slowly In Ocean Grove Fractures Boy's Skull.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—Struck by an automobile owned by Frank L. Thompson of Philadelphia at Ocean Grove this afternoon, Hartley Clements, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clements of Nutley, N. J., Summer residents of Ocean Grove, was so badly injured that he probably will die. He is at the Long Branch Hospital with a fractured skull.

Only the chauffeur was in the car, which was going at moderate speed, when Hartley and another little fellow who had been playing on the sidewalk, ran directly in front of the machine. The driver swerved his car in time to avoid striking one of the boys.

Young Clements was carried into a nearby drugstore and from there taken to the Monmouth Hospital at Long Branch in his father's automobile.

MISS TAFT'S AUTO DISABLED.

Robert Taft Said to Have Been Responsible—But It Is Fixed.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 30.—Miss Helen Taft's electric runabout has been disabled again, and this time Robert, her eldest brother, is blamed. Robert borrowed the machine to make a run down to Manchester. On the trip the resistance coils were burned out, and the car was out of commission until this afternoon, when electricians finished repairing it.

Charlie Taft put the car out of commission last year by driving it into a tree. Miss Taft takes great pleasure in driving her own car, but has never mastered the powerful gasoline machines in the President's garage.

MOTOR CYCLE HITS FAT MAN.

His Leg Cut, but the Rider's Is Fractured—Mother to His Rescue.

After a motor cycle accident last night at Washington Avenue and 183d Street, Frederick Bruss of 160 East 189th Street, rider of the cycle, and Joseph C. Wolz of 2,248 Ryer Avenue were taken to the Fordham Hospital by Dr. Hoy. Bruss had a fractured leg and Wolz a laceration of the leg.

Bruss's motor cycle was going along at a merry clip when it ran into Wolz, who is rather stout. Wolz was too big for the machine to brush aside, and it turned a complete somersault. Bruss was catapulted into the air, and fell heavily, with his left leg crumpled under him.

Prompt work on the part of Wolz's mother, who was with her son, and Patrolman Cooper of the Tremont Station perhaps saved Wolz from death. A great gash had been torn in the man's leg and an artery broken. Mrs. Wolz tore away part of her underskirt to bind up the wound, and Policeman Cooper made a tourniquet. It was an hour before an ambulance arrived from the Fordham Hospital, and then Dr. Hoy said that the tourniquet and bandage had probably saved Wolz's life.

MURDER? NO. THE DISHES.

Police Reserves Find Mrs. Rotenze Surveying Crockery Ruins.

When her husband left home to attend a lodge meeting last night Mrs. Mary Rotenze of 1,015 Grote Street, the Bronx, locked the door because she felt timid, and then started to wash the dinner dishes.

Thirty minutes later the police reserves from the Tremont Avenue Station knocked on the door and receiving no response, broke it in. They fully expected to find that some one had been murdered, as excited neighbors had telephoned to Police Headquarters and Police Headquarters had passed the message along to the Tremont Avenue Station that there was violence being done in the Rotenze apartment.

The neighbors said they could hear crashing as if a desperate fight was going on, and then a scream, and after that silence. The police reserves found Mrs. Rotenze in the midst of many broken dishes.

"Murder! fiddlesticks!" she exclaimed, "the shelf tippled over just as I was putting up the heaviest platter, and that broke on my nose. The rest broke on the floor, and it was our best set, too."

Her nose was cut and she was sent to the Fordham Hospital, where the surgeons repaired it.

WINDOW SMASHER TO JAIL.

Boy Habitually Threw Iron Spikes at Store Fronts from Elevated Train.

On complaint of storekeepers along First Avenue, from Fourth to Eighth Street, who said they had had their windows broken and their customers driven away by a boy who rode on the rear platform of a north-bound elevated train every afternoon for a week, and rained down slugs and iron spikes upon those below, Special Policeman Walsh, employed by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, made several trips up and down the road yesterday afternoon.

On one of them he found a boy leaning over the rear platform of the last car, and throwing something to the street below just as the train reached Sixth Street. At the Fifth Street Station the boy said he was Edward Schmidt, 17 years old, of 6 Lincoln Place. In his pockets were found fifteen six-inch iron spikes and several pieces of lead, weighing two and three ounces each.

Schmidt told Magistrate Harris in the Night Court that he was employed in an iron foundry, and had taken the spikes from there. The storekeepers could not identify him as the boy who had thrown the missiles, but Magistrate Harris thought the evidence sufficient, and fined him $10. Unable to pay this, the boy was sent to the Workhouse.

INSECT PEST IN PITTSBURG.

Invaders from England and Scotland Suddenly Appear in City.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 30.—Pittsburg has been invaded by the scarce vapourer, a grayish caterpillar that is devouring vines, flowers, and trees on private estates, lawns, and parks, as well as invading homes in the residential sections. It made its appearance for the first time a week ago in tens of thousands.

Specimens taken to entomologists disclosed the family of the species. The invader is one rarely seen in this country and, according to the scientists, its principal habitat is England and Scotland.

NO MORE PICKETING BY CLOAKMAKERS

Acting Mayor Mitchel Revokes the Leave He Granted to the Strikers.

APPEAL BEING PREPARED

Ex-Judge Parker Retained by the Union to Contest Justice Goff's Injunction Order.

Acting Mayor John Purroy Mitchel revoked yesterday his order of Aug. 12 directing the police to permit the strikers in the cloak and suit trade in this city to picket the shops of their former employers so long as they did so in small numbers and did not break the law. The Acting Mayor sent another note to Police Commissioner Baker instructing him to disregard his former orders and no longer to let the strikers picket at all.

Mr. Mitchel sent this letter to the Commissioner, explaining that his action resulted from the injunction against the strikers issued by Supreme Court Justice Goff on last Saturday at the instance of the Cloak, Suit, and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association through a suit brought by Treasurer Max Schwarcz:

City of New York, Office of the Mayor.
Aug. 30, 1910.

Hon. William F. Baker, Police Commissioner:

Sir: Since writing my letter to you of Aug. 12, 1910, in regard to the conduct of the Police Department in the cloakmakers' strike now in progress, Mr. Justice Goff has handed down an important decision affecting this matter.

The learned Justice has found, as a fact, that the main purpose and intent of this strike is illegal, and has issued an injunction restraining the strikers from pursuing their present course.

I have been in communication with Judge Goff, and he has advised me that his finding is to the effect that the intent of this strike is illegal. Your department is an administrative one, and must take its law from the courts. With this finding of fact by the Supreme Court that the purpose of this strike is illegal it follows that you may no longer permit strikers any greater privileges on the streets than ordinary citizens. In view, therefore, of this new decision, you should not follow any longer my communication of Aug. 12, 1910, which, following the decisions of the Court of Appeals governing strikes directed to a legal object, instructed you to allow the strikers to picket in front of the cloakmakers' shops in small numbers. Respectfully,

JOHN PURROY MITCHEL,
Acting Mayor.

Union officials have been very much upset by Justice Goff's ruling, and preparations are under way to fight it through every court possible. It was announced that ex-Judge Alton B. Parker has been retained to act for the union in the appeal from the injunction, and that he is expected in this city to-day to consult with Meyer London, counsel for the strikers.

"We shall appeal from Justice Goff's verdict no matter what the result of the strike may be," said Mr. London yesterday. "The decision has created a serious condition in labor affairs, and if sustained will have the most far-reaching effect. Because of its influence on other labor troubles, if not on account of its present effect, we should have to fight the injunction with every weapon at our command."

Abraham Rosenberg, President of the International Women's Garment Workers, who is named among the defendants in the injunction order, said yesterday:

"Our pickets are out as usual, although they went out voluntarily and with no instructions from us. They know their rights and they know, too, that the union officials have never countenanced violation of the law, nor have they approved of violence. As long as they conduct themselves in an orderly manner I cannot see why they may not walk the streets as well as any other citizen."

Members of the manufacturers' association were jubilant over the Acting Mayor's order. They declared that many of their men would return to them now that they could be assured of protection from the pickets and the unruly mobs of strikers who previously have stood about the various cloak shops, unmolested by the police since Mr. Mitchel's first order of Aug. 12.

As a result of Justice Goff's decision, several strikers were arrested yesterday. The first to feel the weight of the Goff decision was Jacob Goldner of 87 Willett Street. At 6 o'clock he was seized at Broadway and Twenty-seventh Street by Leonard S. Hershlein, a cloak manufacturer of 31 West Twenty-seventh Street, who called Policeman Stafford and insisted on Goldner's arrest, charging him with picketing and also with accosting some of Hershlein's employes and endeavoring to persuade them to cease working. At the New West Twentieth Street Station Goldner was held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Another striker arrested for picketing was Isaac Schuman of 1,648 Washington Avenue, the Bronx. Gustav Plonsky, whose establishment is at 35 West Twentieth Street, told Policeman Weinberg that Schuman had been picketing in front of his place and that he had followed two of his women employes and threatened them with bodily harm. A charge of disorderly conduct was preferred against him.

Seventeen striking cloakmakers were arraigned yesterday before Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions on charges of destroying property, and, following their plea of not guilty, they were held in $100 bail each for trial.

The arrest of the seventeen strikers was a result of an investigation which the Grand Jury has made. On July 22, it is alleged, the prisoners went to the firm of Schlechter & Co., at 17 East Broadway, and destroyed property valued at $500. All of the prisoners, the police say, have been identified as having participated in the breaking of windows and the tearing up of goods in the place.

CARONIA LATE AT THE PIER.

Detained In Bay, Where Stricken School Teacher Was Taken Off.

The docking of the Cunarder Caronia, from Liverpool, was delayed until 9 o'clock last night because of the detention of the ship off Staten Island an hour and fifteen minutes after the medical inspection had been passed at Quarantine, while Miss Grace Murray, a Brooklyn school teacher, who was stricken with typhoid fever on the voyage, was transferred to a tug. Miss Murray was a member of a party that toured Europe as a winner in a popularity contest of The Brooklyn Eagle.

Gen. A. S. Hartwell, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Hawaii, who arrived on the Caronia, accompanied by his two daughters, the Misses Bernice and Juliette Hartwell, said that while sugar had been the principal product of the Islands, an effort was being made successfully to introduce the production of rubber.

"There is no unrest among the Japs in Hawaii, although it is true many of them there are soldiers," said the Judge. "Not a single sign of trouble from this source is to be found by the Americans, who are closely observant."

Gen. Hartwell has been a resident of Hawaii since 1868. He will be in New York until Sunday.

STOLE TO HAVE A GOOD TIME.

Erie Cashier Confesses the Embezzlement of $3,200 from the Railroad.

Charles Casserly, assistant cashier in the Erie Railroad freight office at the foot of Pavonia Avenue, Jersey City, was arrested on a warrant yesterday as he was about to enter his home, at 183 Erie Street, charged with embezzling $3,200. The complainant, Charles D. Ward of the auditing department of the Erie, at 50 Church Street, Manhattan, discovered the shortages yesterday and traced the theft to Casserly.

The accused admitted his guilt and said he had spent the money in having a good time with his friends, and that he lost part of it gambling. He was bailed in $5,000 for appearance to-day in the Second Criminal Court.

Casserly is 21 years old. He has been in the employ of the Erie for several years. He was drawing a salary of $63 a month, and was under a $2,000 surety bond. He began taking the money in July, 1909.

HAD A TACKING AUTO.

Dr. Rockwell Amazed When a Magistrate Suggested He Was Unsteady.

A touring car containing two men sped by Motor Cycle Policeman Haggerty in such a fantastic and rapid manner on the Boston Post Road yesterday morning that he put out after it. He calculated that it was going thirty-two miles, but that counting the tacks it took back and forth across the road it was really going much faster. He arrested the driver, who said he was Dr. Albert V. Rockwell of 931 East 178th Street. Dr. Rockwell said his companion was Dr. George Anderson of 1,985 Prospect Avenue.

In the Morrisania Court the prisoner so handled his legs that Magistrate Kernochan asked:

"Have you been drinking?"

"A few," answered Dr. Rockwell, with a deprecating smile.

"Make another charge, then," said the Magistrate, "for driving an automobile while intoxicated."

"Why, Judge, you do astonish me," exclaimed Dr. Rockwell. "My friend and I—"

"All right, old boy, I'm here," shouted a hoarse voice from the rear of the courtroom. "Don' give up the ship till she sinks."

"It is only my friend," said Dr. Rockwell, but the friend kept on talking about sinking ships until he was put out of court.

Magistrate Kernochan held the prisoner in $500 bail on the intoxication charge and $100 on the speeding charge. A court lawyer had by this time brought forward Pasquale Sacco of 3,218 Third Avenue, a fruit dealer, as a bondsman. Dr. Rockwell slapped him on the back, crying out: "Wow! where did you get all that money?"

RETURN TCHAYKOVSKY FUND.

Used to Bail the Russian Patriot, but Money Is Still Needed.

The fund raised in America to be given as bail for Nicholas Tchaykovsky, the Russian patriot, has been returned to this country. The American Friends of Russian Freedom, who raised the fund, have sent a letter to the subscribers, telling of the return of the money, now that it has served its purpose, and expressing the gratitude of M. Tchaykovsky and his family for the assistance rendered.

The letter says that there is urgent need of money for the purposes for which the Friends of Russian Freedom was organized, and that any money given to the committee will be used for the cause only when authorized by the Executive Committee of the American Friends of Russian Freedom. Communications by subscribers as to what disposal they wish to make of their subscriptions should be addressed to Joseph M. Price, temporary Treasurer, 192 West Broadway.

CONEY EVIDENCE TO DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Acting Mayor Mitchel Sends Findings of Commissioners of Accounts to Elder.

RUSSELL PUTS ON THE LID

Tells Police He Is In Earnest When He Says He Wants Them to Close Illegal Resorts.

Criminal proceedings may be the result of the investigation made by Acting Mayor Mitchel into the conditions at Coney Island. He has decided to forward to District Attorney Elder of Kings County all the documents and affidavits which were made by Inspectors from the office of the Commissioners of Accounts of conditions at the Island.

Mr. Mitchel declined last nigh tto discuss whether there was anything in these reports which would make it possible to find indictments with any prospect of success.

"I have sent all the information I possess," he said, "to the proper criminal authority, and there my responsibility rests. It is for Mr. Elder, as District Attorney of Kings, to determine whether the evidence is sufficient to warrant prosecution."

The letter covering these documents will be forwarded to Mr. Elder to-day. It was not sent yesterday, as the only copy of the affidavit which the Acting Mayor possesses was needed in the Supreme Court. There yesterday afternoon the injunction which Inman's Café had obtained against the interference of the police came up before Justice Hendrick on a motion to show cause why it should not be vacated. The café proprietors wished to have the matter adjourned, so that they could enjoy a still longer respite from interference before the matter was thoroughly thrashed out. The city, however, resisted the plea for long delay and the case went over for only a single day in order that another affidavit may be presented by the city. It will come up again to-day.

Gaynor Unable to Act.

Acting Mayor Mitchel's visit to Mayor Gaynor at St. James, from which it was thought a good deal might happen in connection with the tenure in power of Police Commissioner Baker, was productive of nothing. The Mayor declined to be troubled in his present state of health with municipal affairs, and Mr. Mitchel did not press him.

He has already expressed the feeling that since he is in authority only temporarily it is not his business to interfere with any of the departments except in the case of an emergency. As a matter of fact, under the charter the Acting Mayor has not the right of dismissal or appointment for thirty days from the time he takes control of the city's affairs, so that it will be eight or nine days yet before Mr. Mitchel can make any change in the Commissionerships. In any case, however, he believes that Mayor Gaynor is the man to deal with his own appointees, and he will do nothing with regard to them if he can avoid it.

Inspector Russell took hold with a firm hand last night at Coney Island. He appeared at the station house at 9 o'clock and addressed the sixty men of the outgoing platoon in the place of Acting Captain Matthew Robinson. He had a heart-to-heart talk with the men as they went on duty. He told them that he had been informed that there was gambling running wide open at three hotels—one on Oceanic Walk, another on Seaside Walk, and a third the location of which he was not sure about. There were also, he understood, two disorderly houses carrying on business in a flagrant fashion.

The Inspector appealed to the men to help him clean up the Island. He instructed them if they obtained any evidence to report it in a sealed envelope to Acting Captain Robinson. He assured the patrolmen that he was in earnest in his instructions and that he was determined that the law should be strictly enforced.

Russell Promises a Square Deal.

In talking to the reporters afterward Inspector Russell declared that he was only trying to give Coney Island a fair deal. He was not going to do anything to interfere with the legitimate amusements of the resort, but he wanted it to be clearly understood that in the time he is in command there, which will cover the rest of the season, till after the Mardi Gras, the law must be obeyed, and the abuses which called for the investigation made by Acting Mayor Mitchel must cease.

The work of cleaning up Coney Island is to be done by the uniformed force. A week ago Commissioner Baker permitted Inspector O'Brien the use of ten plain clothes men, contrary to Mayor Gaynor's order against the detail of any men out of uniform. When Inspector Russell came to the Island on Sunday for his first twenty-four hours' assignment, as head of the Central Office Detective Bureau, he brought with him fifteen men.

The Central Office men have already returned to Police Headquarters. Of the plain clothes men four or five alone are left. They have in their possession several John Doe warrants and they alone know for whom they are intended. They have been kept on at Coney Island till these have been disposed of, and then they, too, will go into uniform again.

Inman's, the Volk's Garden, and the New Orpheum, the three places which are temporarily protected by injunction, were open last night, as usual. Of the three places from which Commissioner Baker withdrew on Saturday the right to sell liquor, Connor's Music Hall, the Surf Avenue Opera House, and Greenwald's, the last was tightly shut up last night.

Connor's Music Hall tried the experiment of running its concert hall with soft drinks, and as soon as Acting Capt. Robinson heard of it he at once sent a uniformed policeman over to it, to see that everything was conducted legally. The Surf Avenue Opera House, which rejoices in moving pictures, was also open in a half-hearted way last night, but it seemed that most of its activities were confined to the playing of games of pinochle by the proprietor and his waiters.

FOLLOWS CLAIRVOYANT CLUE

Zimmer Was Told His Nephew, Found Dead in Park, Was Murdered.

Joseph Zimmer of Conshohocken, Penn., said to be well-to-do, came to New York yesterday to ascertain if a clairvoyant had told him the truth about the death of his nephew, August J. Kuehls of 22 North Jessup Street, Philadelphia, a musician, whose body was found in Forest Park, Richmond Hill, Queens, with a wound in his neck and another in his chest. He is so sure that the clairvopant told him the truth in saying that his nephew was murdered by two Italians that he will spend the rest of his life in trying to bring them to justice.

The young man came to Ne wYork on May 16. He brought with him $60. Two days later his body was found in Forest Park. The police assumed that he had killed himself. On the body was a small picture of the dead youth and a card saying that he belonged to the American Federation of Musicians. Some union musicians had the card published in a number of musical periodicals.

In this way the death of Kuehls got to his family. His brother came to New York last week and identified the body. He told Joseph Zimmer, the uncle, about the death, and Mr. Zimmer called on a clairvoyant on Manday. Mr. Zimmer told the police of the Jamaica Station last night that the clairvoyant had told him so many things that he knew to be true that he believed implicitly what she had said about the youth having been murdered by two Italians for his money.

NO CHOLERA IN BERLIN?

Belief That Scare Was Unjustified—Two Known Cases in Spandau.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—The cholera scare has greatly abated to-night.

The Lokalanzeiger prints a statement from one of the physicians having the investigation of the supposed pestilence in charge to the effect that none of the suspects detained in the suburb of Spandau is suffering from cholera, and that inquiry into the case of the house servant who died in this city last night shows almost to a certainty that he was not suffering from cholera.

An official report given out this evening concerning the members of the family of this servant, who were detained for observation, says that a bacteriological examination in their cases showed negative results.

Eight further suspects were sent to the Virchow Hospital this afternoon for observation.

The outbreak at Spandau, which up to the present consists of two authentic cases, is thought to have been due to Russian emigrants who spent the night at the nearby emigrant station at Ruplebe, where all Russian emigrants to the United States are detained for medical examination. The Spandau Council has petitioned the Government to remove the station further away from Spandau so as to avoid the danger of contagion reaching that place.

At a long conference to-day between the health and police authorities, at which the Prussian Minister of Ecclesiastical Affairs, Instruction and Medical Affairs was present, it was determined to enforce the strictest application of precautionary measures long ago prepared for an emergency.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—The mortality in this city resulting from the cholera epidemic is decreasing. Yesterday's figures for the capital were 47 cases, 17 deaths, and 638 persons under observation in the hospitals.

Eight new cases developed at Odessa on Sunday and yesterday.

Prof. Rein, head of the special sanitary commission which is fighting the pestilence in South Russia, reported to-day from the Province of Ekaterinoslaff that the railways of the Southeast had registered 2,319 cases among their passengers and employes.

Extraordinary efforts are being made, by the introduction of ambulance cars and medical aid, to prevent the railroads from serving as distributers of the infection.

ROME, Aug. 30.—In the past twenty-four hours twelve new cases of cholera and six deaths from the disease were reported from the towns of San Ferdinando, Cerignola, Margherita di Savoia, Trinitapoli, Barletta, Trani, and Molfetta.

ADRIANCE GIVES GEM COSTS.

Custom Estimates Far Too Large, Poughkeepsie Man Says.

PAUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 30. "The valuation of $115,000 put by the customs officials on the jewelry taken from Mrs. I. Reynolds Adriance when she arrived in New York on the White Star liner Baltic Sunday is grossly exaggerated," said Mr. Adriance this afternoon.

"Mrs. Adriance and I have gone through the list," he said, "and have recalled the purchase of many articles. We estimate that the value of these goods at approximately $10,000, exclusive of the necklace.

"There is one item that the Appraisers of the Custom House have fixed a valuation on that is at least twenty times the purchase price. And this seems but a striking illustration of the methods by which the tremendously exaggerated valuation of the total has been arrived at. I realize that I am in a somewhat delicate position, and do not desire to make any statement relative to this matter at this time, nor do I care to speak of the proceedings still pending.

"It is not pleasant, nor is it fair to me or to my family, to have this matter so grossly exaggerated and then to have it published at such length in the newspapers. For this reason I am glad to correct the impression that has gone forth from the Custom House and to make it clear that the valuation of the goods that were in the possession of my wife and daughter when they landed in New York was $10,000 at the most, exclusive of the necklace, instead of $100,000.

"The lace shawl which the customs officials have valued at some $3,000 was purchased for just $75, and the jeweled dog collar, on which a valuation of between $15,000 and $20,000 has been placed, cost Mrs. Adriance $3,000."

Mr. Adriance's statement is corroborated by Mrs. Adriance.

MRS. McKENNA GIVES BAIL.

Chicago Woman Accused of Smuggling to Answer Charge on Sept. 15.

Mrs. Mayne McKenna of 2,522 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., who was arrested on Saturday upon her arrival on the Mauretania, charged with an attempt to smuggle goods into this country, appeared yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Hitchcock at 27 William Street.

On inspection of Mrs. McKenna's baggage, Customs Inspectors found $15,000 worth of jewelry and seven Paris gowns, valued at $1,600, which had not been declared. Upon Mrs. McKenna's sworn statement that the jewels had been purchased in this country she was allowed to keep them, but the gowns were seized and she was arrested.

Commissioner Hitchcock put her under $5,000 bail, which she gave through the Illinois Surety Company of 5 Nassau Street. The Commissioner set Sept. 15 as the day for the examination.

AUSTRIAN FUGITIVE CAUGHT.

Town Treasurer Charged with Stealing $12,500 Held for Extradition.

George Kollath, alias Ernest Karn, former Town Treasurer of Erzsabetsalva, Austria-Hungary, was arrested at 247 Avenue A by United States Marshal Henkel yesterday as a fugitive from justice.

In a warrant of extradition obtained by Alexander von Nuber, the Austro-Hungarian Consul General in New York, the prisoner is charged with having fled from Erzsabetsalva on March 25 with 30,000 kronen in cash and securities worth 23,000 kronen, stolen from the town treasury. The total amount is equivalent to about $12,500.

Kollath was arraigned before United States Commissioner Alexander and held to await the arrival of official papers.

AUTO KILLS A WOMAN.

Runs Her Down In Sight of a Crowd—Negro Chauffeur Arrested.

An unidentified woman, dressed in black and perhaps thirty years old, was run over and instantly killed early this morning at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street, by an automobile that was bound for the West Twenty-third Street ferry. Edward Bennett, a negro of 234 West Sixty-third Street, was driving, and people standing on the corner say that his horn gave no warning as the car bore down on the woman.

She was dragged for some distance, breaking both legs, and suffering internal injurnes. Dr. Cowan found her dead, when he came with an ambulance from the New York Hospital. Patrolman Flannery of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station was standing near by. He joined with others in admitting that Bennett was not driving overfast, but the man was arrested, charged with homicide.

His passenger was Michael Dillon of 50 Amsterdam Avenue. Bennett said that the car was his. The body of the woman was taken to the police station.

Cayuga Bar for Teller.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—At a meeting of the Cayuga County Bar Association a resolution was unanimously adopted asking both the Democratic and Republican State Conventions to put in nomination for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals John D. Teller of this city in place of Judge Edward T. Bartlett, deceased. Judge Teller was the nominee of the Democratic Party for the same office in 1895.

RAILROAD GRAFTERS STRIPPED NEW CARS

Things Taken Used in Repairing Them Later, Says Osterman Employe.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL PAID TWICE

Air Hose, Brake Shoes, Bolts, &c., Ordered Removed at Night by Osterman Himself, Witness Testifies.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Fred C. Barbott, yard inspector for the Ostermann Manufacturing Company, one of the concerns charged with grafting in Illinois Central Railroad car repair contracts, on the witness stand in the Municipal Court described methods to-day which he said were used to defraud the railroad company.

Barbott said that Illinois Central cars—in "strings" of from ten to fourteen—were switched into the yards of the Ostermann plant at the close of the working day. At night, he said, Henry C. Ostermann, President of his company, directed the dismantling of the cars. Air hose, angla cocks, brake shoes, bolts, and various other equipment were stripped from the cars, Barbott testified.

Water then was applied to parts from which equipment had been removed, the witness declared, so that rust would form and make the absence of equipment appear old. The equipment taken from the cars was kept by the Osterman Company, said Barbott, to make repairs. In this way, said the witness, the railroad company was paying at least twice for much of its car equipment.

Barbott also declared that some of the Illinois Sentral car Inspectors received pay cheks from the Osterman Company and that he had seen Illinois Central officials, including Frank B. Harriman, former General Manager, visit Osterman's offices in the shop yards.

Barbott stated that he had been a foreman for the Illinois Central Railroad at its Burnside shops for fifteen years. He said that his position as yard inspector for the Ostermann Company was obtained for him by August Dietrich, one of the Illinois Central foremen at the Burnside shops. Barbott said that he took his orders direct from Ostermann.

"Ostermann told me to go ahead and repair the cars as far as I could," said the witness.

"What did he mean by that?" asked Walter Fisher, counsel for the railroad company.

"Well," the witness replied, "as far as our material went."

"What did you do then?" asked Attorney Fisher.

"We went to the Illinois Central's Burnside shops to Elmer E. Wilson for what we wanted. Wilson sent the supplies to us."

"Were you ever in the yards when Osterman or any other employe actually removed fittings or materials from Illinois Central cars?"

"Yes, Sir," said Barbott. "Osterman and P. D. Carr and myself took off air horse and angle cocks, brake shoes, and other equipment from the cars before they were repaired. We did this to cars that came in at night when the shops were shut."

"The repaired cars were pulled out before the workmen in the shops came to work in the morning. They were checked by William Schaffer, car inspector for the railroad. I saw one pay check for $25 signed by Ostermann that was given to Schaffer. I was with Schaffer when he cashed the check in a saloon near the shops."

Previous to the appearance of Barbott on the witness stand, Theophile Reuther, a former Director of the Ostermann Company, continued his testimony of Monday. "I was told that John M. Taylor, general storekeeper for the Illinois Central," said Reuther, "would 'fix my clock' if I said anything about graft."

Reuter described at length the occasion when he said a threat was made against his life. He said that Dietrich and Milligan visited his home. They told him they came from John M. Taylor, and said: "For God's sake don't talk."

Officials from the general offices of the Illinois Central Railroad will be placed on the witness stand to-morrow in an attempt to show exactly, if possible, how much the railroad claims to have lost in car repairs.

TRADE WITH BRAZIL GROWS.

Germans Still Lead There, but Americans Are Catching Up.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—In the face of the keenest competition American trade in Brazil has shown a decided increase, according to a report from Consul General Anderson at Rio de Janeiro. The trade has been built up along conservative lines, and, while the Americans have suffered from a lack of properly trained representatives and have been hindered by a lack of banking facilities and proper passenger service, on the whole the trade has been upon a profitable basis such as will surely lead to future increase.

The systematic efforts of the German exporters during the last ten years have been most profitable. They have trained their own men for this special branch of commerce; have built up their banking facilities; have subsidized direct steamship lines, and have secured a sure hold on the Brazilian trade. Notwithstanding that the United States has gained proportionately more than any of its rivals, though in actual amount about the same as Germany.

Brazil has started on an era of industrial development, manufacturing its coarse goods, and supplying its simple needs. The currency also is on a better basis, and special efforts toward internal developments, railway mileage, harbor improvements, and city reconstruction are bearing fruit. The imports from the United States have increased from $14,916,425 in 1905 to $22,265,534 in 1909, an increase of $7,549,109.

To Contest Rye School Election.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The recent school election at Rye, whereby William H. Geary, President of the Board of Education, defeated Mrs. W. H. Parsons by 16 votes, will be investigated by the State Department of Education. A petition containing fifty signatures has been filed in appeal at Albany, and a certified copy has also been served on Mr. Geary and the local Board of Education. The petitioners assert they have evidence that illegal votes were cast, and also appeal from the decision of the district involving school accommodations in Edgeland and West Rye districts on the ground that they are an unnecessary expense.

NEGRO SOLDIER SHOT; ACCUSED OF MURDER

Fleeing from Charge, He Is Pursued and Held Up Waist Deep in a Canal.

REFUSES TO SURRENDER

And Engages In Pistol Duel with Pursuers Until He Falls with Two Bullets In His Back.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—As a result of a shooting affray at Great Bend on Monday night Private Pierre McGee, Troop L, Tenth United States Cavalry, colored, is in the city hospital here with severe wounds in his back; Private Sam Turner, Company D, Twenty-fourth Infantry, and Corp. John H. Jones, Company C, Twenty-fourth Infantry, both negroes, are dead, and Private William Pen, Troop L, Tenth Cavalry, is in jail.

Turner and Jones were killed in the Freeman House at Great Bend during a negro dance.

McGee, who is believed to have shot them, took to flight after they fell, and was captured early this morning by his pursuers when held at bay waist deep in a canal at Boonville, after refusing to surrender and engaging in a pistol duel with them. About thirty witnesses are being held at Great Bend under an armed guard to await their examination by Coroner H. L. Smith. They were placed underguard at the Freeman House immediately after the shooting.

The murder appears to have been the result of a grudge and bad whisky. On the second floor of the hotel is a large ballroom where the negroes at different times have conducted dances among themselves. At these dances the best of order does not prevail and they are characterized by much drinking and the presence of white and negro women. Last night the dance had just started, about thirty or forty being on the floor.

Jones and Turner were talking together in a wrangle of some sort. Turner stepped aside and McGee walked up and started to talk with him, after, it appears, Private Pen had walked into the room and said to McGee:

"Turner's got my gun."

"I'll see about that," said McGee, who then went to Turner.

Instantly a shot was fired. The music stopped and for an instant the hall was silent. A negro woman screamed when Turner fell. The shot was followed by two more in rapid succession, and Jones fell dead.

Some held Pen, while McGee made his escape in the darkness. No one could be found to-day who would directly connect Pen with the murder. Some say that he fired the second shot, which went wild, but that McGee fired the two shots which caused the deaths of the infantrymen.

At Pine Camp to-day it is believed that McGee rode his horse over to the hotel, and after the shooting mounted it and rode away.

The immediate cause of the trouble is supposed to be over some canteen checks issued at the post exchange of the Twenty-fourth Infantry. Thre has also been ill-feeling since the cavalry was defeated by the infantry at a baseball game on Sunday.

Jones had been in the army since 1898, enlisting in Company D, Twenty-fourth Infantry, at the breaking out of the Spanish war. He served with honor throughout the war, and he has had an excellent record. Turner enlisted in the Twenty-fourth Infantry in 1908. Previous to that he had served twelve years in the Ninth Cavalry.

Col. George Andrews, Adjutant General of the camp, at the beginning of the manoeuvres, issued orders that no enlisted men should wear side arms or carry a rifle outside the camp when not on duty.

McGee was captured after being shot in a running fight with civil officers before he gave up.

Boonville received word to look out for the fugitive from the military authorities at Pine Camp, early this morning, and when the 8 o'clock train drew in Deputy Sheriff Wetmore and Constable Studor spied McGee on the bumpers. The soldier started up the tracks at a run, the officers following. Two residents of the village tried to stop him, but McGee drew his big cavalry pistol, and held them off. Others joined in the chase, and McGee was cornered between the canal and a knitting mill after running several hundred yards. Pressed closely by the crowd, he jumped into the water, and, standing waist deep, turned the gun on his pursuers.

Studor called on him to surrender. McGee shot at him. Studor returned the fire, and then Walter Rinkle came up with a rifle. Both Rinkle and Studor fired at the same time and the negro dropped with two bullet holes in his back.

McGee was brought to a local hospital sidered serious.

INVESTIGATE A DROWNING.

Coroner Suspicious of Man's Death Who Fell Out of Rowboat.

Determined that a thorough investigation shall be made in the case of the drowning of William Moon, a clerk, of Mamaroneck, on Sunday morining, Coroner Iles ordered Dr. Hunter to perform an autopsy on the body of the man yesterday afternoon to determine the cause of death. While it is generally believed the drowning was the result of skylarking in a boat, Coroner Iles is not satisfied that such is the case and has ordered the autopsy. He has also asked the police to keep Maurice Geary of Weaver Street, Mamaroneck, under surveillance until the cause of the death of Moon is established for a certainty.

According to the police, Moon and Geary were engaged to a row a man to a sloop which was anchored near Mamaroneck early Sunday morning. After landing the man on the sloop the two men started back for Eddy's Pier. According to Geary, they "rocked" the boat, and it went over, and they went into the water. Geary is a good swimmer, but Moon could not swim at all, and in the darkness Geary says he lost track of Moon, and the latter drowned. Geary then swam ashore and reported the accident to the police.

Hoodwinking Clergymen

When a small clique of men put up a scheme to harness the clergy of America and induce the ministers to, in turn "hitch up" the members of the churches, we should all take notice.

They couldn't harness the preachers in a bad cause except by deceiving them.

Ministers of the gospel are essentially and fundamentally honest, but, like all men who work for the public good, they are at times misled by false statements.

Trust them when they have exact truth to speak from.

Now for the story which should interest every one for we are all either receivers of wages or we pay to wage earners and the freedom of each individual is at issue.

In various papers the following statement has been printed. Read it carefully at least twice.

"INTEREST IN LABOR SUNDAY

"Labor Sunday—the Sunday preceding Labor Day—will be observed generally this year and in future years throughout the United States. This because of the American Federation of Labor declaration for the observance of that day. The numerous letters recently received at American Federation of Labor headquarters from ministers is an assurance that interest in the idea of giving special attention to the cause of labor from the pulpit one day in the twelve months is widespread. Our readers are urged to try to bring about an understanding in their respective districts with representatives of the church so that ministers will make addresses that may attract trade unionists to the churches in large numbers for the day. Ministers should say what they think on the occasion in order that their trade union hearers may put the right estimate as to where the church stands on the question of the organization of labor. The more the subject is discussed the better will it be for labor. Union ethics are sound.—American Federationist."

Observe that "Labor Union" men "are urged" to induce ministers to make addresses that will attract trade unionists to the churches "for the day." "Ministers should say," etc., and winds up with "Union ethics are sound;" observe the hidden threat.

This is clipped from the American Federationist, the organ of Sam Gompers et al.

This clipping has been sent to papers throughout the country and the Typographical Union men in the newspaper offices instructed to "urge" that it be printed.

That is one of the ways of the "machine."

It looks harmless so the papers print it.

But! Let's lift the cover and look under.

The hidden motive is as dangerous to the peace and liberty of the citizen as a coiled rattlesnake in the grass.

Organization by workmen to peacefully and successfully present their side is necessary and most commendable.

There are such organizations now rapidly winning their way to public confidence without strikes, dynamite or killing fellow workmen.

(Some facts on this matter a little further along in this article.)

We see here a demand on the ministers of God, that they endorse and help build up the strike-producing, boycotting and violent American Federation of Labor.

Think of the man of God who teaches brotherly love being covertly ordered to praise and help get new members for an organization with a record for violence, crime and murder done by its members the like of which the world has never seen.

Think of the thousands of women made widows and the increasing thousands of children left fatherless by the pistol, club, dynamite and boot heel of members of this Labor Trust.

Any one who recalls the countless murders done in the multitude of strikes in the past few years will agree this is no exaggeration.

Take just one as an illustration:

There were some thirty men murdered and over 5,000 bruised and maimed in the Chicago teamster's strike.

There is seldom a day passes but somewhere in our country from one to a score of our fellow men are assaulted or murdered by members of this band.

Then remember the homes blown up or burned. The families hounded, the rioting, burning of street cars, wrecking of trains and attempted or successful killing of passengers.

The general disturbance of industry and the thousands of dollars forced from taxpayers to pay extra police, sheriffs, and militia to protect, even in a feeble way, the citizens from the mobs of members of the American Federation of Labor.

Then you will realize why the great peace-loving majority of over 80 million Americans protest against the growth of this crime-tainted organization comprising perhaps one and one half million men, of which it is estimated at least seven-tenths are peace-loving citizens and are members by coercion and are not in sympathy with the three-tenths who have gained control and force their methods.

We find that a few designing men have seized control of the American Federation of Labor, just as some shrewd capitalists have secured control of some railroads and other interests and are now twisting and turning them into machines for personal profit and fame.

These men cunningly plan to force workmen to join and pay 25 to 75 cents a month in fees.

Various methods are used to "induce" workmen to join.

First, they talk of the "tyranny of capital" making slaves of workmen.

Then they work up enthusiasm about the "brotherhood of man" and other talk which experience has shown excites the emotions of workmen and they are induced to "join" and pay fees to the leaders.

The 5000 workmen in Battle Creek are, as a rule, free from the dictates of the great Labor Trust and still get the highest wages in Michigan. If they had yielded to the smooth talk of the agents of the trust and joined, they would pay in fees from $1250.00 to $2000.00 a month to the big trust and be subject to strike orders any time.

Now they save that and put the money into homes and family comforts.

But the managers of the American Federation of Labor have worked hard and long to harness them.

The trust has sent small bales of money and last Winter 18 "organizers" to tie up Battle Creek. They hired halls, gave picture shows, smokers, etc., as an investment, looking to rich returns when they succeeded in having them tied hand and foot.

But they failed and the last of these "organizers" left Battle Creek on May 1st saying "it's no use."

The workmen knew the record of this great trust and formed their own association to protect their rights and also to protect them from the big Labor Trust.

In Philadelphia some 4000 independent street car men, who mainly had families, had their own union and refused to join the big trust, preferring to be free to work or not as they pleased.

But the trust planned to force them into the fee-paying ranks, so a strike was ordered to compel the traction company to kick out these men and hire only Labor Trust members.

It was not a question of wages or hours, but to push the free men out of their positions where they were earning good money to support their families. The strike was ordered, not to raise wages or reduce hours, remember, but solely to throw out members of an independent union and make places only for Labor Trust members, and thus show the independent men they could not earn a living unless they first paid fees to the trust managers.

Incidentally the people of Philadelphia must submit to no car service, rioting and bloodshed with millions in losses while these fee-hunting, notoriety-seeking trust leaders were teaching the world that industry cannot be carried on except by workmen who first bend the knee, bow the head and pay fees.

How these men as strike leaders love to see their names in the papers each morning! It's meat and bread to their souls.

Then think of the lordly power and don't forget the steady flow of money squeezed from the workman's hard earned pay envelope.

But when these leaders "tie up" any industry no man can hold a job who refuses to pay fines even on trumped up charges, and steadily pay fees whatever they are.

The workman is absolutely at the mercy of this band of men who have secured and hold control.

Many and many an honest workman has raised his voice and appealed to his fellows to rise and throw off the yoke of Gompers et al. But, as one writes, "At every convention of the American Federation of Labor, strong opposition comes up but at the critical moment the impassioned orator appears and most dramatically puts the spot light on the leader and covers him with a mawkish film of 'martyrdom' and the emotional delegates yell in delight, forgetting the instructions of the peaceful workingmen at home who desire to free themselves from the odium of membership under the great advocates of strike, boycott, violence and hate."

So we see the unequalled insolence with which these trust leaders propose to "induce" ministers to pull their chestnuts from the fire by preaching modern aggressive and violent labor trust methods.

There is a better way to secure justice for workers, as will appear further along.

Just a little diversion here.

I am charged with having first brought to the attention of the public some years ago, the name "Labor Trust."

A trust is a combination of men or organizations for the purpose of selling their product at a profit and restricting production to effect it.

We will say a large Oil Company gathers in smaller ones and thus controls production.

The Labor Trust "gathers in" local trade organizations and thus has power to say how much work each man shall do.

The Oil Company then fixes prices.

The Labor Trust does likewise.

The Oil Company may "use methods" to force an unwilling dealer to join.

The Labor Trust men go further and slug the independent man if he tries to sell his labor without paying fees and "obeying orders." They are both exactly alike in purpose, which, in both cases is entirely selfish to gain power and money for the leaders.

Certain Labor Trust members do not hesitate to use violence, dynamiting of property, burning homes of independent men and even murder to force obedience.

The Oil Company doesn't go so far.

Both are extremely dangerous to the welfare of people and communities, for power placed in the hands of a few men either representing Capital or Labor is almost always abused and the public suffers.

Remember reader that your safety lies in strenuous opposition to all trusts which try to ride over and dictate to the people.

Only by opposing their growth can you retain your personal liberty.

Now to ministers.

The average congregation is made up of about 90 per cent. of free citizens and much less than 10 per cent. of members of the Labor Trust.

The free citizen wants to hear words defending the rights and independence of the common man, free from the arbitrary dictates of any self-seeking organization either of Capital or Labor.

The merchant, lawyer, school teacher, doctor, clerk, farmer and workman rebels against any forcible stopping of trains, boats, street cars, or factories, for the prosperity of the community is entirely dependent on steady continuance of these things.

Men don't like strikes, boycotts, injured workmen or burned cars and factories.

A famous divine says: "These men may hate capitalists, but their hate for other laboring men burns like a flame, eats like nitric acid, is malignant beyond all description."

Then we remembered cases of acid throwing, eyes gouged out, children pursued, women stripped, homes destroyed, men murdered and the long, long list of atrocities practiced by Labor Trust members on other human beings who cannot agree with the trust methods.

Now for the better way.

Workingmen are now organizing in the old fashioned trades union or "guild" way, affiliated with the National Trades and Workers' Association whose constitution provides arbitration of differences with agreement for no strikes, boycott, picketing or hateful coercion of any kind.

This Trade Association has evolved from the experience of the past and is the highest order of Trades Unionism at the present day.

Under its laws it is not possible for the Hod Carriers Union or the Street Sweepers Union to order the school teachers or locomotive engineers to quit work in a "sympathetic strike."

If any craft finds injustice, the case is presented to properly selected arbitrators, testimony taken and the case presented to the public through the press. Thereupon public opinion, that greatest of all powers, makes itself felt and curiously enough a fair settlement is generally the result.

There is no strike, no loss of wages, no loss to the community and yet the faithful workers get their just treatment.

There are many details which have been worked out by men skilled in labor matters.

It will recompense any interested man to know these details which can be secured by a postal request for constitution and by-laws written to the National Trades and Workers Association, Kingman Block, Battle Creek, Mich.

Reader, look carefully into this great question of the relations of Capital and Labor and its successful solution. The new plan works and brings results for the members.

I became so favorably impressed with the trustworthiness and practicability of the leaders of this new labor movement that I gave the Association a sanitorium at Battle Creek worth about $400,000 and with about 300 rooms, to be used as a home for their old members and the helpless babies, sometimes made fatherless by the pistol, club or boot heel of some member of the violent "Labor Trust."

Suppose you attend church Labor Sunday and hear what your minister has to say in defense of the safety and rights of the common, everyday man.

Let me ask you to read again a portion of one of my public articles printed a few years ago:

"The people of the world have given me money enough to spend in these talks through the papers in trying to make better and safer conditions for the common people, whether the Postum business runs or not.

Scores of letters have come to me from work-people and others some from union men, recounting their sufferings from union domination and urging that their cases be laid before the public.

It will not answer for us to only sympathize with the poor, the oppressed, those who haven't power enough to drive off tyrants and resent oppression, we must help them tie the hands of the oppressors. Americans must act.

Some of my forebears in New England left comfortable homes, took with them the old flint locks, slept on the ground in rain and frost; hungry, footsore, and half clothed they grimly pushed on where the Eternal God of Human Liberty urged them. They wove for me and for you a mantle of freedom, woven in a loom where the shuttles were cannon balls and bullets and where swords were used to pick out the tangles in the yarn.

These old sturdy grandads of ours stood by that loom until the mantle was finished, then, stained with their life blood it was handed down to us. Shall I refuse to bear it on my shoulders because the wearing costs me a few dollars, and are you cowards enough to hide yours because some foreign labor union anarchist orders you to strip it off?

I have faith that the blood of 1776 still coursing in your veins will tingle and call until you waken. Then Americans will Act." "There's a Reason."

*Batted for Hughes in the eleventh inning.

Sacrifice hits—Austin, Laporte. Stolen base—Lajoie. Left on bases—Cleveland, 3; New York, 4. First base on error—Cleveland. Struck out—By Kaler, 6; by Hughes, 7. Bases on balls—Off Kaler, 2; off Hughes, 1. Umpires—Messrs. Egan and O'Loughlin. Time of game—One hour and fifty-eight minutes.

The Cleveland Naps introduced some new talent from the bush leagues on the Hilltop yesterday afternoon in the double bill, and the Yankees had to go for all they were worth to get an even break. Russell Ford pitched the first game and won it, winning it with his pitching and helping to clinch it with his bat. The score was 4 to 1. The second game went to the Clevelands after a surging pitching battle between Tom Hughes and a youngster named Kaler. Hughes hurled perfect ball for nine innings, not allowing the opposition a single hit. With a little hitting by his team mates he would have had a record, but the game went for eleven innings, and the strain was too much for Hughes, and he blew up, the mathematical conclusion being 5 to 0.

The attraction drew a crowd of 14,000, and they saw a couple of keen, hard-fought games. There was a scarcity of hitting during the matinee, but that was more than made up for by rare flinging and dashing work afield. In the Cleveland line-up of the first game few of the familiar figures were left. Thomason was in right field, Adams was behind the bat, and at short was a blonde infielder named Knaup. In the box was old Cy Young, and he got poor support from young Knaup, whose nervous cavorting aided in the Yankee run getting. Cy pitched fine ball, but Ford pitched better. The Yankee terror had a bad first inning, but then he buckled down and made the Naps walk the plank. They got three hits, two of which came in the opening round. He struck out eleven of them and gave a single base on balls.

Hughes heaved the game of his life in the second clash, mowing down the enemy in order for nine innings. In that time twenty-eight men faced him. Austin's nightmarish toss to Chase in the seventh being the only reason why a Nap got to first base. In the tenth, Hughes weakened, and just got through by an eyelash. The eleventh saw the Naps rise in their might and whale the no-hit man for five singles and five runs. Hughes deserved a better finish after the way he had bent the Cleveland backs in their effort to bang the ball.

Terry Turner, who played at third, opened the game with a two-base smash off Ford. Thomason shot a high foul fly to Austin. Terry stole third and scored when a random peg from Ford got by Sweeney. In the second inning Ford found himself and fanned the first three men who ambled to the plate. At the same period the Yanks tied the score. Knight singled to centre and went around to third on a wild pitch by Young. Laporte grounded to Stovall and Knight scored when Cree hopped a grounder at Knaup, which the shortstop missed.

After that Ford disposed of the Naps as they were presented to him. Lajoie got a single off him in the seventh, but a double play, quick and sharp, by Knight and Chase, kept him from second base. Daniels singled in the sixth and went to second when Birmingham fumbled his hit. A passed ball put him on third, and Chase's sacrifice fly scored him. Ford opened the ninth with a noisy three-base hit to deep centre. Daniels and Wolter were quick outs. Then Chase rolled an easy grounder at Knaup, who booted it long enough to let Ford score. Knight singled to centre, and when Laporte hit to left Chase went home, and Knight was caught going to third.

Tom Hughes usually has one bad inning. Never did he come so close to ducking it as yesterday. Lucky for him that Jack Knight is as tall as two ordinary shortstops, because Long John went skyward for hoppers that most any other shortstop could only get by standing on a soap box. Knight's long arms reached out on all sides and harvested pokes that might have gone for hits. The tiptop stunt of the afternoon came in the sixth when Land, lately imported from the minors, drove a grounder at Austin that just took Jimmy's breath away and left him groping around for something to fall on. Knight was right behind him, and as soon as the ball carromed off Austin, the tallest and thinnest shortstop in the world, speared it and you couldn't see the ball travel to base at all.

Kaler gave the Yankees three hits, which were scattered like the pieces of an auto when a big tree suddenly moves out into the middle of the street and hits it. Knight got a single in the second, Cree got a scratch bang in the fifth, and Daniels rapped to centre in the sixth. Outside of that Kaler and his hits was like a miser with his gold.

The diversified tangents that Hughes whipped over eluded the Nap bats like the Hallroom Boys dodge the bill collectors. Hughes had everything, from wide, tantalizing outs to in-shoots that whizzed by the Naps' teeth almost as close as a tooth brush. He had a change of pace, too, and sometimes you could almost hear a Cleveland rib crack as a desperate reach was made to clout a slow lob.

Passing quietly over the many and various attempts of the Yankees to lean roughly against Kaler's collection of curves, one eventually reaches the eleventh inning. Ball and Land, the first two men up, died without a murmur. Then young Kaler, unterrified at Hughes's pitching skill, jolted a neat hit to centre field. Turner looked rather dangerous, so Terry got a free pass. Thomason was somewhat lucky. He laid a bunt down toward first base, which Chase ran up and grasped. Hal threw to Hughes, who beat him over to cover first. Runner and leather arrived at about the same moment, and Silk O'Loughlin yelled "Safe!" The bases were full, and it was plain that Hughes was about to cut the guy ropes and make all the airmen jealous. Harry Niles, who seldom treats the ball ungentlemanly, drove a single to right, scoring Kaler and Turner. Lajoie beat out a roller that he hammered at Knight and Thomason scored. Stovall gave the ball a ride to centre and Niles and Lajoie came home. Stovall was caught trying to steal second and that was the end.

Now, really, isn't that enough to—what's the use?

BASEBALL, 4 P. M. N. Y. Americans vs. Cleveland. American League Park. Adm. 50c. —Adv.

We perpetrated this twenty years ago—

CUSTOMER—"I believe you warrant your clothing, so I came in to say that, last week, I bought a suit here, and the first time I put it on I found two great holes inside."

CLERK—"Step right over to the desk, and the Manager will return your money or give you a new coat."

CUSTOMER—"Perhaps I ought to mention that the holes were the arm-holes." (And the dummy standing near by dropped dead).

Joking aside, it's good to look back and see that the spirit of making good is no new thing with us.

We always have made a point of advertising for complaints.

Have you a suit, or anything from us that isn't giving entire satisfaction?

Bring it back.

Everything we sell we guarantee, not only to be "as represented" but to be satisfactory.

We can't "make good" unless you tell us.

It's up to you to put it up to us.

Certainly our guarantee of satisfaction goes with marked down goods—with every one of the thousands of suits now marked down to $15 and $20.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 30.—The Giants captured the third game of the present series from the World's Champions this afternoon by outplaying them at all stages and taking advantage of the poor fielding on the part of "Babe" Adams, the local twirler, who pitched great ball—in fact, outpitching Mathewson, but his two errors gave the Giants a chance to make enough runs to win. Mathewson was hit hard, and in only one inning, the eighth, did the Pirates fail to get a hit.

In the first inning the champions crossed the plate. After Byrne had been robbed of a two-bagger by Devlin, who made a wonderful play on the batter's hard tap to third, Leach tripled to left, and a moment later crossed the plate on Campbell's single to left.

In the second inning the Giants tied the score with a run. Bridwell beat out a bunt to first because Adams failed to cover the bag. Devlin singled to right, sending Bridwell to third. Merkle flied to Wilson, who threw home, holding both runners on the bases. Meyers hit to Wagner, who had plenty of time to get Bridwell at the plate, but threw to McKechnie instead, getting Devlin, Bridwell scoring. In the fourth Flynn doubled to left centre, took third on Wilson's single to centre, and scored on Gibson's single to centre.

In the seventh inning the Giants scored twice. A pass was given to Bridwell and Devlin singled to left. Merkle hit to first and Adams ran in front of Flynn, who was waiting on the ball. The pitcher failed to get Merkle, and then threw over Flynn's head. Bridwell scoring and Devlin going to third. On Meyers's out at first Devlin scored.

In the ninth inning two more runs were scored, Devlin making his third hit of the game. Merkle hit to Adams, who threw low to second, and both men were safe. Keeler was sent to bat for Meyers, and he placed a pretty sacrifice toward third that moved both men up a base. Mathewson hit a long fly to Wilson, scoring Devlin, and on Devore's triple over Campbell's head Merkle came home.

Cubs Can Hardly Lose Pennant Now.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—With four substitutes on the field, Chicago to-day won the final game with Philadelphoa, 3 to 1. Stack, after holding Brown even on the mound for seven innings weakened in the eighth, two hits and two passes resulting in three runs. EASTERN LEAGUE.

Newark Bunches Hits and Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Newark took the second game of the series from Buffalo by bunching hits on Vowinkle in the ninth inning. Waddell pitched good ball for the visitors until the seventh inning, when he was taken out to allow Lee to bat for him. Parkin went in, but retired immediately in favor of Cleary, who was a puzzle to the herd. George Smith's fielding was of the sensational order. The score:

MR. ROOSEVELT'S ATTACK ON THE COURTS.

Mr. ROOSEVELT'S speech to the Colorado Legislature is regrettable and discreditable. Its effect must be to undermine the authority of law, to create suspicion and distrust of the judiciary, to promote the rule of irresponsible passion, and to strengthen the impulses of the unthinking toward disorder.

The main proposition of the speech was that the Supreme Court of the United States had undertaken, by its decisions, to "leave a neutral ground in which neither State nor Nation can exercise authority, and which would become a place of refuge for men who wish to act criminally, and especially for the very rich men who wish to act against the interests of the community as a whole." In support of this damnatory assertion Mr. ROOSEVELT cited two decisions, one in the case of the United States vs. E. C. KNIGHT COMPANY, (Sugar Trust,) decided in 1894, and the other in that of LOCHNER vs. New York, (bakeshop,) decided in 1904. In the first case the court found that the transactions of the corporation under review did not come under Federal law relating to trade or commerce among the several States or with foreign nations. In the second the court held that a State law declaring that "no employé shall be required or permitted to work" in a bakeshop more than sixty hours in a week "prohibited and interfered with the freedom of master and employé to contract with each other in relation to their employment," and violated the Federal Constitution. In each case, beyond all doubt, the Justices of the Supreme Court declared what in their judgment, after a full hearing and on deliberate consideration, was the law. With the wisdom of the law they had nothing to do. With its effect either on the parties to the cases or on the community they were not concerned and were not permitted to be. Their simple and sole duty was to ascertain the law as it was involved in the specific cases before them and to apply it.

Note what Mr. ROOSEVELT has to say of their performance of this high and imperative duty by the Judges. He accuses them in the Knight case of "rendering it exceedingly difficult for the Nation effectively to control the use of masses of corporate capital in inter-State business." He accuses them further of doing this "under cover of what a man whose interest is chiefly in sane, constructive stewardship, [Mr. ROOSEVELT, for example?] can only call a high technical legal subtlety." Here we have the ex-President in his favorite attitude. He is the judge of Judges. He penetrates their minds, searches their motives, puts a value on their opinions, traces the consequences of their action, and condemns, not the law which they are bound to expound, but them.

Again, as to the Lochner case. This case he grossly misstates. He says:

> In New York City, as in most large cities, the baking business is likely to be carried on under unhygienic conditions, conditions which tell on the welfare of the workers, and therefore against the welfare of the general public. The New York Legislature passed, and the New York Governor signed, a bill remedying these improper conditions.

He does not even know that the case did not come up in New York City, but in Oneida County. He states that the case turned on a bill "remedying" "unhygienic conditions." It really turned wholly on the hours of labor an employé might agree to work and be permitted to work. Mr. ROOSEVELT goes on:

> By a 5 to 4 vote they declared the action in the State of New York unconstitutional, because, forsooth, men must not be deprived of their "liberty" to work under unhygienic conditions. They were, of course, themselves powerless to make the remotest attempt to provide a remedy for the wrong which undoubtedly existed, and their refusal to permit action by the State did not confer any power upon the Nation to act.
>
> In effect it reduced to impotence the only body which did have power, so that in this case the decision, although nominally against State rights, was really against popular rights, against the democratic principle of government by the people under the forms of law.

Referring to both cases, he sums up:

> I mention them merely to illustrate the need of having a truly National system of government, under which the people can deal effectively with all problems, meeting those that affect the people as a whole by affirmative Federal action and those that affect merely the people of one locality by affirmative State action.

Our present National system of Government, and any other that can be devised, so long as States exist, depends and must depend upon the Supreme Court as the final interpreter of the Federal Constitution and the relations of the States and the Nation. "The people" cannot "deal effectively with all problems" without this sensible, practical, time-tested instrumentality, and it is of the utmost importance to the whole Nation that the strength and utility of the instrumentality shall be carefully maintained. Mr. ROOSEVELT'S action—not merely this latest speech, but a long series of like utterances of which this is but the culmination—tends directly to weaken it. It is mischievous action. Its influence for mischief is the greater because of the high post Mr. ROOSEVELT has held and the chances of his endeavoring to return to it. In the long run we are confident the sober sense of the American people will contend successfully against the evil influence that Mr. ROOSEVELT exerts, arouses, and spreads. But it is a great pity that the contest should be forced upon them.

PATTERSONISM.

Gov. PATTERSON of Tennessee has reaffirmed his candidacy for a third term. He has some moneyed interests behind him; he has the power of a hitherto strong machine, and, throughout the State, over a thousand criminals he has pardoned—including 160 murderers—are working gratefully in his interest.

The issue will be Pattersonism—justification for the pardon of Senator CARMACK'S slayer, and for the Governor's attempted intimidation of high Judges who affirmed the verdict of conviction. Gov. PATTERSON has already stumped the State of Tennessee on this issue, which involved the candidacy for re-election of these Judges. The Judges were re-elected. They received 140,000 votes, PATTERSON'S candidates only 95,000 votes.

It is no longer a question of Republican or Democratic ascendency in Tennessee. Above the parties looms the monstrous figure of PATTERSON.

THE MAGISTRATES.

Why does the Board of City Magistrates, newly created to achieve a splendid reform of the lower courts, persist in holding secret meetings?

In their secret session Monday a majority of the board voted to pick probation officers from the civil service lists. These officers, according to the report of the legislative commission, are "only second in importance to the Magistrates themselves." The secret session concealed the minority of the Magistrates who would appoint and remove probation officers by favoritism.

Who constituted this minority? They may be any of the sixteen Magistrates present at the meeting. Their rule of secrecy brings all under suspicion. Yet a majority of them have done a praiseworthy thing.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

We published yesterday a highly informative letter—another letter appears to-day—from a large casualty insurance company, expressing its opinion that the damages accruing to employés from the operation of the Workmen's Compensation acts, effective in this State to-morrow, will occasion a notable and permanent increase in insurance rates. As the law has stood heretofore, the letter printed yesterday says, "but one workman in eight recovered anything; under the new law all, or nearly all, workmen injured in the employments named in the law will receive compensation."

This refers to the eight specified "hazardous" employments, in which the employés are not compelled to accept the graded damages awarded them, but may sue at common law on the chance, if not defeated, of a higher award. Moreover, since the employer is made responsible for accidents caused by an injured man's fellow or "boss," and for the ordinary risks of the trade, and because he must prove contributory negligence of the employé, the insurance companies are disposed to believe that workmen will prefer to present their cases to a jury rather than abide by the provision for graded damages in the eight employments, or to sign in all other occupations an agreement for such damages as provided in the supplementary act.

These reasons are weighty. They show an element of possible injustice in the law as it affects employers. But they prove nothing before its actual trial. The demand for the stated workmen's compensations came from the labor unions as well as from employers. In the brief in favor of the agreement plan submitted by the Joint Conference of the Central Labor Bodies of this city, these reasons were given against resort to the courts:

> Juries have been most inconsistent in assessing damages. Under apparently similar circumstances juries have set the most diverse values on human life. This can be explained in no other way than the habit of juries bringing in compromise verdicts.
>
> The large employers and the liability insurance companies have all the advantage in court, because of their perfect machinery for getting evidence, and the employment of highly paid lawyers, with special training and ability in that kind of work.
>
> By appeal from court to court the poor litigant is deprived for a long time of his damages and put to great expense.

Many large employers, on the other hand, recommended the passage of the new law, first, because it would promote harmonious relations between employers and employés, which are now disturbed by the admitted injustices of the present law and by the methods employed by the casualty companies. Second, it would reduce considerably the waste of money on lawyers' fees and contingent expenses in fighting protracted suits. Moreover, the compensation provided would be immediate and direct; injured employés and their dependent families would be kept from becoming objects of charity; they would be accorded better care and treatment, which would involve the reduction of damages by their more speedy recovery of health. And the employers would be more careful to introduce improved safety appliances, thus reducing the number of accidents.

Finally, the increased rates of insurance charged by the casualty companies may induce employers, their responsibilities being fixed and common, to form mutual liability insurance societies. By this means, in the opinion of one large manufacturing company, the "cost to employers will be less than under the present system."

But only actual trial of the law will prove its justice or injustice. If it is unjust in any particular it may be amended, either directly or by the removal of constitutional restrictions.

LEPROSIN.

From Molokai, the leper settlement in the Hawaiian group, reports have been coming of successful cultures made of the lepra bacilli outside their human hosts—the first in the history of the disease. The Norwegian physician HANSEN discovered the bacillus in 1872. In the Summer of 1908 experiments were made at Pleiestiftelsen, the largest leprosarium in Norway, with hypodermic injections of nastin, which Dr. DEYCKE, who prepared it, describes as "the glycerin ester of a high molecular fatty acid" developed from cultures of a germ present in the tubercular form of leprosy. It was not a cure. Now the American doctors CLEGG, CURRIE, and BRINCKERHOFF of Molokai have made pure cultures of the leprous germ itself, an achievement that paves the way to the preparation of a serum that will cure or prevent leprosy—leprosin.

Tuberculin, the means of detecting incipient tuberculosis; the serum for tetanus; the antitoxin of diphtheria; and the "vaccine" for typhoid were thus developed from pure cultures. The disease of leprosy is known to be nearly allied to tuberculosis. Dr. WELCH of Johns Hopkins declares that it is the least contagious of all infectious diseases, while Dr. BULKLEY of this city and many other authorities on leprosy are of opinion that it is not contagious at all. The "unclean, unclean," of Biblical lore referred to persons bearing various eruptions of the skin, some of them contagious, but none of them answering to the description of true leprosy. The "lepers white as snow" were sufferers from a quite different disease. The theory first advanced by GALEN that leprosy may be communicated by the medium of dried and uncooked fish is now regarded as tenable by the leprologists. It may be transmitted in food and water, rarely if ever by contact. Instances are recorded of spontaneous recovery. But the disease has lately spread into all parts of the world, a fact that makes its approaching conquest doubly welcome.

WANT POLITICS KEPT OUT.

For some excellent reasons every hint of a movement to strip the Board of Education of its powers and functions as a separate corporation, making it a department of the City Government, sends shivers through the Commissioner of Education and almost every one else connected with the department. Such a thing was actually recommended by the Charter Revision Commission last year, and while nothing came of it because the charter was not adopted, the question will soon come up again before the committee of city officials named by Mayor GAYNOR to consider charter changes.

It is the contention of members of the Board of Education that the department is a part of the State system of education; not a municipal institution. They argue earnestly that this is as it should be; that the educational system of the city should be kept free from politics, and that its places of trust should not be permitted to be pawns in the hands of the politically ambitious. Commissioners of Education are pointing with satisfaction to an opinion delivered before the consolidation by Mayor GAYNOR himself, when a Justice of the Supreme Court of Brooklyn, in the case of WILLIAM B. RIDENOUR, plaintiff, v. the Board of Education of Brooklyn.

Motion had been made to continue an injunction restraining the Brooklyn Board of Education from summarily dismissing the plaintiff from his place as a teacher in the public schools. The plaintiff had contended that he could not be dismissed, since he was an honorably discharged soldier of the civil war. In denying the motion Justice GAYNOR met the issue in this manner:

> There is a general statute that no honorably discharged soldier or sailor of the war of the rebellion "holding a position by appointment in any city or county," and "receiving a salary from such city or county," shall be removed therefrom "except for cause shown after a hearing had." (Laws of 1892, Chapter 577.) This statute expressly excepts positions having a definite term fixed by law, and relates only to positions over which the power of removal may be exercised at pleasure. It also needs to be observed that it relates in terms only to positions in cities and counties. It does not cover appointees under the State Government, nor in towns, villages, or school districts. The plaintiff is concededly not holding a county position. If, therefore, he is not holding a position by appointment in the City of Brooklyn, viz., under the City Government, and receiving a salary from the city, he does not come under the protection of the veteran statute. He is an employé of the Board of Education. It is not a part of the corporation of the City of Brooklyn, but is itself a local school corporation, like every board of school district trustees throughout the State, (General Corporation Law, Section 3,) and is, like every such board, an integral part of the general school system of the State. It is a State and not a city agency, doing State and not city work and functions. Education is not city, village, county, or town business. It is a matter belonging to the State Government.

School Commissioners are perhaps justified in thinking that the Mayor's committee may go behind this decision and recommend the curtailment of the Board of Education's powers.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Conservation Well Defined.

As defined by Col. ROOSEVELT in one of his Denver speeches, "conservation" includes and involves three things—the prevention of waste, the prompt development which leads to immediate utilization, and the due guarding of public rights and interests as against individuals who would seize and monopolize them to the detriment of the people.

It is unfortunate that the word "conservation" does not itself mean all this, as, indeed, no one word could, and it is particularly unfortunate that a term which has now firmly established itself as the name of a complex policy lends itself so easily to the interpretation which the enemies of that policy prefer to give it. Of course their purposes are best served by making as many people as possible believe that the object of the conservationists is to prevent as long as they can the cutting of forests, the mining of coal and metals, the using of water powers, and the transfer of public land to private owners.

The acts and speeches of some of the men who call themselves by this high title have done something to justify this interpretation of the term, and thus have helped along the laboriously cultivated illusion that conservation would sacrifice the present generation to those to come. The first impression of forestry, for instance, was that it merely formulated the sentimental cry of "Woodman, spare that tree!" and extended it to all trees. As a matter of fact, the real forester would no more spare a mature tree—unless it served some special purpose of utility or decoration—than he would a ripe stalk of wheat, and all he asks of the lumberman is that he shall not ruin his own business by always cutting and never planting.

Whether what Col. ROOSEVELT and his friends have done has been wise or even defensible in all cases is a question on which opinions may well differ, but with his definition of conservation there is no fault whatever to be found, any more than there is with conservation when thus defined. Honest disagreement comes only when the methods and means of attaining that sort of conservation rise for discussion. It is judicious to keep this distinction in mind while the battle rages, and to remember that true conservation is the golden mean between the selfish and destructive use of natural resources and failure to use them at all.

A Disease Easily Conquered.

When cholera was last in Europe, nothing very definite had been learned as to its real nature. It was still regarded as a contagious disease, which was—and of any disease still is—the same thing as confessing ignorance as to how its infection passes from the sick to the well, and against it there could be used only general measures of sanitation and isolation. Even these were enough to keep the ravages of the epidemic, except in a few special centres of filth and ignorance, within limits small indeed in comparison with the dreadful mortality that used to follow the appearance of cholera anywhere.

Now the malady is among those most thoroughly understood, and though not much progress has been made as to the curing of victims once stricken, the infection agent and the avenues of infection have been found, and the latter can all be easily and effectively closed by anybody who knows and will use a few simple measures of prevention. He who eats and drinks nothing that has not been subjected for some time at least to the heat at which water boils—and nothing that has not been contaminated between consumption and the application of the heat—will not have the cholera, even though people are dying of it all around him.

In Germany all the available knowledge on the subject is everywhere at hand, and the power and the inclination to use it exist. One can confidently predict, therefore, that the German doctors, with the official support they are receiving, will save that country from anything like an epidemic of cholera, and though doubtless cases of it will appear in many German cities, imported from Russia and Italy, their death rates will not be appreciably raised. Russia, on the contrary, is suffering from a "plague" of almost mediaeval severity, because so many of her millions are still living in the Middle Ages, so far as sanitation and preventive medicine are concerned, and Italy, though she has some of the best and most advanced doctors in the world, has seen one source of infection become a dozen or more.

For this country cholera should have no terrors. That we shall see it is almost certain, but here it cannot either continue or spread. If half a dozen more familiar maladies could be as easily suppressed we should be fortunate indeed.

Didn't Mean What He Said.

Evidently the Kaiser, unlike the neighbor who wears the same title with a different spelling, not only hears promptly from his people when he displeases them, but promptly heeds the messages they send. For though he did not at Marienburg recant what he said at Königsberg about the source of his authority and the way he intended to use it, he added to a nominal repetition of that amazing outburst an explanation which put his assertion of divine right to rule in a new and comparatively inoffensive light.

What religious man, he asked in effect, does not regard himself as protected by a higher power and acting as its agent? Coming from another speaker who had made the original declaration, the sincerity of this interpretation could not easily be admitted, and he would be suspected of "hedging" because he was frightened, but the Kaiser is a peculiar man, subjected to peculiar influences and conditions, and it is more than possible that he really did use the old formulae in what, as soon as he had occasion to think about them, he saw was a sense other than that intended by their inventors.

At any rate, the exegesis is ingenious and plausible to an extent that will make it hard to meet, and this storm, like a dozen more that the Kaiser has raised, will doubtless blow over without doing him any harm.

DEFENDS HIGH RATE FOR INSURANCE

Companies Expect to Have Many Lawsuits Under the New Employers' Liability Law.

ADMINISTRATION IS COSTLY

Says Commission Did Not Investigate Cost of Insurance to Employers—Average of $1.62½ Per $100 Wages.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorial article on liability rates which appeared in THE TIMES on Monday, Aug. 29, is so much at variance with what those of us who are in close touch with the business can see in the present situation that I feel impelled to make a brief statement upon the general subject.

I cannot follow the process of reasoning through which you reach the conclusion that "if the new laws effect the purpose of their framers the rates (for insurance) will eventually go lower than ever," but I infer that this statement has reference to the assumed fact that workmen's compensation laws will make it unnecessary for employes to sue for damages under the liability law, and that as a matter of fact they will not sue under such law and thus the cost of liability insurance will diminish. Every one connected with the business of liability insurance will be highly pleased if such result is attained, but I doubt whether any one so connected expects any such result. Suits for damages under the employers' liability law continue in England, notwithstanding the liberal provisions of their workmen's compensation law, more than 3,000 liability suits having been heard by the English courts in one year. For reasons which have to do with social conditions, such suits will continue here notwithstanding the existence of workmen's compensation laws, but in larger proportion than in England, and under such circumstances rates for liability insurance cannot be reduced.

In making the statement that 68 per cent. of the liability premiums paid by employers has been consumed in salaries and fees to lawyers and claim agents you have apparently lost sight of the fact that the Wainwright Commission did not ascertain the cost to employers of their employers' liability insurance. The premium income of the insurance companies and the cost of claims and suits settled by the companies, as ascertained by the commission, included all kinds of liability insurance, such as general liability on apartment houses and private dwellings, elevator liability, teams, and other kinds of public liability.

As to some of these the cost of inspections is considerable, while the losses cost much less than any employers' liability insurance, and taking the liability business as a whole, if to the losses paid we add the legal reserves to cover unsettled claims, a ratio of about 57 per cent. will be shown for losses and legal expenses necessary to their handling.

It may be conceded that the cost of administration seems to one not fully informed to have been higher than necessary, but in considering this phase of the question it must be remembered that employers have required active and continuous solicitation to induce them to carry liability insurance, and the campaign conducted by the companies has necessarily required the payment of commissions to agents and brokers, to which must be added necessary salaries to take care of this business of many small details, the cost of printing, rents, and taxes, the latter varying all the way from 2 per cent. to as much as 7 per cent. of the premiums in the different States.

As to the cost of compensation on the scale provided in the laws becoming effective in the State of New York Sept. 1, I wish to point out that the insurance companies have available a completed experience of what is known as workmen's collective insurance, based on about $50,000,000 of payroll. In this kind of insurance fixed indemnities are paid without regard to the employer's liability, but on a scale considerably smaller than that contemplated by the compensation law. The volume of this experience is sufficient to afford a reliable index as to the cost of larger indemnities of the same general character, such as are provided for in the compensation law, and if these experience tables are carried out to show the cost of proportionately larger indemnities, omitting entirely the cost of administration which the insurance company must incur, the deaths alone will cost $1.15, and insurance covering all indemnity $1.62½ per hundred dollars of wages, if all kinds of employment are considered and the results averaged; and this, of course, means that the cost as respects the more hazardous classes of employment will be very much higher than for the lighter manufacturing risks.

Workmen will not, as a rule, favor the voluntary compensation plan, for the reason that it takes away the right to sue for damages under the employers' liability law. The workman wants to retain this right because in a considerable number of cases he can collect larger damages under the liability law than he can collect under the voluntary compensation plan, and, on the other hand, the employer will not, as a rule, favor the voluntary compensation plan because it calls for too much red tape to make it effective. Another Census Estimate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am afraid that in spite of his ingenious calculations Mr. Laidlow will be disappointed in his estimates of New York City's population. He forgets the "lean years" after the 1905 State census and the unusually large emigration caused thereby, over half a million in a single year, if I remember rightly.

In June, 1900, my estimate of New York City's population was 3,437,000, to which many of my friends can testify. If my this year's guess is no further out of the way the figures will read something like this: 4,488,262, a tremendous gain of 1,050,000 souls, which increase no city has ever equaled. I hope, however, that Mr. Laidlow's figures may be nearer the true number than mine. F. G. B.

A Tennis Question.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will some one interested in lawn tennis be kind enough to inform me through your columns why Thomas C. Bundy, the challenger of William A. Larned in the thirtieth all-comers' tournament at Newport, was compelled to play the final match the day after he had established his right to same? Is this another case of the champion dictating the terms?

In all fairness, I believe that the final match should have been set for one or two days later, in order that the challenger might be on equal terms with the champion. It surely is not very sportsmanlike to pit two men in the condition that these two were against each other in the championship match. S. S.

EXPLOSIVES DON'T BRING RAIN

Moore Says So—Taft Approves Wood's Refusal to Fire Guns in Forests.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Willis L. Moore, Chief of the Weather Bureau, is skeptical of the power of explosives to cause rain. He declares that efforts to produce rain by bombarding the skies would encourage charlatans, and would be denounced by all eminent physicists and scientists.

Mr. Moore submits these views in an opinion to Adjt. General Ainsworth regarding the forest fire situation in Idaho and Montana. He says extensive experiments conducted by the Department of Agriculture have conclusively demonstrated that rainfall cannot be created by explosives. Rain is produced only by a marked increase in the vapor contents of the air, or by a decided lowering of the temperature, and man cannot operate on a scale to stimulate these conditions.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood's action in refusing the request of Senator Piles and Representative Humphrey of Washington to have the 141 guns at Puget Sound fired in the hope of producing rain has been approved by the President. A dispatch to this effect was received from Mr. Taft by Gen. Wood yesterday.

JEWEL SMUGGLING VIA CANADA

Customs Men Watching Border to Waylay Gems Diverted from New York

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Secret agents of the United States Customs Service are watching the Canadian gateways of transatlantic travel for smugglers who have been frightened away from the Port of New York by the rigid customs inspection and the notable seizures of the last few days.

Information regarding the purchase of jewels and other valuable articles in Europe by Americans are usually in the hands of the Customs Service. Valuables traced on the other side from the time they were bought have failed in some instances lately to turn up in New York on schedule time, and the detectives suspect they are being brought in by way of Montreal and Quebec. The watch on the Northern border will be very keen.

FARMERS IN POLITICS.

The Rural New Yorker Makes a Defense of Class Interests.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Rural New Yorker states that "Many of the great American daily papers make themselves ridiculous when they attempt to discuss farm matters," and then it goes on to criticise THE NEW YORK TIMES for saying, among other things, that "Three millions of farmers are about to imitate the bad example of some other large classes of citizens and organize for action in politics according to their class interests."

"This is the old story which has been solemnly told all these years," says The Rural New Yorker, "and the farmer ought to be satisfied to remain a patient beast of burden. The trusts, the big interests, the railroads, and the labor unions use their ballots or their money to make politicians serve them, but the farmers, strongest of all, must go right on accepting what the parties throw to them, satisfied with a bone when they deserve and can obtain the entire roast."

I cannot understand why the farmer should receive any consideration from the trusts, the big interests, the railroads, labor unions, or anything or anybody while he, strongest of all, willingly remains a beast of burden, and is so well satisfied with a bone. If the farmers can obtain the entire roast, as The Rural New Yorker says they can, how can they deserve more than the bone, being satisfied with that?

Let a farmer step up as usual and vote for the candidate selected for him without exacting any pledge and we shall have another Congress just like the last one—with men neither hot nor cold.

Right here The Rural New Yorker virtually admits that in the past "the strongest of all" have been sending to Congress "men neither hot nor cold." CONNECTICUT FARMER.

Mr. Straus and Russia.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in recent newspaper dispatches that Oscar Straus, our distinguished Ambassador to Turkey, has been granted permission by the Russian Government to visit St. Petersburg with his family, and no doubt many others of the Jewish faith read this news with a mixed feeling of pleasure and regret; glad because the Czar had been made to recognize the imperativeness of granting the permission, and sorry that at this stage of civilization such conditions should exist, when a country excludes from its lands all those who confess to the Jewish religion, and for no other reason but that they are Jews.

I also wish to say, and this is my chief reason for writing this letter, that I think it would be a good piece of diplomacy on the part of Mr. Straus, if, now that he has received permission to visit the Czar's domains, he do not avail himself of it, or, in other words, defer his trip indefinitely.

The contemplated visit not being an official one, this would be a direct slap at the Czar and his Ministers and Governors, and would be something that they well deserve, for they have brought it upon themselves by their repeated barbarous actions toward the Jews in Russia. D. L.

Botanical Walking Trips.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent of Aug. 17 need not walk alone if he would join the Torrey Botanical Club, dues $5 a year, with much literature thrown in.

Its field trips occur on Saturdays, either half or whole of the days, as distance dictates. Car fares are published with the schedule. All information can be secured from the Secretary of the club at the Museum of the Botanical Gardens in the Bronx. These trips are open to any one disturbed by that excellent motive, the walking germ. Mrs. H. B. T.

Roosevelt and the Kaiser.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There seems to be only this difference between the "Great I Am" of our Nation and the "Great I Am" of the Germans, whose declarations have at one and the same time startled and amazed their respective fellow "subjects," the German Emperor recognizes a superior being; he is God's representative. The American—what shall I say—boss, recognizes no superior. "T. R." seems to be the only "capital I."

Names from Dickens.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your idea of naming the boys and girls born on Feb. 7, 1912, the birthday of Charles Dickens, after the characters in his works seems to me a most pleasing one. We all have incidents, and the characters connected with them that especially appeal to us. John Westlock is a fine, manly fellow; we should all be proud to have sons like him, and Tom and Ruth Pinch are beautiful characters, and there are many others. M. C. H.

A Ten Years' Job.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Can you inform your readers why we do not get census returns of Massachusetts? At the rate the returns are being furnished it looks as if it will take at least ten years to find out what the total population is for the United States. The returns should always be counted in thirty days, and other statistics taken up later. Guess they all want a ten years' job. JOHN SMITH.

RIPLEY FORESEES TRADE DEPRESSION

Business Conditions Not So Good as a Year Ago, He Declares at the Rate Hearing.

ARGUES FOR RATE ADVANCES

Says That Out of Every Dollar the Santa Fe Receives 70 Per Cent. Goes Back to the Public.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—At the resumed hearing to-day, to determine whether the freight rate advances scheduled by the railroads to take effect on Nov. 1, before Special Examiner G. M. Brown of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fé system of railroads declared that wages paid by the roads have increased largely, making operating expenses a greater burden, in support of the contention of the railroads that higher rates are just and right.

He also submitted that the outlook for next year is not good, and that general conditions are so considered in the judgment of merchants and those familiar with the trend of events. Further, in his testimony Mr. Ripley said that he thought it not improbable that next year the earnings of the road may shrink so that they would not more than pay the dividends.

"What do you attribute that prospect to?" asked Mr. Lyon.

"I attribute it to general conditions of business," was the reply.

"Are the general conditions of business bad?"

"I would not say they are bad; they are not as good as they were a year ago," said Mr. Ripley.

"What is the trouble?"

"I do not care to venture an opinion," was the response.

Reverting to the subject later in the hearing, under cross-examination by Attorney Clifford Thorne, representing livestock shippers in Iowa, Mr. Ripley admitted that for ten years the Santa Fé had paid its dividends.

"I have nothing to prove that they will not be paid next year or that we shall default on our interest," said Mr. Ripley. "This year, which produced the largest gross earnings we ever had, we kept up the property and earned 8.8 per cent. on our capital stock. But I can see expenses ahead of me for this coming year enough to warrant me in the belief that we will not do more than earn our dividends. We might possibly earn our 6 per cent. dividends."

Mr. Ripley explained that by increased expenditures he referred to improvements, and Mr. Thorne commented:

"So, reduced to its ultimate analysis, you think you are entitled to increased rates in order to build these facilities?"

"In order to keep up with the times and do what the public expects of us," replied Mr. Ripley.

"And make improvements above what you had last year?" asked the cross-examiner.

"Certainly. Any railroad that fails to do this is bound for the slide," was the reply.

"You think that ought to be paid out of the operating expenses?"

"Most certainly I do."

In his testimony earlier in the day Mr. Ripley said it would cost $579,000,000 to reproduce the Santa Fé Railroad system. He added that approximately $45,000,000 of the investment is represented by franchises, and that for the year 1910 the road would pay $2,000,000 for labor in excess of the sum paid the previous year. He estimated the increase in operating expenses at $5,200,000 for the fiscal year 1910 as compared with 1909. Cost of maintenance of way, during the same period has increased $1,600,000, he said.

"Out of each dollar received by the road about 70 per cent. goes back to the general public in one way or another," said Mr. Ripley.

Attorney Frank Lyon for the commission took up the problem of what constitutes the proper factors in determining a just rate. President Ripley surprised his hearers when he declared that in his opinion the cost of a railroad and its capitalization should not enter into consideration in determining rates. He declared that there never was a better rule than the old and much-abused one, "all the traffic will bear."

"The value of the commodity handled and the value of the service are the factors upon which a rate should be determined," he continued.

The witness stated that of the money which returns to the public from the railroads, 60 per cent. goes to labor.

Mr. Lyon pressed him for an explanation.

Mr. Ripley replied that this expenditure does not wholly show in the list of wages paid on his road for the reason that much construction work is done by contract. The money reached labor through the contractor, he said.

Attorney Clifford Thorne elicited from Mr. Ripley that the investment of the road per mile was greater now than in 1897, in spite of the average investment being greatly reduced by many miles of branch road, which cost far less than the extensive improvements to the main line roadway.

Mr. Lyon directed the attention of the witness to the statistics of business done by the Santa Fé Road in July of this year, and Mr. Ripley admitted that the figures of business transacted in that month by the road would not substantiate such a pessimistic view.

A tabulation of expenditures of the road for some years was introduced by Attorney T. J. Norton, general counsel of the Santa Fé Road, and Attorney Atwood, representing a group of shippers, called attention to one of $700,000 set apart for fuel reserve expenditures for the year 1910, and said:

"Does not the setting apart of $700,000 for fuel reserve for the year 1910, when in 1908 $158,000 was spent, and in 1909 $191,000 went for the same purpose, indicate a desire to make a lean showing for 1910, which might affect the success of establishing the desired increased rates?"

Mr. Ripley answered emphatically, "No."

He was questioned concerning the capitalization of the subsidiary lines of the Santa Fé system, which, he said, was included in the estimate of $579,000,000, the sum required to reproduce the system's properties.

From the figures at his command Mr. Ripley declared that he was unable to say whether the Santa Fé makes or loses in the operation of most of the subsidiary roads.

W. E. Bailey, general auditor of the system, was the next witness, and at once plunged into an array of figures showing the increase in wages paid by the system now over what was so spent in former years. He declared that by applying the wage scale of employes in 1901 to the employes of the road in 1910 the system would have saved more than $6,300,000, while the actual increase in the amounts paid for labor in 1910 over 1901 was $21,750,000, the difference in the figures showing the increase, being accounted for by the greatly increased number of employes. He estimated the direct labor charge as from 45 to 50 per cent. of the operating expenses.

James Peabody, Santa Fé statistician, was next called to the stand. Taking the year 1901 as a standard at 100 per cent., with gross earnings of $32,200,000, operating expenses of $18,800,000, and net earnings of $16,400,000, in round numbers, Mr. Peabody declared that 1910 showed an increase in gross earnings to 163.5 per cent., at $38,600,000; operating expenses to 209.3 per cent., at $38,300,000, and net earnings to 117.6 per cent., at $19,300,000. By another tabulation the statistician declared that from 1903 to 1910, taking 1903 at 100 per cent., freight earnings decreased to 42 per cent. and freight operating expenses increased to 170 per cent.

Under the head of necessary expenses for the years 1911 and 1912, Mr. Peabody declared that the Santa Fé system would require the expenditure of $66,500,000, the items of expense including terminal yards $4,000,000, track elevations $3,500,000, station buildings $4,500,000, and other expenditures in lesser amounts.

POLKA DOMINATES MADAME SHERRY

Very Little Waltzing in the New Piece at the New Amsterdam.

GAY FRENCH VAUDEVILLE

Lina Abarbanell Sings German Again and Ralph C. Herz Has Role Which Fits Him.

MADAME SHERRY, a French vaudeville, in three acts, by Otto Hauerbach, music by Karl Hoschna. New Amsterdam Theatre.

Lulu ..... Frances Demarest
Catharine ..... Elizabeth Murray
Phillippe ..... Ignacio Martinetti
Edward Sherry ..... Jack Gardner
Leonard Gomez ..... John Reinhard
Pepita ..... Dorothy Jardon
Yvonne Sherry ..... Lina Abarbanell
Theophilus Sherry ..... Ralph Herz
Hector ..... Frank Johnson

There is one innovation in "Madame Sherry," which was produced at the New Amsterdam Theatre last night, which theatregoers will doubtless greet with their approval; it's not a waltz this time; it's a polka. And instead of making its appearance near the end of the second act, as the waltzes generally do, its strains are heard at the beginning of the first and continue thereafter. The polka is called "Every Little Movement," and it is a sort of an inversion of Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," but it has a manner of its own. By the time the end of the first act was reached last night everybody in the house knew it, but a string orchestra in the foyer, all unconscious of the fact, continued to play it.

"Madame Sherry" is different in other ways, too. It has no chorus men, for one thing—except two who look on now and then—and a strong nobody, not down on the programme, who is a very important factor in a dance which will be described somewhat further down in this column.

Another very important thing about "Madame Sherry" is the fact that, although there is a star, a great many other people have a great deal to do. In fact, everybody in the cast has something to do; even the young ladies who wear hobble skirts have lines written for them by the author.

Perhaps the most curious thing of all about the piece is that all the ladies concerned with its presentation resemble in a marked degree certain prima donnas of the opera stage. Miss Arbarbanell, of course, resembles only herself, but it wasn't so very long ago that she was singing Gretel at the Metropolitan, and her "Donnerwetter" song last night indicated that she is still more at home in German than in English.

When Dorothy Jardon appeared there were some in the audience who were sure that Mme. Cavalieri was on the stage; Miss Frances Demarest is a very good fac simile of Mlle. Chenal, the Aphrodite of the Paris Opéra Comique, whom Americans are some time to hear, and Miss Elizabeth Murray—well, Miss Murray looks a great deal like Mme. Nordica.

As for the entertainment itself, it is not a Viennese operetta, nor yet is it a French vaudeville, nor again even an American musical comedy, but it is a sort of combination of all three, and when it is most like a French vaudeville it is more clever than at other times. The plot plays a much more important part than it usually does in an American musical comedy, but the plot would be difficult to set down on paper.

To be brief, it concerns a nephew who has deceived his rich uncle who is living abroad by writing him that he was married and has two children. Upon the arrival of the uncle, of course it is necessary to produce the wife and children. From this source spring the complications.

Some of the situations are very amusing. Most of them aroused laughter last night. A great many of the songs also will achieve popularity. The music is largely a hodge-podge, chosen like the music of the most recent revues, from various composers, Hoschna perhaps predominating. With the very rise of the curtain, as has been mentioned, Miss Demarest begins on the "Every Little Movement" motive which runs through the piece.

"I'm All Right," "The Dublin Rag," and a waltz which rejoices in the title of "The Birth of Passion" make the second act melodious, and the third act contains dances and songs enough to bring its interest up to that of the other two. Last night the musical numbers were all repeated so many times that it was long after 11 when the final curtain fell. Less repetition of some of these numbers will doubtless give more effect to the others.

Curiously enough Miss Abarbanell is not especially well suited in the leading part. It is not a rôle which by any means exhausts her possibilities, and in many parts of the piece she is playing at a distinct disadvantage. However, after some of the ingenue songs of the first act are disposed of she is given more of a chance. Her "I'm All Right" song was deliciously well done, and her German "Donnerwetter" was one of the best bits in the piece. Her dancing is very exquisite.

Miss Frances Demarest is very beautiful and fills all the requirements of her part. She sings her songs very well, and her presence on the stage is always a delight to the eye.

Miss Elizabeth Murray made a great deal of an Irish character part, singing three songs with a great deal of spirit and acting a drunken scene with realism which was never offensive.

Miss Dorothy Jardon played a conventional stage character, a jealous Spanish woman, in a way which made her seem very unconventional. In the first place she wore gowns which doubtless instilled in the mind of every woman in the audience a desire to discover the name of her dressmaker. The first, a combination of orange and blue, was extraordinary enough, but the second one, of deep purple, was still more wonderful.

Miss Jardon did a song and dance in the first act which made the audience wish to see more of her, but it was forced to wait until the last, when in the midst of a sort of an Apache rag she turned herself into a living mummy—feet crossed and arms folded—and was twirled around the head of the Strong Nobody. In many ways this was the sensation of the evening.

Ralph Herz, who is also mentioned in big type as one of the stars, was most happily cast. In the rôle of the fussy old uncle he gives a deliciously droll performance. Mr. Ignacio Martinetti and Mr. Jack Gardner are no different from what might have been expected from their past performances. Mr. John Reinhard adds his voice now and then in a duet or concerted number, and Frank Johnson has to take a realistic fall, which he does very well indeed.

The scenery for the first act is very unhappy in color and design, as are the costumes, but the settings and costumes for the two following acts are all that could be desired.

It is likely from the attitude of last night's audience that "Madame Sherry" will be at home at the New Amsterdam every evening during the Fall season, and possibly through the Winter.

COLLIER A FIELDS STAR.

Comedian to Appear In a Play of His Own at the Comedy Theatre.

Contracts whereby William Collier will appear this season as a Lew Fields star have been signed and arrangements have been made for his tour. Mr. Collier, who is now in the West, will return to New York in a short time to begin rehearsals of a new comedy, written by himself and called "I'll Be Hanged If I Will."

The first production will be made in October, and in November Mr. Collier will appear at the Comedy Theatre, which will hereafter bear his name before the "comedy" part. This piece will make the eighth attraction under Mr. Fields's management and soon after it is launched rehearsals of a ninth, a musical comedy called "When Sweet Sixteen," will begin.

'THE COUNTRY BOY' PLEASES.

Good Caste Seen in a New Play by Edgar Selwyn.

THE COUNTRY BOY, a comedy by Edgar Selwyn. Liberty Theatre.

Edgar Selwyn has preached a sermon. If it is true that everybody in New York comes from some other place, he has preached it to a congregation of 5,000,000. If every one to whom his new play, "The Country Boy," appeals should see it, there is not a hamlet in the United States that would not be represented in the audience. And besides preaching a little sermon, he has written a real play, with real characterization and real plot, and enough of theatricism to please the lovers of the stage, and his manager has been able to select a most remarkable company to present it.

If it were without fault it would not be human, so it has faults, such as a sort of "fall down" to the last act, and too long a scene in Act III.—the audience last night got restless during this—and just a trifle too much extraneous matter in Act II.

The story is of a country boy who came to New York to win his way for the sake of the girl he loved. He met an actress. He lost his place. He would not listen to advice. He "contemplated suicide." He was saved by a wise newspaper reported. He went back to the village, with good friends for companions, and he "struck his gait" and found the girl waiting for him.

The first and last acts take place in the village, and the second and third at a boarding house said to be in Fifty-first Street, in the city. That an inveterate ticket speculator is taken to the country to assist in running a newspaper in a small town will indicate some of the comedy situations.

The much misused term of a "well-balanced cast" may be used without reservation in the case of this play. Perhaps last night's audience liked Robert McWade, Jr., in the rôle of the newspaper reporter, best. Here was a man with chronic rheumatism and a dyspeptic's dislike of the world whose almost motherly tenderness made him one of the finest real characters the stage has had in some time.

Mr. McWade did all the author could have expected of any one in the part. Edith Lyle, unknown to New York, and after only a few days' rehearsal, made the ingenue rôle of Jane, the principal character's sweetheart, a completely human person, with a human persons faultiness. Forrest Winant as the young man, Arthur Shaw as the transplanted ticket speculator, Mrs. Stuart Robson as the boarding house mistress, Willette Kershaw as the actress, and every one else in the cast deserves a line of commendation.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

William A. Brady announced yesterday that the first performance of Jules Eckert Goodman's play, "Mother," has been postponed from next Monday afternoon, at the Hackett Theatre, to Wednesday evening, Sept. 7.

Gladys Hulette has been engaged by the New Theatre for the role of Mytyl in Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird." Miss Hulette was seen with Bertha Kalich as the boy in "The Kreutzer Sonata" and in "Sappho and Phaon," and with Nazimova as Ivan in "A Doll's House."

Bessie McCoy will give a professional matinee of "The Echo" at the Globe Theatre early in September.

Pain's fireworks will be given at Manhattan Beach to-night, to-morrow night, and Saturday night, when many of the special features of the recent carnival will be displayed.

A. H. Woods will start his tenancy of the Garden Theatre on Sept. 26, with Stanislaus Stange's new comedy, "The Pet of the Petticoats." The cast will include Mlle. Dazie, May Yokes, Dallas Welford, Kathryn Osterman, Harriet Burt, James E. Sullivan, and Charles Morrison.

Robert Hilliard has begun rehearsals of "A Fool There Was," for his third tour in this play. His company includes Virginia Pearson, Stella Archer, Winifred Burke, "Boots" Wurster, Lillian Collins, Virginia Pope, Berton Churchill, Edwin Holland, and George Clare.

Matt Schmidt and his band, which is composed of members of the orchestras of Klaw & Erlanger theatres, is giving a week's musical festival at Midland Beach. Saturday will be children's day.

Etienne Giradot, the original star of "Charley's Aunt," is to go on tour this season under the direction of Herbert M. Herkheimer, in a new light comedy that is now being written. He has played "Charley's Aunt" more than 3,000 times.

Roy Fairchild will replace Earle Browne as Red Joclyn in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," at Wallack's Theatre to-night. Another announcement from Liebler & Co. is that Emma Corrigan has been engaged for an important role in "The Deep Purple," by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner.

Members of the original company of "The Girl He Left Behind Him" have been invited to attend to-morrow afternoon's performance at the Academy of Music. They include a number of actors who are now stars.

$3,000 JEWEL THEFT AT NARRAGANSETT

Mrs. Louis Kaufman Misses Gems at Bass Rock Farms on Returning from a Dinner.

SECOND ROBBERY AT PIER

Police So Far Have No Clue—An Attempt Also Made to Enter the Strawbridge Cottage.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 30.—A diamond robbery became known to-night when it was learned that Mrs. Louis Kaufman of New York had been robbed on Saturday night of jewels and other valuables worth about $3,000.

The robbery took place at Bass Rock Farms, which was formerly the Wanamaker villa, on Ocean Road, now occupied by Dr. Archibald G. Thomson and Mrs. Thomson of Philadelphia. Mrs. Kaufman was a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Thomson and on Saturday night went to the Casino with them to a dinner party. Upon her return to Bass Rock Farms she found that the jewels she had left upon her bureau were missing. They are a diamond brooch, a diamond bracelet and a gold purse. It is supposed that a burglar forced an entrance into the room through a window over the porch of the villa.

Dr. Thomson at once notified Chief of Police James D. Caswell, and officers are now at work upon the case; but thus far no clues leading to the detection of the burglars have developed.

This is the second jewelry robbery of the season at Narragansett. The first one reported was early in the summer, when the cottage of Mrs. Irving H. Chase was entered and several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry stolen.

It is reported tonight that thieves made an attempt to force an entrance into the cottage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Strawbridge of Philadelphia, on Ocean Road. The thieves made their escape.

ASBURY'S QUEEN CROWNED.

Children Also Take Part In the "Pied Piper of Hamelin."

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—In an open-air stadium here to-day Asbury Park's annual carnival week was begun with legendary pantomime in the afternoon, and the crowning of a Queen tonight in conjunction with the production of a "Midsummer Night's Dream" by the Ben Greet English palyers. Eight thousand persons witnessed the two performances.

This afternoon's entertainment was chiefly for the children, and more than 1,000 of them occupied seats in the big amphitheatre erected in Atlantic Square. The story of Cinderella and the glass slipper was enacted in pantomime, the various scenes lasting an hour. The Ben Greet Players then presented "Pandora's Box," and the entertainment ended with the "Pied piper of Hamelin."

These pantomimes were enacted on a platform set before a green canopied pavilion, in which were seated Miss Lillian T. Sexton, the Queen, and her Court ladies. The stage setting was a dense forest, and against this green scenery the bright coloring of the costumes of the children, the elfs and sprites, Dutch kiddies, Colonial dames and gentlemen, and dozens of little brown rats were brought into pretty relief by the gleaming rays of the setting sun.

The carnival continues to-morrow night with the Queen's Court ball in the Beach Arcade. On Thursday night th masque fête will be held and the events will be brought to a close on Friday afternoon with the twentieth annual baby parade on Ocean Avenue, for which more than 600 entries already have been received.

PAPER CHASE AT THE PIER.

Miss Randolph Wins Easily in Cross-Country Ride at Narragansett.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 30.—A paper chase was given this afternoon over the meadows and through the woodland of Wildfield Farm. Earl Hopping led the chase, and was given fifteen minutes' start. Miss Emily Randolph, daughter of Philip S. P. Randolph, who has won many honors in open-air sports this Summer at Narragansett, was the winner.

The course was an eight-mile run over wild country and through thick brush and woodland. Miss Randolph rode astride, wearing a gray costume. The start was from the Point Judith Polo Clubhouse and the finish on the polo field. Miss Randolph finished ten minutes ahead of all contestants, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rathborne, Miss Marguerite Prescott, Henry W. Harrison, Mrs. Robert E. Strawbridge, Joseph B. Thomas, Jr., and Philip Randolph, Jr.

DR. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN WEDS

Evangelist Marries Miss Mabel Moulton at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 30.—In the presence of many of his co-workers in the field of religious endeavor, the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, was married to-day to Miss Mabel Cornelia Moulton at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ruth W. Moulton, in this city. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom were present.

The Rev. Elijah A. Hanley, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, and the Rev. Dr. Ford C. Ottman of Stamford, Conn., who has been associated with Dr. Chapman in his work, were the officiating clergymen.

Mrs. Chapman has long been active in religious work, and will continue to assist her husband in his chosen life mission.

MISS BARBEY A BRIDE.

The wedding of Miss Marguerita Barbey, daughter of the late Henry Barbey of New York, and Gilbert Compton Elliot, son of the late Frederick Elliot and Lady Charlotte Elliot of Deal, England, took place on Monday at the American Church, Geneva, Switzerland. Mrs. Barbey, the bride's mother, is well known in New York society and before her marriage was Miss Mary Lorillard. She has a son, Henry G. Barbey. The Barbeys make their home when in New York at 17 West Thirty-eighth Street. The engagement was announced on Aug. 10 from London.

COUPER—COOPER.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 30.—Announcement was made here to-day of the marriage of Richard Hamilton Couper, son of William Couper, the sculptor, and Miss Mildred Cooper of Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic. The wedding took place on Saturday night at the residence of the bridegroom's parents, 105 Upper Mountain Avenue. The Rev. Dr. William Stone Hubbell, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, performed the ceremony. There were no attendants.

Miss Cooper and Mr. Couper met three years ago in Paris, where the bride was studying music, and Mr. Couper was studying art. The acquaintance continued when both went to Rome, where they have been for the last two years. Mr. and Mrs. Couper will shortly return to Rome to resume their studies.

MAJOR RATHBONE DYING IN ASYLUM

Was Wounded by John Wilkes Booth After the Assassin Shot President Lincoln.

KILLED WIFE AT HANOVER

Was Declared to be Insane and Has Been in an Institution in Hanover Ever Since.

HANOVER, Aug. 30.—Major Henry Reed Rathbone, who was an aid to President Lincoln and received a stab wound in attempting to save the life of his chief on the night of Lincoln's assassination, is near death in the criminal ward of the insane asylum at Hildesheim, of which he has long been an inmate.

Many years ago, while occupying the post of American Consul here, Major Rathbone murdered his wife. He was convicted, but was declared to be insane and was committed to the institution in which he has since remained and has lived in luxury. For a long time he made periodical attempts to obtain his release, but finally gave up hope of getting his freedom, and is awaiting the end with some tranquillity.

The physicians of the asylum state that Major Rathbone is failing rapidly and cannot long survive.

Henry Reed Rathbone was born in Albany, this State, on July 1, 1837. He served with distinction in the civil war, being appointed a Major of United States volunteers on Nov. 29, 1862, and resigning on July 8, 1867.

He received a wound from the dirk which John Wilkes Booth brandished after he shot President Lincoln at Ford's Theatre in Washington on April 14, 1865. The wound was not a serious one.

Major Rathbone's testimony figured largely in the trial of the conspirators. It was he who seized Booth before the assassin could leave the theatre, but a dagger thrust from the actor prevented him from making good the capture. In the course of his testimony he said:

"On reaching the outer door of the passageway I found it barred by a heavy piece of plank, one end of which was secured in the wall and the other resting against the door. It had been so securely fastened that it required considerable force to remove it. Persons outside were beating against the door for the purpose of entering. I removed the bar and the door was opened. Several persons who represented themselves as surgeons were allowed to enter. I saw there Col. Crawford and requested him to prevent other persons from entering the box."

Later Major Rathbone was appointed Consul at Hanover, where he killed his wife after, as was shown following the trial, he had become insane. He has been in the asylum in Hanover ever since. He is a cousin of the late Gen. John Finley Rathbone, the well-known Albany manufacturer, commander in the civil war and philanthropist.

Wm. Rothschild Dead at Long Branch.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 30.—William Rothschild, a retired cotton converter, died at his Summer home, in Ocean Avenue, this city, shortly before 6 o'clock this morning. He was 81 years of age last Friday, the day on which he was first taken seriously ill. Burial will be in Cypress Hills Cemetery, New York, on Thursday morning. Besides a widow, there are two surviving children, Mrs. Flora Blum and Frederick Rothschild.

POLICE SAVED THE KIDDIES.

Reserves Chipped In to Aid a Poor Woman Who Lost Her Purse.

A slender woman carrying a bundle of linen almost half as large as herself entered the new West Twentieth Street Police Station last evening, and in a voice which she tried hard to keep from shaking said to Lieut. Powers:

"My name is Alice Blacklock, and I live at 167 Varick Street. My husband is dead, and I've three small children to care for out of the $6 a week I get for scrubbing floors in the Methodist Building, Fifth Avenue and Twentieth Street, and the little extra I earn by doing washing for the tenants there.

"To-night, coming from work, a woman stopped me and asked me if I'd lost my pocketbook. She said she'd seen a rough-looking man pick up a pocketbook from the sidewalk and run down a side street. I looked and found it must have been mine, for it was gone."

Then the woman broke down and wept as she tried to tell Powers that in the purse had been $10.85, all her earnings, of which $10.50 was for the rent.

"My poor children," she sobbed, "they'll be turned out into the street."

Powers pushed the electric buzzer that brought all the reserves from the back room and to them he said:

"This woman's lost her pocketbook and she and the kids are going to be turned out into the street. How about it?"

As he spoke, Powers exhibited a bill, and instantly every one of the policemen reached in his pocket.

"That's confidential police information," replied Powers to a question of how much they'd given the woman who went away happy.

NEW STAFF OFFICERS.

War Department Publishes List of Those Detailed for Coming Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Many changes in the personnel of the General Staff of the Army were provided for to-day when announcement was made of the list of officers selected by a board of general officers for detail during the coming year to the staff.

Those selected from the infantry were as follows: Col. T. C. Woodbury of the Third Infantry, Lieut. Col. William A. Nichols of the Thirteenth, Major C. Reichmann of the Twenty-fourth, Major C. H. Martin of the First, Major D. B. Devore of the Eleventh, Major H. C. Hodges, Jr., of the Twenty-second, Capt. M. C. Kerth of the Twenty-third, Capt. P. B. Malone of the Twenty-seventh, Capt. H. L. Laubauch of the Twenty-third, and Capt. G. H. Jamerson of the Twenty-ninth.

The only selection from the cavalry was that of Capt. M. E. Hanna of the Second Cavalry. The lone representative of the Corps of Engineers to be added to the staff was Capt. G. A. Youngberg.

From the Field Artillery were chosen Lieut. Col. E. St. J. Greble of the Third Field Artillery and Major E. F. McGlachlan of the Fourth Field Artillery. From the Coast Artillery were selected Col. E. M. Weaver, in charge of the militia, and Capts. E. Landon, S. D. Embick, and C. C. Carter, all unassigned.

MYTHICAL $9,700,000 GONE.

Treasury Has Carried It on Its Books as Coin Imported.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—A mythical sum of $9,700,000, which has been carried on the books of the Treasury for more than thirty years, was wiped off to-day when Assistant Secretary Andrew revised the estimate of subsidiary silver existing.

Silver coins of smaller denominations than $1 are called subsidiary silver by the Treasury Department. Each year Americans going abroad carry small coins which are returned to this country in time and have been recorded as coin imported, while no record has been kept of their going out. That practice has been going on at about the rate of $300,000 a year for the last thirty years until the estimated amount of $9,700,000 has been reached.

That sum has been eliminated and the estimated stock of subsidiary silver in the United States now stands at $155,000,000.

PROF. JAMES'S FUNERAL.

Simple Services at Harvard with Professors as Pall Bearers.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 30.—Simple services, in accordance with the ideals of the dead man, marked the funeral of Prof. William James of Harvard University, the philosopher and psychologist, in this city late to-day. The services were held in Appleton Chapel in the Harvard yard, and were conducted by the Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon, pastor of the Old South Church, Boston.

President A. Lawrence Lowell of the university was one of the eight pall bearers, and the others were Faculty members who had been intimately associated with Prof. James. Previous to the chapel service there was a brief private service at Prof. James's late residence, in Irving Street. The body was taken to Mount Auburn Cemetery for cremation.

Prof. James, who was a brother of Henry James, the novelist, died at his Summer home at Chocorua, N. H., last Friday, shortly after his return from a European trip. Heart disease caused his death.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Grow Duller; Active Issues Little Changed—Call Money Rates, 1¾@2 Per Cent.

CASH OUTFLOW UNABATED

Both Time and Call Money Firmer—No Further Rise in Cotton—Sterling Exchange Lower.

The only net changes of any consequence which occurred on the Stock Exchange yesterday took place in stocks in which the dealings were relatively small, as often as not in stocks in which the trading amounted to only a few hundred shares. The more active issues for the most part closed unchanged or at only small fractional advances or declines from Monday's closing prices. There was an advance during the early trading, followed by a reaction and another recovery, all of which left but very slight change in the general level of prices of the stocks which practically made up all of the day's business. The volume of trading was further contracted, falling below the total of the previous day, as well as below the trading in the same day last week. The market had very little in the way of fresh developments from which to take inspiration yesterday, for, apart from some earning statements and weather reports bearing on the crops, which were of the mixed character familiar in the reports regarding this year's progress of the farms, the day's events had largely to do with the currency demands which the New York banks have been meeting for the past ten days. Yesterday both time and call money rates were firmer. Withdrawals of gold for shipment to Canada amounted to $800,000, and the daily transfer of funds from New York to New Orleans through the Sub-Treasury called for another $250,000. While the Sub-Treasury statement of its transactions with the banks showed a loss since last Friday of $3,592,000, compared with a loss of $527,000 during the corresponding days of last week. Thus the flow of currency to the interior continues unabated, but this is a seasonable movement, which must be regarded as one of the routine factors in the present financial situation. A favorable incident in monetary affairs yesterday was the continuance of the reaction in foreign exchange rates, which brought demand sterling to a point about three-quarters of a cent to the pound sterling below the highest point reached last week. Discount rates in London, however, were higher, and the probability of an advance in the Bank of England's discount rate this week was again under discussion.

The very unusual advance which took place on Monday in the August cotton option was carried no further yesterday, and in the new crop options prices closed slightly lower than on the previous day. The weekly weather report noted the continuance of hot, dry weather in Texas, and it will be to the showing made by that State that interest will be particularly directed in the Government cotton report to be issued before the close of this week. Favorable weather prevailed for the harvesting of wheat, and satisfactory conditions also prevailed throughout the week covered by the weather report in most of the corn-growing territory. The cereal markets showed some further slight recession yesterday, both wheat and corn in the Chicago market closing lower than on Monday.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—The local market opened dull and without particular feature. Prices held without change during the first hours, but at the end of that time the market developed a reactionary tendency, but declines were generally confined within fractional limits. The close was irregular at the recession.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Freight Rates, East and West.

In the light of the arguments now being advanced by Western railroads in favor of the rate increases which are now being investigated by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, interest attaches to rates by the ton for each mile which have been completed by Western roads in comparison with the rates prevailing in the East. The Southern Pacific, which enjoys an unusually high average rate, earned in 1909 1.15 cents a ton for the mile, the Union Pacific earned 1.02, the Atchison 1.03, Northern Pacific .89, and the Great Northern .82. The relatively low rates on the two most northerly of these lines, which operate under conditions similar in many ways to those prevailing on the other roads, is likely to prove an argument, it is believed, against rate increases on some of the other roads which are earning much more a ton-mile. It is felt in some quarters of the financial district that the relatively low rates earned by some of these Western lines will make it more difficult to convince the commission of the necessity of a rate increase on other lines which are earning much higher rates. How the general level of Western rates compares with those in the East is suggested by the fact that the latter includes such ton-mile rates as .64 cents on the New York Central, .57 on the Pennsylvania, and .41 on the Chesapeake & Ohio.

Railrond Expenses Expanded.

The July statements of the Harriman lines put out yesterday showed that the factors which lately have brought about increases in expenses much in excess of the increases in gross earnings, large as the latter have been, were still holding sway on the Harriman lines in July. Some of the other roads which have reported for this month made relatively good showings in respect to expenses, but the Union Pacific reported yesterday with an increase of $381,000 in gross, a decrease of $429,000 in net earnings, showing that expenses had consumed the entire increase in gross, and a good deal more. The Southern Pacific reported an increase of $400,000 in gross, while its net earnings for the month were $101,000 less than they were in July, 1909. The suggestion has lately been advanced in respect to the poor showing made by many roads in the matter of their net earnings, although they have shown increases in gross earnings, that expenses have been purposely increased with a view to making a less favorable showing in net. This suggestion has been vigorously denied in behalf of the railroads, but the denials have not been uniformly accepted.

The Cash Outflow.

Another $500,000 gold shipment was taken by the Bank of Montreal yesterday for Canada and the Bank of New York took an additional $300,000, also for shipment to the Dominion. This made $800,000 for the day, bringing the total shipments of gold to Canada since the beginning of last week up to $2,600,000. In addition to these gold takings there was a transfer of $250,000 to New Orleans, to which point a telegraphic transfer has been made through the Sub-Treasury each day for some days past. Both movements are in keeping with the demand usually made upon the banks at this time and are a part of the general cash outflow from New York which occurs every Fall, although as each Autumn comes the West assures Wall Street that this year the interior banks can handle the crops without help from New York. This is largely true, perhaps, in the sense that the interior banks withdraw in the Fall money which they have previously placed on deposit with the New York banks, but the effect nevertheless is a loss in cash by the latter.

Probable Advance in Bank Rate.

The Bank of England to-morrow will again have to take up for consideration the advisability of maintaining its discount rate at the present level of 3 per cent. or of advancing it to a higher figure. Open market discount rates continue slightly above the official bank rate, having again advanced above 3 per cent., which attests the belief of the London money market that it is only a matter of a short time before the official rate is advanced. In this connection a statement comes from London that New York bankers are making inquiries there looking to discounting bills to be presented in October. The rates, which are being discussed, are in the neighborhood of 4 per cent,

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

5,426. POWER CARS—An American Consul in South America reports that the owner of a tramway line wants to get in touch with American manufacturers of power cars. An electric storage battery or a storage car, gasoline, petroleum, &c., is needed to replace the steam locomotive and to accommodate about sixty passengers and with power to haul a second car of thirty passengers. The line is 5½ miles in length, 3 foot gauge, uses 40 pound rails, radius of curves 50 meters, and with a maximum grade of 2 per cent. The height of draw head on car is 75 centimeters.

5,427. BUTTER CUTTING AND WEIGHING MACHINES—An importer in England informs an American Consul that he wants the names of manufacturers of butter cutting and weighing machinery in the United States.

5,428. COFFEE—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a party in New York who intends opening a large coffee store in Italy and desires to get in touch with American coffee producers.

5,429. ASPHALT PAVING—An American Consul reports that the Commission on Improvement in a Latin American country has at its disposal $100,000 annually to be used in paving the streets of one of the cities.

5,430. BOOTS AND SHOES—A retail shoe firm in Italy which handles certain makes of American shoes, desires to communicate with manufacturers of men's, women's, and children's shoes of first class quality with a view to direct importation.

5,431. OPENING FOR STEAM LAUNDRY AND SODA WATER FOUNTAINS—An American Consul writes that a city in Mexico with a population of about 23,000 (1,000 foreign) and which depends entirely on native wash women and Chinese laundries, would be a good field for a steam laundry. A few years ago a steam laundry was started and did exceedingly well, but, owing to poor management, was abandoned. The Consul also states that if the soda water fountain was introduced into that city it would find a profitable business.

5,432. AMERICAN GOODS IN ITALY—A firm in Italy importing metals and chemical products informs an American Consul that it desires to represent in that country American exporters of paraffine, pig tin, pig copper; also any kind of specialty or novelty and also machinery which might suit their market.

5,433. GRINDSTONES—A manufacturer's agent in Russia informs an American Consul that he desires quotations on grindstones from American manufacturers. Correspondence should be in German or Russian.

5,434. ICE MAKING MACHINE—A missionery engaged in Africa, but now visiting the United States, writes the Bureau of Manufactures for the name of the firm manufacturing the "Family Ice Machine." He wants a small ice making apparatus suitable for individual families.

5,435—FLY PAPER—An American Consular officer in Europe reports that a party in his district wants samples of American manufactured fly paper. The officer states there is great demand for any kind of a device to catch flies. The inquirer believes he could easily introduce American articles in this line. Correspondence should be in German.

5,436. AUTOMOBILES—A party in Russia informs an American Consular officer that he desires to represent American manufacturers of first class, medium priced automobiles. Correspondence should be in German.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Money was in good supply and discount rates were easy to-day.

The absence of a demand for gold from the Continent creates the belief that there will be no change in the Bank rate on Thursday.

The stock market was quietly firm, with small general advances in home rails, foreign securities, and Rhodesian mines. Anglo-American Telegraph stock was firm, on rumors of an agreement with the American Telegraph and Telephone Company.

American securities opened quiet and steady, and in the forenoon advanced fractionally on light covering. The trading was limited until the afternoon, when Wall Street bid up prices and made the closing firm.

Bar silver steady at 24 3-16d per ounce.

Money, 1½@1¾ per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 3 per cent.; for three months' bills, 3 1-16 @3¼ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: At Madrid, 7.70; at Lisbon, 6.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 22½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 23c for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—A firm tone prevailed on the Boerse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 46 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 4½ per cent.

Private discount rate, 8⅝ per cent.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The local market closed easy, with Sears-Roebuck at three-quarters of a point higher. While Pneumatic Tool closed at last night's level, National Carbon preferred sold at 119, and then eased off a half point. McCrum-Howell preferred recovered its loss and closed steady at yesterday's final quotation.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The opening wheat market was quiet with price changes small. Some steadiness was displayed in sympathy with the higher corn market, and on reports that a fair export business had been put through late Monday. Shorts were also inclined to cover at the outset, but as soon as this demand was supplied the market became heavy. There was no special incentive for trading received in the cables, which were just about as expected, although foreign advices were if anything more encouraging, including reports that the weather in the United Kingdom was clearing, which conditions are needed for the completion of harvesting. Receipts at northwestern points continued liberal, and there was a good deal of selling by elevator interests. Bradstreet's visible statement was extremely bearish, and tends to confirm the heavy movement and comparatively slow distribution of the crop. This week the increase amounted to 7,726,000 bushels against an increase last week of 7,211,000 bushels, and a decrease last year of 365,000 bushels. The undertone continued heavy in the afternoon, with little support given to values. Shorts seemed to be all in, and commission houses who had turned bullish the past few days were fair sellers. Export business was confined to 100,000 bushels of wheat from Baltimore to France, but this business was done on late Monday, and therefore had little effect on the day's prices. Sentiment at the close was bearish. Cash, wheat No. 2 red, Winter, 106½ nominal, to arrive c. i. f.; No. 2, red spot, nominal, new, 107¾ f. o. b. afit. for export; No. 1, Nor. Spring, 122¾ nominal, No. 2, hard Winter, new, 108; No. 1, Nor. Man., 113¾. Sales include 100,000 bushels No. 2 red Winter, reported from Baltimore to France.

The corn market, after opening quiet and steady developed a fair degree of firmness on the weather prediction, which called for probable frost in Nebraska and in the northwest. Shorts were good buyers, and there was also some buying for long account, on crop reports sent by B. W. Snow, stating that prospects were not as bright as reports recently received would indicate. At the advance there was a great deal of pressure from cash houses, who were said to be buying the spot article, and storing the same for future delivery. The heaviness of September also had a sympathetic effect on values, with the easier wheat market causing some additional pressure. Bradstreet's showed a decrease of 567,000 bushels against a decrease last week of 680,000, and a decrease a year ago of 118,000. Cash corn quoted No. 2, 68½, nominal, elev. to arrive c. i. f. dom. basis; and steamer nominal elev. export basis.

The opening in oats was dull, with prices practically unchanged; receipts continue liberal, while cash demand is slow. This has resulted in a further accumulation in stocks, with Bradstreet's statement for the week showing an increase of 6,759,000 bushels against an increase last week of 6,254,000, and an increase for this week last year of 1,608,000 bushels. The close was at the low of the session, with shorts the best buyers. Standards 38@38¼, No. 2, white, 38¼@38; No. 3, white, 38@38½; No. 4, white, 37½@38; natural white, 38½@39½; white, clipped, 39@42½.

Provisions were slightly easier at the outset, in sympathy with hog markets, but on buying by Armour interests a better tone developed. Toward the close some reaction set in, on profit taking by traders, in sympathy with other markets.

COTTON.

There was some further excitement in August at the outset, with the first sale showing an advance of thirty points, being at 20c. At this level there was a great deal of cotton for sale, by scattered interests, and prices quickly receded over fifty points. The bulls expected a fair amount of tenders, but the total issued early, which amounted to over thirty thousand, exceeded their ideas. It was said that cotton had been rushed by express from Fall River and other centres in New England to apply on deliveries, as holders had purchased the same at 16c, or thereabouts, and could make a more substantial profit by disposing of the cotton on contract than by manufacturing it. Other months started without important price changes, although the undertone was steady. Some new outside buying and short covering was attracted by the assertions of the bull leaders, and on the continued absence of rain in Texas and the Eastern belt, except for some very heavy rains along the immediate South Atlantic Coast. Crop reports issued by private authorities, however, were bullish. Norden & Co. made the condition of the crop 70.8 against 75 last month and 65.7 a year ago. The Texas condition was given by them at 63, against 80 last month and 60 last year. It was stated that the President of the National Ginners' Association forecasted a Government condition of under 71, and that their private estimate for the total probable yield was 11,470,000 bales. Late in the afternoon a somewhat easier undertone prevailed on the weekly crop bulletin, which, on the whole, was construed as rather bearish, and on selling due to fears of rain in the Eastern States, where there have been complaints of drought. The close was at near the bottom, with the early advance lost.

COFFEE.

Coffee was under heavy pressure early, and prices at the opening were 10 points below the previous close. Cables were weak early, and a private cable from Havre estimated the crop in Santos at from nine to ten million bags, which compare with the popular estimate of from eight to eight and a half millions. But the market developed firmness, with persistent buying by prominent roasters, and at the close was steady at net unchanged to 3 points higher, with sales of 60,250 bags. Havre was 1@1¼f lower early, but closed at a net decline of ½@¾f; Hamburg closed ¾@1 pfennig lower, and in Brazil Rio was 100 reis higher, and Santos unchanged to 50 reis lower. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 3,054,274 bags, against 3,733,626 bags last year, and 3,482,701 bags two years ago. DISPUTE ON COTTON BILLS.

Believed Here Foreign Banks Will Take Validation in Place of Guarantee

The London committee representing the bankers of England and of the Continent who recently decided to exact a guarantee on all American cotton bills of lading accepted by it after Oct. 31 will, it was learned here yesterday, consider at a meeting to be held in London on Friday the plan devised by New York bankers with the co-operation of the railroads which carry most of the cotton to the seaboard. This provides for a validation certificates to be attached to cotton bills of lading guaranteeing the genuineness of the signature and the receipt of the cotton by the railroad.

Reports were in circulation yesterday that a committee of our bankers would shortly go to London to confer with the London bankers. This, however, was denied by one of the New York bankers most actively concerned. It is thought likely by New York bankers that sixty days' experience with the validation scheme will satisfy the bankers abroad that this will afford them all the protection they can reasonably demand.

COTTON QUIET AFTER JUMP.

Bears Showed No Signs of Panic Over the High Prices.

If there are many August cotton contracts still uncovered or unprotected by cotton available for delivery on the "short notice" which may be availed of up to 11 o'clock to-day, the bears showed no signs of panic in yesterday's session on the Cotton Exchange. The expiring August option, which made a record-breaking advance on Monday to 20 cents a pound, touched that figure again yesterday at the opening; but the rise was not maintained. In fact, the chief interest in yesterday's market was in the new crop, and the private reports of condition made in advance of the Government figures due in a few days.

After touching 20 cents the August contract sold down to 19.25 cents, and closed at 19.40. September, the first month of the new crop, went up from the opening, at 14.37, to 14.60, and down to 14.35, the close being at approximately the low level. The other new-crop months, after advances of around 10 points, closed even with the opening or lower.

BIG ROYAL BANK OFFER.

English Syndicate Offers Market for 12,000 Shares in Canadian Merger.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 30.—The Union Bank of Halifax has issued a circular to its shareholders communicating an offer received from an English syndicate of $240 per share for the Royal Bank of Canada shares to which they may become entitled on the consummation of the merger of the two banks on Nov. 1 next. The amount of stock in questiton is 12,000 shares.

Royal Bank stock has recently been selling in the market around $240, and the offer from the syndicate to pay the market price for such a large amount of stock apparently indicates great confidence in the bank's future. Several Boston capitalists are large shareholders of the Union stock. The offer would mean an investment by the English syndicate of $2,

WOMEN SWIM FIVE MILES IN OCEAN RACE

One Rescued Exhausted, Another Collapses at Finish—Miss Bouton Wins.

Miss Clara Bouton of the Women's Life-saving League of Richmond, S. I., won the five-mile endurance swim held yesterday at Brighton Beach, in which twelve young women took part, eleven of whom finished, and, owing to the rough water in the ocean course, the feat is considered a remarkable one for women to accomplish.

Miss Bouton covered the distance from Rockaway Inlet to Brighton Beach, a distance of more than five miles, in the short time of 1 hour 36 minutes and 2-5 seconds. Following her was Miss Lillian Howard, whose time was 1:42 2-5. Close behind Miss Howard was Miss Rehm, who was third in 1:42½. The other eight contestants finished in quick succession, except for Miss Anna Blust, who was ten minutes behind the others, and it was thought that she would give up. However, she showed remarkable pluck and struggled alone against the waves until she had crossed the line. She was rewarded by a burst of applause from the crowd of nearly 500 persons who had assembled to witness the finish, which was at 6:47 P. M. The starting time at Rockaway was 4:28 P. M.

Miss Holland, after swimming nearly four miles and opposite the Oriental Hotel at the time became exhausted and had to be taken into a boat, where restoratives were administered, after which she soon recovered. However, she was not the only one who needed to be rescued in the contest. Miss Lillian Renaud collapsed just after she had crossed the line. She was brought ashore and carried to a room in an unconscious condition, but was later revived.

A strong northeasterly wind having whiffed up quite a sea it was extremely difficult to make much headway, and the swimmers experienced a great deal of difficulty in keeping close to the time made in previous performances. However, 1:36 2-5 is a very good mark, considering the rough condition of the ocean. The summaries:

Contestant.	Elapsed Time.	Finish.
Miss C. Bouton	1:36 2-5	6:04 2-5
Miss L. Howard	1:42 3-5	6:10 3-5

FIAT "60" IN BRIGHTON RACE.

Barney Oldfield Arrives—Will Practice on Track To-day.

A Fiat "60" is the latest entry for the Brighton Beach speed carnival next Saturday and Monday. The car was nominated last night by Edward Hearne, the wealthy young sportsmen, who won one of the Elgin road races last week and who holds the Indianapolis Speedway brassard. It is the Fiat which De Palma drove in the Lowell race and later with it won the Riverhead road race. Hearne entered the car in both one-hour races and in the two ten-mile stock chassis events.

Barney Oldfield arrived in the city last night from the West. Oldfield will have his cars on the track this afternoon, it being his first racing appearance here in more than five years.

The speed king said last night: "I consider George Robertson the greatest all-around driver in America at least, and am anxious to meet and defeat him at the Brighton meet.

The entry list was augmented yesterday by the nomination of a Simplex "50," to be driven by Ralph E. Beardsley, and a Black Crow to be driven by Otto F. Rost, who has participated in many events in Germany prior to entering the racing game in America. Mr. Rost is the Atlantic manager for the Black Crow Company.

MUNSEY TOUR VICTORS.

Maxwell Car Wins Sweepstakes Trophy in Historic Auto Run.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The judges to-day completed their technical examination of cars competing in the Munsey Historic Tour, which ended in this city Saturday, after covering a distance of 1,530 miles over Eastern roadways. The sweepstakes prize was awarded to Maxwell, No. 25, driven by Harry E. Wells. This machine finished with a penalization of only three points against it.

Winners in the different divisions which were classified according to the cost of the machines entered were as follows:

Division 1, A.—Brush No. 14, won; Brush No. 13, second.

Division 2, A.—Ford No. 34 won; Ford No. 8, second; Ford No. 2, third.

Division 3, A.—Maxwell No. 25, won; Warren-Detroit, second; Moon, third; Staver-Chicago, fourth; Crawford, fifth; Great Western, sixth.

Division 4, A.—Washington No. 6, won; Washington No. 5, second; Enger, third; Ohio No. 21, fourth; Inter-State, fifth; Pierce-Racine, sixth.

Division 5, A.—Stoddard-Dayton, won; Corbin, second; Columbia No. 2, third; Ohio No. 22, fourth; Kline No. 31, fifth.

Division 6, A.—Mathewson only contestant, won.

The trophies will be awarded by the judges to-morrow. A time limit of twenty-four hours has been allowed for protests.

ROEBLING ENTERS CAR.

Young Motorist Will Be Represented in Wheatley Hills Steeplechase.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., President of the Motor Cups Holding Company, announces the entry of a Mercer car for the Wheatley Hills Sweepsakes, which will be run in conjunction with the Vanderbilt Cup race on Saturday, Oct. 1, over the Long Island Motor Parkway. The car, which is made by the Mercer Automobile Company of Trenton, N. J., is owned by Washington A. Roebling, 2d, who has named E. H. Sherwood, a driver who has been doing brilliant work on road and track, to pilot the car.

The machine has a bore of 4⅝ inches and a stroke of 5 inches, making a piston displacement of approximately 300 cubic inches. To be eligible to compete for the Wheatley Hills Trophy cars must have a piston displacement of 231 to 300 cubic inches.

ATLANTIC'S RACE WEEK.

Eighty Yachts to Compete in Opening Series of Contests.

Eighty yachts are entered, and it is expected that all will start to-day in the opening series of races of the Atlantic Yacht Club's race week. Many of the Corinthian skippers and crews of the yachts that are to take part in the races gathered at the Atlantic Yacht Clubhouse last night, and discussed what promises to be the most interesting series of contests ever seen down the bay.

Much interest is shown in the three special races for the big sloops of the K class —Cornelius Vanderbilt's Aurora, George M. Pynchon's Istalena, and Henry F. Lippitt's Winsome. These three yachts are to race over the America's Cup courses outside Sandy Hook. The start is to be made this morning at 10:30 o'clock from a line between the Scotland Lightship and the committee boat, which will be Commodore Charles Sweeney's steam yacht, the Emeline. The course will be fifteen mils to leeward or windward and return. To-morrow these yachts will sail a triangular course of the same distance, and on Friday they cover the same course as to-day's. The prize will go to the yacht scoring the greatest number of points.

The inter-State series for Class P, between the Clara Mia, the Windward, and the Crescent, representing New York State, and the Amoret, the Mavourneen, and the Timandra, representing Massachusetts, will doubtless be a most exciting struggle, for these are the crack boats of that class from each State. Their start each day will be at 1 P. M., and the sloops and yawls in Classes M and N will go at 11 A. M. All except the 65-foot sloops will start from off the club pier.

The illumination of the yachts of all the clubs in Gravesend Bay to-night will, it is said, surpass anything heretofore attempted in that line. The searchlights at the forts will play an important part in the display. At 9 P. M. all the fast power yachts dressed with lanterns are to start in a parade in a semi-circle between the lines of anchored yachts, from off Captain's pier to Sea Gate. These are to be followed by slower moving power boats, and on signal from the club about 9 P. M. the fireworks display will begin. The members of the committee and their clubs are: August Heckscher and ex-Commodore Starbuck, Columbia; Charles Gould, Manhasset Bay; J. G. Neafie Whitaker, Philadelphia Corinthian; R. J. Schaefer, Larchmont; Col. R. M. Thompson, New York; Commodore Holmes, Bellport Bay. Vice Commodore George W. Titcomb offers a special prize for the inter-city club races.

ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

Smuggling her drives through by feints at lobbing and volleying, Miss Gordon Hamilton of the Englewood Field Club, arrived in the semi-final round of the women's singles yesterday on the lawn tennis courts of the Nyack Country Club, Miss Hamilton displayed speed and certainty of action, so that she defeated Mrs. J. Weeks, 6—3, 6—love. In coming through in the event for which Miss Louise Hammond holds the challenge cup, Miss Hamilton coupled on the bracket with Miss Adelaide Browning, who recorded a reversal of form by her defeat of the former national champion, Miss William H. Pouch, 6—3, 6—3.

In the lower half Miss Elizabeth H. Moore, the former champion, defeated her rival, Miss Edna Wildey, 6—4, 7—5. This was a match of lengthy drives for placement, in which each strove to outgeneral the other. In the men's singles the former holder of the cup, Henry J. Mollenhauer, maintained his place rather easily, defeating H. Shamberg, 6—1, 9—7, at a driving game. The summary:

Nyack Challenge Cup, Women's Singles.—First Round—Miss Adelaide Browning defeated Mrs. Louis S. Coe by default; Miss Elizabeth H. Moore defeated Miss Kerr by default.

BOB DOUGLASS'S STAKE.

Readville Horse Captures Trotting Derby Worth $10,000.

READVILLE, Mass., Aug. 30.—Two American harness handicap derbies, two minor heat events, and an unsuccessful attempt by C. K. G. Billings to drive his big black gelding Uhlan better than 2:01 to a wagon, marked the opening of the Grand Circuit to-day at the Readville track.

Bob Douglass, a local horse, won the $10,000 trotting derby from scratch. Aileen Wilson, another Boston entry with the same handicap, captured the derby for pacers, while Uhlan was beaten by one and three-quarter seconds by Old Father Time. Both the derbys were made in poor time, and the officials apologized in sending Uhlan over a slow track and against a heavy breeze.

In the pacing division of the derby, eleven horses pranced about at the various marks which ranged from 660 to 870 feet behind the wire. The gray gelding Wee Lad made the pace to the half, but a break gave Northern Spy a chance to come up. Then Cox sent Aileen Wilson into the lead and won by six lengths.

The trotting division had fourteen horses, with Sonoma Girl, and Bob Douglass at scratch. Jim Ferry led the field at the wire. At the half Bob Douglass nailed the leaders, and had three lengths lead at the finish, with Oxford Boy, Jr., beating out Alice Roosevelt for second place, while Sonoma Girl, was a close fourth. Uhlan trotted the first quarter in 0:29¾, and the half in 1:00 flat. When the three-quarter was reached in 1:30¼, there seemed a chance, but the pace was too swift, and the last quarter was made in 0:32.

The 2:10 pace was taken by Lady Isle, in straight heats. Gamar captured the 2:08 trot without efforts. The summaries:

Men's and Boys' Knitted Gloves Held Not to be "Wearing Apparel."

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that men's and boys' cotton gloves are not to be regarded, under the terms of the tariff act of 1909, as "cotton wearing apparel," as claimed by Sullivan & Co. and R. W. Hilliard, the importers of the goods.

Collector Loeb took duty at the rate of 50 cents per dozen pairs and 40 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 328 of the law enacted last year, which specifies "men's and boys' cotton gloves, knitted, valued at not more than $6 per dozen pairs." The importers' contention for classification of the merchandise as "wearing apparel" was made under paragraph 324, and calls for a tax of only 50 per cent. on the value of the gloves.

In the course of his opinion written for the board, General Appraiser Cooper, after quoting authorities, reaches the conclusion that the intent of Congress is given effect by the classification imposed by the Collector, the protests being accordingly overruled. The gloves in question are not knitted to form, but made from a knitted fabric by cutting or stamping out patterns and sewing them together. The edges at the wrists are hemmed, and in the Hilliard case there is an elastic band sewed on the inner side of the wrists.

Counsel for the importers contended before the board for such a construction and interpretation of the word "knitted" as would, according to the General Appraiser, exclude these gloves and include only such as are wholly, or as nearly as possible, knitted into form as a glove on a frame or knitting machine. The decision says that the meaning of "knitted gloves" as contended for by the importers seems to the board to be a "predestined interpretation." According to the board, a sound interpretation in good faith to put into effect the meaning of Congress would be to hold that "knitted gloves" are gloves wholly or partly knitted whereln the principal factor is the knitting.

The board's dicision says that it has been uniformly held by the Supreme Court, as well as by the other courts and the board, that a provision for manufacturers of a material was not limited to manufactures composed wholly of that material. By analogy the board holds that "knitted" gloves should be held to include gloves partially knitted, unless the knitting is considered a minor element. In this case the customs tribunal considers the knitting the chief element.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

FINK & CO.—Judge Hough has appointed W. C. Low receiver for Fink & Co., manufacturers of women's hats at 17 Bleecker Street, and fixed his bond at $500.

SHERMAN WAGER.—Sherman Wager, an agent or manager, at 711 East 220th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy as a poor person with liabilities of $3,111 and no assets.

GLASGAL & ACKERMAN.—Judge Hough has appointed John Gruenberg receiver for Glasgal & Ackerman, manufacturers of furs at 28 West Fifteenth Street, and fixed his bond at $500.

SERAFINO MANFREDONIA.—Serafino Manfredonia, a liquor dealer at 2,287 First Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $1,242 and assets of $1,150, of which $900 is represented as stock in trade.

ROCKLAND HYGEIA ICE COMPANY.—The Rockland Hygeia Ice Company of Nyack, N. Y., has filed schedules in bankruptcy here with liabilities of $41,626, of which $21,431 is secured claims and $19,855 unsecured claims, and assets of $14,500, consisting of real estate $12,000, and machinery, &c., $2,000.

EMPIRE HAT WORKS.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Empire Hat Works, manufacturers of hats at 147 West Twenty-sixth Street, by Marcel Olivier & Co., $1,221; John Zimmerman Company, $1,471, and Edward C. Brennan, $62. The probable value of the assets is said to be about $3,500, while the liabilities are estimated at over $1,000.

BERLINER CLOAK COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Abraham Berliner and Hyman Lembert, copartners trading under the firm name of the Berliner Cloak Company, manufacturers of cloaks at 35 Wooster Street, by the United Cotton and Dress Goods Company, $229; Simon Brothers, $191, and Reich Brothers, $131. The liabilities are said to be upward of $1,000 and the assets about $5,000. N. A. Prentiss is designated as special master.

M. A. THOMAS COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against M. A. Thomas Company, shoes, with stores in the Platiron Building, Broadway and Twenty-third Street, and in the Marbridge Building, Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street, by William Lane, Inc., $6,479; James Donohue, $126, and Alfred E. Hoermann, $11. The assets are believed to be about $5,000. P. B. Olney has been designated as special master. Judge Hough has appointed F. A. Bangs receiver and fixed his bond at $2,000.

CASTLE BRAID COMPANY.—Judge Hough has confirmed a composition with the creditors of the Castle Braid Company of 682 Broadway by which they agreed to take notes for the balance of their claims of 50 per cent., as they have already received dividends of 50 per cent. The notes mature yearly for the next five years. The matter has been the subject of long litigation. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the company on July 10, 1905, when the liabilities were $453,000 and the assets $353,000. Edward S. Thomas, who was appointed receiver and was afterward elected trustee, has carried on the business ever since very profitably for the creditors, and the indebtedness is said to have been reduced to $180,000. The composition was objected to by Joseph W. and Meyer Schloss, who have claims against the company, and was favored by their brother, Henry W. Schloss, President of the company, and the question of theeir rights in the settlement has been thrashed out before two referees in bankruptcy during the past three months.

There is no more delightful season in which to visit these mountain resorts in Monroe and Pike Counties, Pennsylvania, than August and September. Lackawanna trains reach them every day in from two to three hours. The changing foliage, mountain walks and drives, golf, tennis, fishing and boating add their pleasure to the lovely Autumn environment. Hotels and boarding houses will remain open until late in the season.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Market Shows Signs of Renewed Activity—C. A. Gould House on Fifth Avenue Leased for Business—Phenix Building Sold for Half Million.

There was a decided improvement in the tone of the realty market, and the volume of business transacted yesterday as compared with the past few days.

An interesting Fifth Avenue lease in the residential section was signed by a French perfumery firm and there were several important sales on the upper west side.

The Bronx also shared in the revival, several apartment houses and plots being sold to builders and speculators, while in Brooklyn the Phenix Building, facing City Hall, was sold for about a half million dollars.

Gould Residence Leased for Business

A further addition to the business interests on Fifth Avenue in the vicinity of the Vanderbilt houses was made yesterday by the leasing of the Charles A. Gould residence, 714 Fifth Avenue, through the Cross & Brown Company to a French perfumery firm. Alterations will be made at once preparatory to opening the house as a retail store.

Adjoining the house to the north is the old Zabriskie residence, now being altered for business, and just beyond is the Baudouine house, which is being converted into an art gallery for Duveen Brothers. South of the Gould house, at 712, is the former parsonage of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, which was altered for business about three years ago. This entire block, therefore, on the west side of Fifth Avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Streets, except the church property on the Fifty-fifth Street corner is now devoted to business.

Sale of Astor Leasehold.

John T. Wall has sold in conjunction with John K. Moors the Astor leasehold, at 725 Eighth Avenue for Jacob Dohrmann to Henry B. Mahler, who occupies the store and basement for business of confectioner.

Business Development on West 72d Street.

Ellen A. Slaven has sold through Slawson & Hobbs 119 West Seventy-second Street, a four-story and basement stone front dwelling, on a lot, 20 by 102.2, between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues. The buyer will occupy. A number of houses in this block have been altered this year for business occupancy, and it is said that several others will be put to the same use shortly.

Jack Norworth Buys Dwelling.

Jack Norworth, the actor, has purchased from Herman Runkel 624 West End Avenue, a three and one-half story dwelling, on lot 19 by 100, between Ninetieth and Ninety-first Streets. Mr. Norworth has occupied the house under lease, having secured it through F. R. Wood & Co., who negotiated the sale.

895 West End Avenue Sold.

The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company has sold for Janet E. Patterson to a client of Mooyer & Marston 895 West End Avenue, between 103d and 104th Streets, a three-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 82.

Sale on East 84th Street.

The F. Dornberger Realty Company has sold for Mrs. N. Trumbull to M. Kann the front and rear buildings and lot known as 147 East Eighty-fourth Street.

Investor Buys Manhattan Ave. Flat.

Theodore Ortmann has sold for Samuel Lederer the five-story double flat, 23 Manhattan Avenue, on a lot, 27 by 100, to a client for investment.

Buyer of West 131st Street Plot.

The recently reported sale of the plot, 75 by 100 feet, on the south side of 131st Street, 125 feet east of Twelfth Avenue, owned by the Geraldine Realty Company, and also abutting lot, 25 by 100 feet, on the north side of 130th Street, was effected by the Gross & Gross Company.

The buyer is Frederick F. Sampson, who has also acquired through the same brokers the two remaining lots on 130th Street, 125 feet east of Twelfth Avenue, and now controls a plot of 75 by 200 feet. Negotiations are well under way for the resale of this property.

Big Deal in East Bronx.

Tillie Frank has sold the plot 200 by 100 on the west side of Southern Boulevard, 125 feet south of 173d Street, to the Herman & Weissman Construction Company, through Alexander Selkin.

This property was acquired by the present seller last May from the estate of Leo Hutter. The buyers will erect immediately on the site five five-story forty-foot apartment house with accommodations for five families on a floor.

Bronx Sales.

Alvin Friedberg has sold for Gottlelb W. Graeber the five-story double flat 517 East 146th Street, adjoining the northeast corner of Brook Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100, to a client.

The same broker has also sold for Mrs. Julia Dunkak, the three-story brick three-family house 416 East 173d Street, on a lot 20 by 100.

Ernst & Cahn have sold for Mary J. Martin to a client 2,540 Grand Avenue, a two-and-one-half-story private dwelling, on plot 50 by 100.

The Minuit Realty Company has sold the six-story apartment house 1,051 Boston Road, near 165th Street. The structure occupies a plot 71.9 by 117.8 by 67.9 by 116.6, and was acquired by the sellers last June.

Edward Polak has sold for Louis E. Kleban to a Mr. Hillion the two-story frame dwelling on a plot 50 by 100 on the south side of 173d Street, 100 feet east of Park Avenue.

Phenix Building Sold.

One of the largest realty transactions in Brooklyn for some time was the sale yesterday by V. F. Pelletreau and ex-Senator Charles Cooper of the eight-story Phenix office building at 18 to 22 Court Street, facing the City Hall. The consideration was about $550,000. The buyer was Bernard Naumberg of the law firm of Liebmann, Naumberg & Tanzer. The realty carries a mortgage of $375,000, and was acquired by the sellers about two years ago from the Phenix Insurance Company.

Suburban Sales.

Steven B. Ayres and Frank S. Beavis have sold for the Wheeler Corporation Lot 36, Hillside Avenue, Mount Vernon, to a builder for immediate improvement.

Steven B. Ayres and P. S. Brower have sold to Robert Tomai Lot 5 in Section C, Bernards Plateau, Bernardsville, N. J.

Title Insurance Co. Loans $580,000.

William A. White & Sons have secured for the Highwood Realty Company, from the Title Insurance Company of New York, two loans of $140,000 each, covering premises on the south side of 157th Street, east of Broadway. These properties have been recently improved with two six-story elevator apartments.

Frederick Zittel & Sons have secured for Paterno Brothers from the same company, a loan of $300,000, covering premises at the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 116th Street. Paterno Brothers have just improved the opposite corner with a similar high-class fire-proof apartment.

Big Factory for Jersey City.

Architects John T. Rowland, Jr., and Frank Eurich are receiving bids on the superstructure for the box factory which will be erected by the Mengel Box Company of Louisville, Ky., at Hackensack, Lessing and Bancroft Avenues, in the Marion section of Jersey City. The building will be of reinforced concrete construction, one story in height, and will measure 353 by 123 feet.

Notes.

There will be a meeting of the Property Owners' Association of the Twenty-third Ward Friday evening, Sept. 2, at Protection Hall, Courtlandt Avenue and 152d Street.

Justice Brady of the Supreme Court has appointed Joseph E. Cosgrove receiver of the rents of 317 East 100th Street, a tenement, pending a suit brought by Ernestine Harris and others to foreclose a mortgage of $9,000.

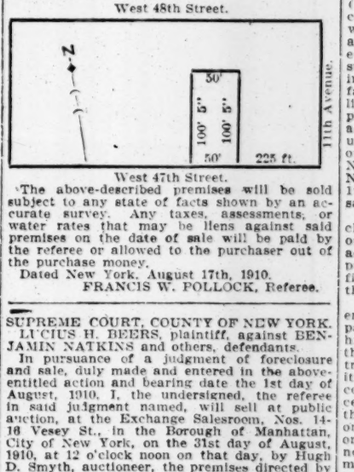
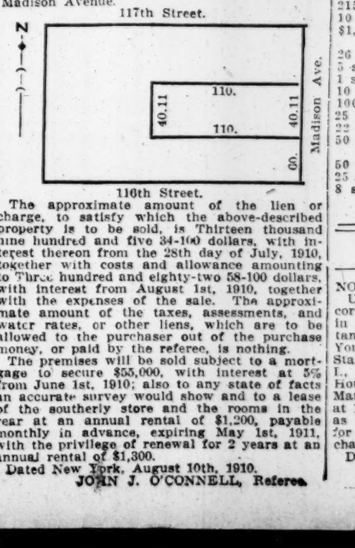
REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—WILLIAM ESSELBORN, Plaintiff, against EMIL ESSELBORN et al., Defendants.
In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, dated August 12th, 1910, and entered herein in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York on August 15th, 1910, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 15th day of September, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:
All those two certain pieces or parcels of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situated in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point in the northerly side of 47th Street distant 225 feet west of the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of 11th Avenue with the said northerly side of 47th Street, running thence northerly and parallel with 11th Avenue 100 feet and 6 inches, more or less, to the centre line of the block between 47th and 48th Streets; thence westerly along said centre line 50 feet; thence southerly and parallel with 11th Avenue 100 feet 5 inches, more or less, to the northerly side of 47th Street, and thence easterly along the said northerly side of 47th Street 50 feet to the point or place of beginning. Said premises are known by the street numbers 613 and 615 West 47th Street.
Dated New York, August 17th, 1910.
FRANCIS W. POLLOCK, Referee.
JOSEPH H. HAYES, Attorney for Plaintiff, 42 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.
HON. EDWARD R. O'MALLEY, Attorney General and Attorney for Defendant, The People of the State of New York.
H. C. KUDLICH, Esq., Attorney for Defendant Emil Esselborn.
JOSEPH J. HARRIS, Esq., Attorney for Defendant John C. Forster.
The following is a diagram of the property to be sold, its street numbers being 613 and 615 West 47th Street, as aforesaid:



The above-described premises will be sold subject to any state of facts shown by an accurate survey. Any taxes, assessments, or water rates that may be liens against said premises on the date of sale will be paid by the referee or allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money.
Dated New York, August 17th, 1910.
FRANCIS W. POLLOCK, Referee.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.
LUCIUS H. BEERS, plaintiff, against BENJAMIN WATKINS and others, defendants.
In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 1st day of August, 1910, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey St., in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 31st day of August, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Hugh D. Smyth, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:
All those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:
Beginning at a point in the westerly side of Madison Avenue, distant sixty (60) feet northerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Madison Avenue with the northerly side of 116th Street; running thence westerly parallel with said 116th Street, one hundred ten (110) feet; thence northerly parallel with said Madison Avenue, forty (40) feet eleven (11) inches to the centre line of the block between 116th and 117th Streets; thence easterly and again parallel with said 116th Street, and along said centre line of the block, one hundred and ten (110) feet to the westerly side of Madison Avenue, and thence southerly along said westerly side of Madison Avenue, forty (40) feet eleven (11) inches to the point or place of beginning.
Dated New York, August 10th, 1910.
JOHN J. O'CONNELL, Referee.
HENRY de FOREST BALDWIN, Attorney for Plaintiff, 49 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.
The following is a diagram of the property to be sold, its street numbers are 1,772 and 1,774 Madison Avenue.



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is Thirteen thousand nine hundred and five 34-100 dollars, with interest thereon from the 28th day of July, 1910, together with costs and allowance amounting to Three hundred and eighty-two 58-100 dollars, with interest from August 1st, 1910, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is nothing.
The premises will be sold subject to a mortgage to secure $55,000, with interest at 5% from June 1st, 1910; also to any state of facts an accurate survey would show and to a lease of the southerly store and the rooms in the rear at an annual rental of $1,200, payable monthly in advance, expiring May 1st, 1911, with the privilege of renewal for 2 years at an annual rental of $1,300.
Dated New York, August 10th, 1910.
JOHN J. O'CONNELL, Referee.

AUCTION SALES

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT Default having been made in the payment of instalments of interest upon the First Mortgage Collateral Trust Five Per Cent. Thirty-Year Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of Southern Electric Securities Company, issued under its mortgage to the undersigned, as Trustee, dated May 23d, 1904, for more than three months after such instalments respectively became due, to wit, on October 1st, 1909, and on April 1st, 1910, the undersigned, as such Trustee, pursuant to the terms of said mortgage, will, by Adrian H. Muller & Son, Auctioneers, offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the 12th day of October, 1910, at 12:30 P. M. on said day, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, at the Exchange Salesroom, 14 and 16 Vesey Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, the following:
PARCEL I.
$100,000 First Mortgage Bonds of the Beaumont Traction Company, a Texas corporation, secured by mortgage to Missouri Trust Company of St. Louis, with the coupons of October 1, 1909, and all subsequent coupons attached.
6,000 shares of the capital stock of the said Beaumont Traction Company, of the par value of $100 each.
$266,000 First Mortgage Bonds of the Southern Light and Traction Company, a Louisiana corporation, secured by mortgage to the Interstate Trust & Banking Company of New Orleans, with the coupons of October 15, 1909, and all subsequent coupons attached.
$60,000 First Mortgage Bonds of the Jennings Electric Light & Power Company, Ltd., a Louisiana corporation, secured by mortgage to the Interstate Trust & Banking Company of New Orleans, with the coupons of January 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons attached.
800 shares of the capital stock of said Jennings Electric Light & Power Company, Ltd., of the par value of $50 each.
$32,000 First Mortgage Bonds of the Vicksburg Railway and Light Company, a Mississippi corporation, secured by mortgage to Interstate Trust & Banking Company of New Orleans, with the coupons of January 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons attached.
8,750 shares of the capital stock of said Vicksburg Railway and Light Company, of the par value of $100 each.
In case the purchase price of Parcel I shall be insufficient to pay the full amount of principal and accrued interest upon the bonds issued and outstanding under the aforesaid mortgage of the Southern Electric Securities Company, and all other sums due under said mortgage, then there shall also be so offered for sale the following:
PARCEL II.
340 shares of the capital stock of the Southern Railway and Light Company, a Louisiana corporation, of the par value of $100 each.
In case of the sale of each of said Parcels I and II:
(a) The bid of the highest bidder shall be accepted, but before the property is struck off such bidder will be required to pay on account of the purchase price twenty per cent. (20%) thereof in cash, or ten per cent. (10%) in cash and twenty-five per cent. (25%) in bonds of the Southern Electric Securities Company under its said mortgage, with the coupons of October 1st, 1909, and all subsequent coupons attached. In the event of the highest bidder failing to make such payment, the property will be again immediately offered for sale, and if the bidder failing to make such payment will be held liable for any deficiency. The balance of the purchase price will be required to be paid and the property sold will be delivered to or upon the order of the purchaser at the office of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, No. 60 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, on the 15th day of October, 1910, at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon of said day.
(b) In the event of the failure of the purchaser so to make payment of the balance of the purchase price, the amount paid on account thereof shall be forfeited and the purchaser will be held liable for any deficiency arising upon the re-sale and all the expenses thereof.
(c) Any purchaser or purchasers shall be entitled to turn in, use and apply, in making payment of the purchase money by or for him or them bidden upon such sale, any of the bonds or coupons of the Southern Electric Securities Company outstanding under its said mortgage, reckoning such bonds or coupons for such purpose at a sum not exceeding that which shall be payable out of the net proceeds of such sale to the holder or holders of such bonds or coupons for his or their just share in that character of such net proceeds of sale under due apportionment of and accounting concerning such net proceeds, after provision is made for the payment in cash of the expenses of such sale.

Lost and Found.

In the issue of The New York Times of August 26th this advertisement appeared:

LOST—In ladies' wash room at Altman's, 14-karat seal ring, initials A. A. F.; inside was the word "Jim" in brackets; reward. Brown, 32 Nassau St., Room 906.

On August 28th Mr. J. M. Brown, Jr., wrote as follows:

The New York Times:
It was solely through the agency of The Times that I recovered a ring of great sentimental value, after having advertised it twice. Yours very truly, J. M. BROWN, 53 Hart St., Brooklyn.

If lost to-day advertise to-morrow. Promptness aids recovery. Telephone 1000 Bryant. The Times will write and print your advertisement. Cost is little.

ADVERTISE FOUND ARTICLES.

THE LAW.

"A person who finds lost property under circumstances which give him knowledge or means of inquiring as to the true owner, and who appropriates such property to his own use or to the use of another person who is not entitled thereto, without first having made every reasonable effort to find the owner and restore the property to him, is guilty of larceny."
—New York State Penal Law.

The cost of a Lost or Found advertisement is very little. Lost articles should be advertised as promptly as possible because it aids discovery. Telephone 1000 Bryant. The Times will write and print your advertisement.

LOST COSTLY JEWELS ON ATLANTIC LINER

Miss Davis Says $4,000 in Gems Were Taken from Her Room on Kaiser Wilhelm II.

DETECTIVES SEARCH SHIP

Sleuths Summoned by Wireless Fail to Find Any Trace of Missing Valuables or Thief Who Took Them.

Miss Ethel Mae Davis of 4,032 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, who arrived in Hoboken on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. from Bremen yesterday, says that on the voyage she lost jewelry valued at more than $4,000. The jewels, she says, were taken from her stateroom early Monday morning while she was bathing. Mrs. James S. Rogers, also of Chicago, Miss Davis's traveling companion, was asleep at the time, and so quietly did the thief work that she was not awakened.

Soon after she discovered that her jewelry was missing, Miss Davis, on the advice of a fellow-passenger, sent a wireless message to a detective agency in this city and asked that a sleuth be sent to meet the ship. Capt. Cuppers of the liner, to whom Miss Davis told of her loss, also sent a wireless to New York, and a detective met the vessel on behalf of the line also. Both detectives made a thorough search of the ship and questioned stewards and several of the passengers, but neither was able to dig up a clue that would cast suspicion on anybody on board either in the crew or among the passengers.

Miss Davis said that she arose Monday morning about 6 o'clock and went to the bathroom for a cold shower. She was away from the stateroom but a short time, she said, yet in that period her jewelry was taken. She left the door open, leaving the curtain in place, so as to screen from view Mrs. Rodgers, who was still asleep. The jewels, she says, were in a small bag made for the purpose, which on retiring she had put on a table near her berth. She is sure the bag was still there when she got up Monday morning to have her bath.

When she got back to her stateroom and found that the jewel bag was missing Miss Davis screamed, and her cries were heard by several of the stewards, who ran to the room. Mrs. Rodgers was wide awake by this time, and the two women and the steward to whom was asigned the care of the stateroom made a thorough search of the room, but they were unable to find a trace of the missing bag.

Miss Davis and Mrs. Rodgers told Capt. Cuppers what had happened, and the skipper immediately ordered the ship searched from stem to stern and all suspicious-looking persons, if there were any on board, watched. Miss Davis said that these pieces of jewelry were stolen:

One double diamond bracelet, made into a necklace, valued at $1,200.
One diamond ring valued at $750.
One diamond and sapphire ring valued at $600.
One chatelaine gold bag valued at $180.
A jeweled vanity box valued at $150.
One diamond ring valued at $250.
One gold watch valued at $75.
An amethyst and pearl brooch valued at $60.

Other pieces of less valuable jewelry, a French bank note for 500 francs, and $120 in American money brought the total of Miss Davis's loss, according to her statement, to about $4,000. When the Kaiser Wilhelm arrived in Quarantine yesterday morning Detective Renk, who was sent down in response to Miss Davis's wireless message, met the liner. The detective who was there in behalf of the North German Lloyd also went on board at Quarantine.

Renk, as soon as he got on board, hurried to the stateroom of Miss Davis and Mrs. Rodgers and the three had a long talk about the lost jewelry.

After he had questioned the women Renk went about the ship looking over the passengers and the crew, but he saw among them no familiar faces nor any that answered descriptions of criminals that he had known. The search of the other detective was just as barren so far as clues were concerned.

There was one passenger on board, a young man named Goldman, who was held up by the immigration authorities by request of the Berlin authorities, who was taken before the women, but both declared that they had no reason whatever to suspect him of knowing anything about the lost jewelry. Goldman said he was a crude oil broker and that he had no idea why the Berlin authorities had cabled to have him detained. The immigration inspectors said that the cablegram ordering his detention did not go into details, and that they were ignorant of the reason for it.

At the North German Lloyd offices in New York it was said that Capt. Cuppers had reported all the facts in the Davis case to the New York office by wireless. The company, it was explained, keeps a safe aboard all liners for the use of passengers and is responsible only for such things as are lost out of that safe.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Miss Davis, who says she lost her jewels on the Kaiser Wilhelm, has been an actress. At 4,032 Michigan Avenue a woman who said she was Miss Davis's mother said she had received a telegram from her daughter and that she would be in Chicago to-morrow night, but the telegram said nothing of any robbery.

"My daughter carried $6,000 worth of jewels with her, but she said nothing about losing any of them," said Mrs. Davis.

A servant said that Miss Davis had been a chorus girl and had gone to London two months ago to see about signing a contract to travel with a theatrical company through Europe.

"My Son Having Failed Completely" in his preliminary examinations for college, entered your school and in one year he covered two regular school years of work as is done at most schools, and not only passed his examinations easily for college, but also with credit to himself and his school."
This extract of a letter from the mother of a recent student is one of a hundred or more, valued by Mr. Groff, showing the high grade of success he has had for thirteen years, following the idea that the individual, and not the class, is the unit.

Timid, nervous and backward boys are encouraged and taught how to study. Bright boys advanced rapidly and thoroughly. No cramming. Secret is to make an hour count for an hour under expert teachers and an up-to-date system. The definite policy is to gain the real interest of the boys in their work, thereby making petty restrictions unnecessary.
Mr. Groff's close personal attention devoted to the two schools. Headmasters of both schools now in their offices.

Ethical Culture School
Central Park West and Sixty-third St., New York City
Kindergarten, Elementary
High School and Normal Departments
Founded thirty-one years ago by Felix Adler.

To meet the growing demand for places in our Elementary School, steps have been taken to accommodate about forty more pupils than formerly in Grades III—VII inclusive. Parents wishing to take advantage of this enlargement should apply without delay.
The following are some of the noteworthy features.

A Country Camp, to promote out-door life and interest;
Wholesome athletic sports and games;
Co-education, with its advantage in approximating to the family type;
School Festivals under the direction of Mr. Percival Chubb;
Direct and specific ethical instruction by Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott;
The democratic ideal maintained by a system of scholarships which afford the advantage of contact with companions in different financial circumstances.

In the upper grades and the High School, classes do not exceed 20 pupils; thus the instructors are able to give proper attention to individuals. By means of a broad course of study, a large and well trained teaching staff, and a complete modern equipment in all departments, the School prepares students for various life callings as well as for any college or technical institution.
The School has certificate privileges in colleges where certificates are accepted.
